Egypt-Israel

Missile Fire Exchanged

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel and Egypt exchanged missile fire along the Suez Canal today in the most serious outbreak of Middle East fighting since a U.S.-sponsored ceasefire went into effect 13 months ago.

The Israeli military command claimed Egyptians opened fire with Soviet-supplied ground-to-air missiles against Israeli warplanes flying over the occupied Sinai Desert. The Israelis said their jets returned the Egyptian fire but made no mention of crossing the canal into Egyptian airspace.

A military spokesman in Cairo, however, said the firing began when a formation of Israeli Phantom jets blasted Egyptian positions with a number of Shrike rockets. Egypt said the Israeli attacks took place about six miles inside the Isreali-held Sinai Desert.

The Cairo spokesman said the Israeli rockets caused no casualties or damage. The Israeli command did not say whether any of its planes were hit by the Egyptian antiaircraft missiles.

The hostilities along the Suez, which has been free of major fighting since the cease-fire began on Aug. 7, 1970, coincided with a burst of fighting reported by Lebanon near its border with Israel.

The Lebanese military command said Israeli soldiers opened fire on the village of Rmaich, about 2½ miles from the border. A spokesman said the firing followed gunfire on the Israeli side of the border, presumably between Palestinian guerrillas and the Israelis.

The missile exchange further charged the 103-mile-long Suez Canal with tension. Israeli and Egyptian troops already were on the alert because of the downing of an Israeli transport plane by Egyptian air defenses.

The Israeli state radio, quoting official military sources, said Egyptian troops "went on a full scale alert with soldiers donning helmets." It added that "Israeli troops also were at appropriate readiness."

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said the attack on the plane Friday was an act of provocation, but that the question of retaliation required some thought.

A Soviet-made antiaircraft missile hit the U.S. - built Stratocruiser over the Sinai desert, and it crashed in flames 15 miles east of the Suez Canal, the Isreali military command reported.

It said seven of the eight members of the four-engien transport's crew were missing and one parachuted to safety.

The Isrealis said the plane was carrying "cargo" and was making a routine trip parallel to the waterway but not near it. The Suez marks the cease-fire line between Egypt and Isreal.

Egypt at first claimed the craft was a Phantom fighter-bomber on a reconnaisance mission over Egyptian territory, but later acknowledged it was a transport.

The loss brought to 17 the number of aircraft the Isrealis say the Egyptians have shot down along the canal since the 1967 Middle Eastwar. But it was the first reported loss since the cease-fire went into effect in August 1970.

Dayan, said in a nationwide television broadcast that the incident was "blatantly belligerent and provocative." He said it was "planned and initiated by the Egyptians," who know that Israeli transports fly in the area from time to time.

Electrical Charge Fatal For Rickie Holyfield

Rickie Holyfield, 21, was killed Friday afternoon in his father's airplane hanger, apparent victim of electrocution.

A preliminary autopsy conducted by Dr. Robert Ahlvin, staff pathologist at the Missouri Delta Community hospital this morning, indicated Holyfield died from the shock on a 440-volt hoist on which he was working. His death came while working at the hanger, four miles north of Sikeston off Interstate 55.

Coroner Gene Nunnelee said at least three theories of the death have been "ruled out" and doctors at the emergency room of the hospital Friday indicated the boy may have died from a vascular disorder, possibly a cerebral hemorrhage.

Holyfield was installing chrome electroplating equipment early Friday afternoon when a fellow worker, Sonny Heacox, noticed him lying on the floor. Nunnelee's preliminary investigation discounted the possibility of death by electrocution.

Rickie Holyfield

Nunnelee said a more complete examination this morning disclosed two small areas on Holyfield's palms, which indicated an electrical shock had entered his body.

Nunnelee said a further investigation is being conducted, but added that it is believed the findings will verify this morning's autopsy announcement.

A full report on the autopsy's findings will be presented next week.

Jim Statler, supervisor of the installation, administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, but Nunnelee said the boy apparently was dead at the time.

The initial theory of the death indicated Holyfield might have come in contact with a highly poisonous chemical stored in the electroplating equipment. An investigation by workers, Nunnelee and depty Sheriff Gerald Inman disclosed the chemicals were in another section of the hanger and in their original shipping cartons.

The young man died at 1:15 p.m. following his return to work from his lunch break. Food poisoning

Hearing Date to Be Set in Suit

BLOOMFIELD - Stoddard County Circuit Judge William H. Billings Monday is expected to set a date for a hearing on a writ for habeas corpus in which Michael T. Geoghegan, 22, of St. Louis, claims he should be freed from confinement in the Stoddard county jail at Bloomfield because of unsuitable jail conditions.

Georghegan, who is serving a one-year sentence for possession of marijuana and LSD, charged in the suit filed Tuesday that the jail is "filthy and crowded" and that he fears bodily harm because of acts of sodomy there.

One of his complaints was about the jail's diet. Georghegan said he has been served a boloney sandwich for dinner every night since he was failed in August of 1970. He was a student at Southeast Missouri College at Cape Girardeau where he was arrested on the drug charge.

The young prisoner also has filed a $30,000 damage suit against Sheriff Edsel Edwards and the Stoddard County Court.

Prosecuting Attorney Paul McGhee said the accused have 30 days to file a reply to the suit.

Hearnes Political Plans to Be Told

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said Friday he will disclose his future political plans here next week but refused to discuss the resignation of all members of the State Board of Training Schools.

Hearnes stopped off in St. Louis on his way back to the capitol Friday after attending the National Governor's Conference in Puerto Rico and meeting with President Nixon in Washington.

Hearnes told newsmen at the airport in St. Louis that he will announce his political plans at a Truman Day Democratic meeting in St. Louis Sept. 24-25.

Hearnes, who leaves office in January 1973, has been mentioned as a possible congressional candidate in southeastern Missouri.

Asked about the resignations of the state board members, Hearnes said only "no comment" or "I have nothing to say."

All six members of the training school board sent their resignations to Hearnes the day before he left for the governor's conference.

A Monarchy Celebrates Its 2,500th Birthday

PERSEPOLIS, Iran (AP) — Iran, pausing this October to honor the founding of its 2,500-year-old monarchy, is fast gliding into the modern world on a swelling tide of oil.

Kings, queens, presidents and other world figures will come in October to celebrate the anniversary as guests of the Shah of Iran, Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, and Empress Farah.

They will stay in a sumptuous tent city equipped with marble baths, Persian rugs and a $275 million communications system.

The thousand and one nights legacy, however, is only half of Iran.

The other half is encountered traveling through its oasis towns, the oil fields, the lush farmlands of the Caspian Sea coast, the populous cities and a silvery steel mill.

Cyrus the Great was firmly in control when he founded the ancient Persian empire, which stretched from the Mediterranean to India, from Egypt to the Black Sea. But what Cyrus won with the sword, he ruled with what may be the first declaration of human rights. It decreed religious tolerance, freedom from slarvery and the right to different local customs.

The Old Testament praises Cyrus for releasing 40,000 Jews from Babylonian captivity so that they could rebuild the Temple of Solomon at Jerusalem.

He also promoted trade, built an empire-wide road network, introduced a monetary system and adroitly ran a decentralized administration and tax collection system.

Today's shah is also the undisputed boss. The shah does not reign; he-rules.

He does it with 10-year old "White (for bloodless) Revolution," which is intended to extract Iran from the feudalism, internal disputes, corruption, foreign influence and poverty of her more recent, and less glorious, past.

The most important item in the "White Revolution" is land reform. Land has been distributed to one-time tenant farmers and some 9,000 cooperatives formed.

Now, with U.S. methods and Isreali, advisors, the emphasis is on setting up modern agro-business companies and mechanizing the farms.

Other points in the shah's program are health care, a literacy campaign, emancipation of women, rural education, profit sharing, better communications and industrialization.

The money to pay for it flows from the oil fields at the Persian Gulf. One billion dollars, half of the national budget, will be Iran's share of this year's profits.

Iran is the biggest oil producer in the Middle East and fourth in world production, trailing the United States, the Soviet Union and Venezuela.

The economic principle of the shah's revolution is NOT to distribute the oil profits among the people directly (current per capita annual income is $330), but to use them to modernize agricultural production and industrialize.

His theory is that this will help Iran stand on her own feet should the oil income slacken or even cease.

Iran remains a fascinating mixture of old and new.

Camel and donkey herds trudge past flames leaping from pipes near an oil well; supermarkets and high rises compete with old bazaars and lofty minarets;a girl in a bikini swims with her mother, who wears a black head-to-toe veil; tribesmen choose between horses and Japanese motorbikes.

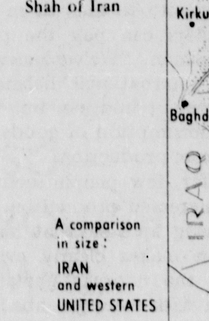

Islam is the state religion - imposed by an Arab invasion centuries ago. But Persia mellowed the faith, and most Iranians today adhere to a tolerant brand of Islam.

Some 40,000 Jews in Iran still adhere to their own faith, and Iran has stayed outside the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Not all Iranians, are happy with the scheme of things.

Some fear the outcome of such rapid progress and point to the West's problems. Caviar production, for example, is endangered by increasing pollution of the Caspian Sea.

Others would rather cash in on the oil today than build for the future

KEEP PANAMA CANAL ZONE UNDER U.S.

The United States is negotiating with Panama a treaty that would yield to that country the sovereign rights, power and authority of the United States over the Canal Zone. This sovereignty is now held in perpetuity by the United States under a treaty signed in 1903.

The ostensible aim of the new treaty is to give to the United States the right to build a sea-level canal through Panamanian territory at a cost of $2,880,000,000 (estimated in 1970) in addition to right of way and indemnity charges. Thus the United States would be deprived of its rights in a vital connecting link between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, in return for the dubious privilege of constructing at another enormous outlay of money another canal that is opposed by eminent scientists because of dangers to marine life.

The total net investment of the United States in the Panama Canal, including defense, is more than $5 billion. At a time when the country is tightening its belt in order to overcome imbalances in its domestic budget and its international commerce, the construction of a duplicate canal would be folly. Even worse would be the cession of territory that has been eyed by the dupes of Communist powers for years. The surrender of that critically important piece of land could be as dangerous to Panama as it would be to the United States. Let the Congress reject it.

In answer to the growing group of critics who have been assaulting the reputation of America, the National Association of Manufacturers quotes Mr. James M. Roche, chairman of General Motors Corporation: "The current disparagement of America holds many ironies. One is that the country is criticized for a relatively narrow area of shortcomings without credit for its broad range of achievements. For example, the nation is credited less with a superior system of public higher education than it is criticized for not making it freely available to all -- even the unqualified. The nation is credited less with an incomparable transportation system than it is faulted for its traffic jams. The nation is credited less with having two thirds of its families own their own homes than it is condemned for its slums. Many of today's problems are an outgrowth of yesterday's progress ... Some who criticize our system would substitute other systems which have fallen far short of ours. In most other countries the quality of our daily life is still no more than a hopeful vision. In those places, such criticims as we hear would be mere frivolities, idle pastimes of the academic. Where there are no roofs, there are no leaks."

I noticed that the headlines in the paper said that dissension is growing among the prison guards, as a result of the Attica, New York prison affair.

I down know whether Rockefeller had views, ideas or any orders to give on this, but I'm sorry that they called for the killing of nine guards and only thirty of the prisoners. It looks like this matter could have been settled by shooting down the prisoners to start with when they started contacting the guards. I think that whenever the prison officials decide it's time to quit fooling with the prisoners and shoot them just like dogs when they are mad, it won't be long before there will be anymore prison riots.

That's just the way I feel about this Judge in St. Louis who let Charlie Kohn out of his prison sentence because he was starving himself to death. It's a good thing that I wasn't the judge, because I'd let him starve to death. We'd been might happy for the State to pay for his burial and that would also stop these boys from going on hunger strikes.

ELECTION IN DENMARK

"The truest thing to say about Scandinavia," wrote Donald S. Connery (The Scandinavians, 1966), "is that people work for what they have, and work hard. And they are the first to say that what they have is far from ideal. They have social security, health benefits and good pensions, but they also have some of the highest taxes in the world." Currently adding to the less-than-ideal quality of life in the northern countries is some of the worst inflation in Europe. The economic crisis has compelled one of them, Denmark, to call a general election this fall.

The Danish election on Tuesday, Sept. 21, is "extraordinary," because a regularly scheduled election is not due until January. The practice of calling an election somewhat early is not unusual, however. All of the 179 seats in the Folketing, or parliament, are vulnerable. Inflation, an unfavorable balance of payments and strict controls on prices and profits will probably erode the support of the non-Socialist coalition now in power.

The Social Democratic party had held power in Denmark for over 14 years when the administration was forced to resign in December 1967, after devaluing the krone. It retained the largest number of seats after the 1968 election, but lost control of the government. Hilmar Baunsgaard, a Radical Liberal, became Prime Minister. Although Baunsgaard has held his coalition together well, public opinion polls indicate the election will be close. "I think we'll be back," he told The New York Times (May 23, 1971), "but the margin could be smaller."

The defeat of the Social Democrats did not mean the defeat of basic Social Democratic principles, such as a guaranteed minimum economic level for all. But economic troubles have forced some cutbacks in welfare spending. Old-age pensions, for example, will rise this year by only 3.5 per cent, instead of the planned 12 per cent. While some politicians rethink the welfare program, the newly-formed Christian People's Party is campaigning for the reform of the 1969 laws liberalizing abortion and ending all restrictions on pornography. The party aims to "renew our people, spiritually and morally," but the polls suggest it will attract only between 2 and 5 per cent of the vote.

CARVING PIE THAT HAS YET TO BE BAKED

"Reordering of national priorities" is being used repeatedly to create visions of a nation going about the business of choosing programs and projects that it wishes to undertake much as a householder goes about buying furniture, automobiles and other conveniences and necessities. The trouble is nations, particularly democratic nations, in periods of inflation and high government deficits do not behave in an orderly fashion let alone exercise prudence in public undertakings.

In a discussion of "New Priorities: What to Give Up?," George Melloan of The Wall Street Journal editorial-page staff deflates the idea that the U.S. is a vast reservoir of wealth and can buy its way into Utopia with a system of "priority." He stresses that a reordering of priorities will involve giving up one thing to achieve something else, rather than choosing between a number of desirable objectives.

Mr. Melloan draws on a just concluded study of the nation's federal budget projects for the next five years by the brookings Institution. The study reveals that between now and 1976, "... already programmed growth in existing federal programs will use up nearly all of the extra federal revenue generated by growth of the national economy ..." This includes the imaginary financial windfall resulting from the termination of the war in Vietnam. The study shows, for example, that cutbacks in defense cannot go much further. It forsees a gradual rise in defense spending in terms of constant dollars through 1976.

Writes Mr. Melloan, "For some time, the Brookings' study shows, the most rapid growth in federal spending has not been in defense, space travel and international affairs but in what Brookings calls "income maintenance' programs, in which, in effect, the government distributes money to its citizens. Under this heading would come Social Security, public assistance programs (including the very fast growing Aid to Families with Dependent Children), veterans' benefits, farm subsidies, Medicare, Medicaid and the like. In 1960, such programs accounted for $25 billion of the budget. They will account for $85 billion in the fiscal 1972 budget. That will almost equal the combined outlay for defense, space and international affairs..."

Another direction in which reordering of national priorities seems to have turned is environmental improvement through laws that shift the cost of pollution control to the shoulders of consumers through price increases. One leading businessman comments that many of the new demands on the private economy take little account of whether it has the capacity to mee them -- in other words, whether consumers can pay the price. In the words of this businessman, "We've learned to write erudite books about international balance of payments and full employment budgets, but too few people understand that consumption of goods or services can be fulfilled only from production..."

So far, few people seem inclined to be concerned with increased production. They are more interested in carving up a pie that has yet to be baked. What Mr. Melloan makes clearly evident is that in the years ahead, the nation's demands and wants cannot be bought with mere greenbacks. They must be met with what U.S. citizens are willing and able to produce.

THE EQUALIZER?

The author of a letter to the Wall Street Journal has a suggestion for AFL-CIO President George Meany, consumer advocate Ralph Nader and others who are complaining that the wage-price freeze is unfair to labor and favors business because there is no lid on profits.

Let's tie wages to profits, says William R. Bates of Elmhurst, Ill. If profits go up, wages go up. And if profits go down ...

The embarrassing fact is that wages have increased by some 35 per cent from 1965 to 1970. Prices, of course, are also up. But corporation profits, as a percentage of sales and after-tax income, are little changed overall, and many large employers are losing ground under inflationary conditions.

You needn't stand out of the way. There'll be no rush of union leaders to rally around the proposal.

A WISE INVESTMENT

A common fallacy concerning the space program is that landing men on the moon was a costly stunt wholly unrelated to earthly well - being. But, as Mr. Robert Anderson, exexutive vice president of the North American Rockwell Corporation, declared vehemently in an Address: "...space activities are not competing with programs of ecological improvement or social betterment. They are actually complementing them ....

"The sweeping scope of space technology will be felt more and more in the vast programs being planned to change the course of rivers and the flow of electricity over thousands of miles. It will reach into the purification of our waters and the desalting of the sea. It will have a bearing on the revitalization of our earth transportation system, and it will have a great influence in the field of medicine." Other direct beneficiaries of continuing advances in space will be urban arfairs, education, law enforcement and city planning.

Again in the words of Mr. Anderson: "We are in considerable trouble today. That trouble could be compounded as our technological society advances toward the year 2000 if we do not make use of the extraordinary new tools that are now within our grasp." These new tools are largely a by - product of the space program. They are the keys to the apparently insoluble riddle of an over - populated earth. The billions of dollars that have been spent on research and development of space technology could one day be recorded as the wisest public investment this nation has ever made.

PUBLICATION OF VIETNAM PAPERS

The Appeal editor has mixed emotions regarding the publication by the New York times and other newspapers of the Vietnam documents, which were supposed to be secret.

We believe it would be a dangerous precedent if our courts prohibit publication. These papers may contain some sections that would be dangerous to our national security, but those could be kept secret and the remainder of the documents published. We think this because the American people have the right to the full truth on what created the situation in which we find ourselves in Vietnam. Neither under the Johnson administration, nor under the present administration have we been given the whole truth. If we are to pay for the Vietnam war, and send our sons to fight and die in it, we have a right to know everything there is to know about it.

We also believe it is unfortunate that any American newspaper or other news media should feel it necessary to secure such documents in what may have been an illegal manner, and that the person who turned them over to the Times should be punished for taking them from government files without permission.

And while the fact we should know all the facts doesn't justify the actions of whoever pilfered the papers from government files and made them public, we also know that too often, documents are tabbed secret or highly confidential by officials who merely wish to cover up their own blunders, and not because of their desire to protect the national security.

Sometime, somewhere, a plan will be evolved under which nothing can be placed in the top- secret files without the consent of a reviewing board of men and women who have no interest other than the protection of our nation and not the protection of the reputation of individual officials. If such a system had been in effect when the Vietnam war started, the present rhubarb over the Vietnam papers would never have occurred, and the people who pay with both money and blood would have known all along the facts of the situation.

INDUSTRY ENDORSES ADMINISTRATION'S MONETARY POLICIES

The Administration's middel -of -the -road fiscal and monetary policies have been endorsed by the National Association of Manufacturers as the best antidote to inflation.

In a statement filed with the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, the NAM said that the "moderate posture" recommended by the President's Council of Economic Advisers would provide a good guide to desirable national fiscal and monetary policies for many years into the future.

"The qualities called for at this juncture are modesty, patience and a recognition of the limitations both of our economic wisdom and of the nation's econmic resources. Our present troubles are the result of behaving, in the 1960's, as though both wisdom and resources were limitless. We have suffered from the illusions that we possessed the skill to turn the economy quickly and painlessly, whenever desired, and the productive capacity to provide for whatever new government programs sounded good."

In endorsing the present Administration's policies, the NAM identified them as a moderate posture in the fiscal area — that is, a modest surplus in the unified budget in fiscal 1971. In the monetary area, it is taken to mean a rate of monetary expansion somewhere between the highly expansionary rate of 1967-68 and the highly restrictive rate of the last half of 1969.

THE THANKLESS POST

The New York Times editorializes that the Nixon administration is ultimately more to blame for the strike against General Motors than either the company or the workers because it has failed to curb the wage - price spiral.

The President is faulted for playing "economic ostrich" by not even trying to "jawbone" workers out of seeking inflationary wage hikes.

Thus to catch up with inflation the autoworkers have called a strike which, if prolonged, warns the Times, could reverse the moderate upturn in the economy and further depress employment, as well as wreck GM's hopes for its new small car.

It is not clear who is to blame for the fact that the upturn in the economy, now in danger of being reversed, was only "moderate."

Similarly, a syndicated columnist has put his finger on the real cause of the trouble in the Mideast. It is, he says, the "ineptly conceived" Nixon administration peace plan.

The Palestinian guerrillas, alarmed at the prospect of a peace which made no provision for the obliteration of Israel, had no choice but to start hijacking airliners and to bring Jordan to civil war.

Presumably, too, had the President not pressed for a cease - fire between Israel and Egypt, the latter would not have been placed in the position of violating it by moving up new antiaircraft rockets.

Does anybody still want his kid to grow up to be President?

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--We have been able to verify that Aristotle Onassis, king of the jet set, contributed to President Nixon's 1968 campaign.

The golden Greek made the contribution about the time he was marrying Jacqueline Kennedy, the widow of Nixon's 1960 presidential rival.

A trustworthy source, with access to the list of secret contributors to the Nixon campaign, told us a $100,000 donation had been made in the joint name of "Mr. and Mrs. Aristotle Onassis."

We could get no official verification of this from the top Republican fund raisers. We searched the public contributor lists in vain for Onassis's name. We also placed transatlantic calls to Onassis's headquarters in Monte Carlo.

Finally, a totally reliable source close to Onassis acknowledged that the shipping tycoon, indeed, had contributed to the Nixon campaign. The source would not divulge the amount of the contribution but said he doubted that Jacqueline had any knowledge of it.

Footnote: Aristotle and Jacqueline Onassis were married on October 20, 1968.

DZU WHITEWASH

Last week, we identified Lt. Gen. Ngo Dzu, military commander of South Vietnam's central highlands, as "one of the chief heroin traffickers in Southeast Asia.'. He was responsible, we said, for heroin addiction of American GIs.

We cited classified intelligence reports, giving dates and details, to back up the charges.

Dzu was first linked to the heroin trade by Rep.Robert Steele, R-Conn., in congressional testimony last July. President Thieu immediately ordered an investigation. But we reported last week that it was doubtful Dzu would ever be brought to trial.

While our story was still being set in type, President Theiu promoted Dzu to a three-star general. And two days after the story appeared, Thieu's special investigating team whitewashed Dzu of the drug- running charges.

Nevertheless, here is more sordid evidence of the heroin problems Dzu has created for the U.S.:

Dzu took command of the central highlands a year ago, with war lord powers. His predecessor had kept a tight rein on the heroin peddlers. During the previous 12 months, for example, only two American addicts were admitted to the Army's 67th Evacuation Hospital at Qui Nhon, the provincial capital.

But the heroin started to flow after Dzu took over, and four GIs were admitted in October for heroin addiction. In November, there were 14.

The number of drug admissions in December hit 53, of which 38 were treated for addiction. In january, the hospital handled 51 drug cases, 30 of them heroin related. By the time, the 67th Evacuation Hospital was turning into a drug sanitarium. So an additional 340 drug victims were treated as outpatients by the hospital and its four outlying clinics.

CORRUPT PROVOST MARSHALL

The classified reports, which we quoted last week, charged that Dzu had enlisted the South Vietnamese Provost Marshal in Qui Hohn as an accomplice in the dope racket.

One woman was arrested with 76 vials of almost pure heroin outside the American PX. She was hauled off to a South Vietnamese jail. But within two weeks, she was back in front of the PX with her addictive wares.

As the dope traffic increased, the Army's Criminal Investigation Division sent an agent to brief the hospital officers about the heroin problem.

"Heroin can be bought over every compound fence in Qui Nhon," the CID man told the hospital staff. The agent said the CID was getting absolutely no cooperation from Dzu.

Yet Dzu's senior American advisor, John Paul Vann, has now blandly assured the press: "There's no information available to me that in any shape, manner or fashion would substantiate the charges (against Dzu)."

Footnote: The rise in heroin addiction in the central highlands, of course, is only part of the problem Dzu had caused. The classified reports charge he has also been smuggling heroin out of the highlands to GIs elsewhere in Vietnam. He is also responsible, at least indirectly, for some heroin shipments that reach the U.S.

HAVEN FOR WAVERLY

News of the death of Russia's ex-Premier Nikita Khrushchev reminded Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., of their marathon, eight-hour discussion back in 1958.

After talking about weightier matters, Khrushchev pulled down a roll-up map of the U.S. and asked Humphrey to point out where he lived. Humphrey located Waverly, Minnesota, on the map for the Soviet leader, who promptly announced:

"We will not bomb Waverly."

Inside Labor

Party Line--Revolt!--Revolutionary 'Inmate Councils' Stir Prison System Riots Across Nation

NEW YORK– In the beginning there must be tear-seared sympathy for the victims of the Attica rebels -- and for the moment the dead guards are not the issue. The victims are the elderly women who have been raped, robbed and stomped, sometimes to death; or the children who have been sexually molested and mauled; or the men and women killed by those prisoners in for manslaughter; or for those who barely escaped mutilation when bombs burst in such skyscrapers as RCA, General Motors, Chase Manhattan, Marine Midland and other buildings.

In the beginning it must be understood, as did the guards' union during each of its negotiations, that Attica is a very tough prison for the toughest, most sadistic prisoners in this state.

They are there to do time. They are not in for political indoctrination in Black Panther "revolutionary scientific socialism."

Nor are they in for seminars with political cadre leaders who promised to get them to Cuba as did those who killed a Qeubec government official and kidnapped a British diplomat late last year.

There are intelligence reports, propaganda analyses, and Justice Department interpretations of Black Panther Party decisions to use the national prison system as the frontier for national revolution. Certainly, such uprisings will be crushed. But just as certainly the rebellions will be launched, not by the heavy majority of prisoners, but by the tiny military cadres which Black Panther Supreme Commander and Minister of Defense Huey Newton talks and writes of. The Marin County Court House slaughter, the early and later uprisings in San Quentin, and in the Auburn, N.Y., prison, in the Manhattan Tombs and the Long Island City prison revolt which I observed and studied are past but bloody prelude.

In each of these prisons, and in correctional facilities ranging from California and Louisiana to the District of Columbia and upper New York, there are "Inmate Councils." And they await the moment. I have no doubt the "fraction" leaders of military cells inside the cadres are under orders to kill their guards whenever possible.

There is red rhetoric in the Black Panther literature--such as Huey Newton's "high tide of revolution" about to sweep American shores and to aid the "revolutionary lesson" taught by the San Quentin convicts.

One need only read the Panther Party's platform. It's all there, on prisons and release by fire. And from the Panther martyr George Jackson came these words: "I'll reiterate that I feel that the building of revolutionary consciousness of the prisoner class is paramount in the overall development of a hard-core left revolutionary cadre. And I repeat 'cadre'."

Later he said, "I've gained a clearer understanding of the tie-in between political andmilitary activity. I still see my function (in prison) as military." This assignment, he disclosed, was handed him by none other than Huey Newton.

Let no one believe, however, that this infantile leftism, or revolutionary puerility, bloddy as it is, stands limited to any race or creed. There is the white anarchist-imaged 6-foot, 35-year-old engineering technician, Samuel J. Melville, It was he who helped develop the cadres at Attica. It was he who, believing himself a Spartacus, developed the inner defense against the latter-day Roman legions. It was he who, according to reports, was set to burn everything and everybody in one last oil-soaked explosion.

Some of us have followed "comrade" Melville for a long time-- from the "East Village" here; from his days this paper had the blueprint for violence in Chicago, maps and police details and all, during the 1968 convention. Melville admitted blowing up parts of skyscrapers, piers, and Federal installations. He was caught in the act of placing bombs in a military truck here.

Melville and the "RAT" and Jane Albert and the Trotskyite SDS Weathermen (women) complexes are all intertwined. It is a weird, journey-to-the-middle-of-the-night phantasmagorical melange of neo-radicals such as "Chicago 7" counsel Bill Kunstler who siad the other day he would have liked to kill Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. Somewhere in hiding is the fugitive Weatherman leader Bernardine Dohrn, the advocate of direct violence against the establishment. Those with light knowledge of revolution underestimate her because she.s female. Don't. History is filled with such nihilists.

Not too long ago she sent a long message to her scattered troops.

"People become revolutionaries in the schools, in the army, in prisons, in communes, and on the streets. . . The attacks on the Marin County Court House and the Long Island City Jail were because we believe that the resistance and political leadership that is growing within the prisons demand immediate and mass support from young people . . . For all the George Jacksons. . . and potential revolutionaries in these jails. . . the movement is the lifeline.

"They rebelled expecting massive support from outside. Demonstrations in support of prison revolts are a major responsibility of the movement, but someone must call for them, put out leaflets, convince people it is a priority."

It's a tactic in an old strategy, an ex-revolutionist told me the other day. Watch it, brother, said he. It will have a spineless society gasping and apologetic. Everybody will forget the "rebels" and brutal criminals.

Hearings On Wage-Price Control Extension To Begin Sept. 27

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, says his panel will begin hearings Sept. 27 on extending the wage-price control act, the authority by which President Nixon ordered the 90-day wageprice freeze.

Speaking to newsmen after 23 leaders of the House and Senate met with Nixon for two hours Friday on the administration's new economic plan, Patman said some members of Congress have mentioned the possibility of extending the act from April 30, 1972, to Jan. 1, 1973.

No mention was made of specific proposals discussed at the meeting, but Patman said he hoped the administration would come up early with any legislative proposals it has in mind.

"We intend to call before the committee the various administration officials who have been charged with the responsibility of administering this program over the past month," Patman said. He added that private witnesses from "all areas of the economy" also will be called.

Patman reiterated the view of many who oppose the Nixon plan that controls on interest rates are needed.

"I don't believe you can enforce an overall wage-price control act unless you restrict interest rates," the Texas Democrat said. "We are paying $150 billion a year interest on the public and private debt. You can't defend a law that has exceptions."

The meeting with Nixon was the last in a series Nixon has had to collect views on what is needed after the present freeze ends Nov. 13. Previous sessions have been with labor, business and farm leaders.

Meanwhile, Cost of Living Council director Arnold R. Weber said up to 25 cases of alleged violations of the freeze may be sent to the Justice Department for legal action.

Weber said in an interview none of the cases involve large U.S. corporations.

In other developments:

—The council said medical fees for individual services, including those under Medicare, are frozen under the current guidelines. The council said Medicare payments also cannot increase when based on payment schedules because schedules are considered to be prices. It also ruled wages paid to workers transferred to a new location may be paid up to the ceiling that applies to the new job.

—Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson met in Detroit with United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock to discuss the administration plan.

Filibuster Threat Hangs Over Draft Extension Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate supporters of a bitterly contested draft extension bill now have the upper hand but still will have to overcome a filibuster to bring the measure to final vote.

A petition to invoke the Senate's debate-limiting cloture rule was filed by 22 senators Friday shortly after a motion to table the bill was defeated 47 to 36.

To put cloture into effect and break the filibuster will take a two-thirds majority of senators voting. The Senate is to vote on the petition Tuesday.

If the initial attempt to cut off debate fails, a second cloture petition is expected to be filed immediately and a vote on it would come Thursday.

Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said that as many cloture petitions as necessary will be filed in an effort to end the long battle over the bill, already approved by the House.

The bill, a compromise of differing measures originally passed by the Senate and House, would extend the draft law for two years and give the military forces a $2.4 billion pay raise.

The tabling motion, made by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, was defeated by a bigger margin than expected, marking a solid victory for President Nixon and his lieutenants who battled down to the wire to save the bill.

Judge's Ruling Leaves Medina Facing Only One Murder Charge

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — A judge's ruling has left Capt. Ernest L. Medina facing only one charge of premeditated murder—that of shooting a woman in a rice paddy at My Lai.

The judge, Col. Kenneth Howard, on Friday reduced the premeditated murder charge against Medina in the deaths of 100 Vietnamese civilians to involuntary manslaughter.

He also granted a defense motion for a directed acquittal of murder in the death of a young boy. The Army had alleged that Medina ordered the boy shot during an infantry assault on My Lai in 1968. A witness testified he shot the boy and Medina gave no such order.

Howard let stand the charge of assault against Medina, which accuses him of firing two shots over the head of a Viet Cong suspect during an interrogation.

The judge's action left for the jury to begin deliberating, probably by the middle of next week, the one charge of premeditated murder, involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of the 100 villagers and the assault.

Medina would face life imprisonment if convicted of murder. Medina testified he shot the woman because he saw her move and thought she had a weapon.

Involuntary manslaughter carries a maximum penalty of three years. The judge said that charge makes it possible for the jury to find Medina guilty of even a lesser charge, negligent homicide, which carries a one-year sentence.

Medina, 35, commander of Charlie Company when it swept through My Lai in March 1968, had been charged with premeditated murder of "not less than 100" on the theory that he failed to intervene when his troops were shooting.

Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey had ased for dismissal of all charges against Medina.

He argued that the government had failed to prove that the captain had knowledge that his men were killing My Lai civilians or that he encouraged them to do so by shooting the woman and ordering the child shot.

Howard said later he reduced the charge of responsibility for 100 deaths because the government had failed to prove "that Capt. Medina intended for these people to be killed."

Medina showed no sign of emotion at the judge's ruling. He and his wife Barbara declined comment, but both were smiling as they stood outside the courtroom in a heavy rain.

The court was recessed until at least Tuesday when the judge plans to discuss his charge to the jury with defense and government lawyers.

Anti-Busing Congressmen Unite For Amendment Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Antibusing congressmen are joining forces behind a proposed constitutional amendment that would prohibit the requiring of busing to desegregate public schools.

About 60 House members from both parties and all sections of the country who are sponsoring separate amendments have agreed to unite on one and start a drive for its adoption.

At a meeting Thursday they tentatively decided to use an amendment proposed by Rep. Norman F. Lent, a freshman Republican from the Long Island suburbs of New York City, as the spearhead of the campaign against Supreme Court busing decisions.

Lent's amendment, according to a participant in the campaign, was chosen because he is not a southerner and because he has already led a successful anti-busing fight in the New York state legislature.

As a state senator, Lent cosponsored an antibusing law enacted in New York in 1969. It was held unconstitutional 18 months later by a federal district court and the Supreme Court affirmed the ruling last spring.

Lent's amendment, similar to the law he steered through the New York legislature, states simply that "no public school student shall, because of his race, creed or color, be assigned to or required to attend a particular school."

A committee composed of Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., Thomas N. Downing, D-Va., and Earl B. Ruth, R-N.C., will get legal advice on whether the amendment will accomplish what its sponsors intend, then report to the group at a meeting next week.

Also still to be finally determined is the strategy to be followed to get the amendment to a vote in the House. The normal legislative route—through te Judiciary Committee—will not be tried because of the known opposition of chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and the many possibilities for delay.

The alternatives are to bypass the Judiciary Committee, either by a special resolution from the Rules Committee or a discharge petition signed by 218 House members—a majority.

Another Southerner Likely Choice To Succeed Black

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Alabaman Hugo Black stepping down from the Supreme Court, another Southerner probably will be President Nixon's choice as a successor. But Nixon wants a less liberal Southerner than Black to bolster the court's conservative majority of one.

Rebuffed in two attempts to have a Southern conservative appointed to the nation's highest tribunal, Nixon has promised the next appointee will be one.

Before Black announced his retirement Friday, the court lineup was five predominantly conservative members to four liberals. The former group included Nixon's first two appointments, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Harry Blackmun, both strongmen of the faction that interpreted the Constitution conservatively. The others included Potter Stewart, Byron R. White and John M. Harlan.

Black, perhaps known best for his populist interpretation of the Constitution, generally sided with William O. Douglas, William J.Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall.

They, along with Abe Fortas and former Chief Justice Earl Warren, produced a distinctly liberal bent from the court until Fortas' resignation and the retirement of Warren in 1969.

Nixon appointed Burger as Chief Justice, then sought another conservative to give the court a majority.

But his nominations of Clement F. Haynsworth of South Carolina and G. Harrold Carswell of Florida to succeed Fortas were rejected by the Senate. Many senators said Haynsworth was insensitive to conflicts of interests; a number of senators said Carswell was mediocre; and both were cited on racial positions.

He succeeded in having Minnesotan Blackmun fill the seat, but Nixon publicly interpreted the earlier rejections as meaning "no Southern federal appelate judge who believes in a strict interpretation of the Constitution can be elevated to the Supreme Court."

Nixon then announced he would have a Southern conservative appointed. With Black's retirement, no Southerner sits on the court.

Speculation on Black's successor is centered on Rep. Richard H. Poff, 47, a Virginia Republican and member of the House Judiciary Committee. Poff also has been vice chairman of a special commission that proposed complete overhaul of the criminal code.

Nixon, however, also has told woman members of Congress he has not ruled out finding a competent woman or the bench.

Four Killed In Potosi Auto Crash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri's traffic death toll for the weekend stood at eight today with four killed in one accident near Washington State Park at Potosi.

The Highway Patrol reported those killed in a two-car crash Friday night on M21 near Washington State Park about 55 miles south of St. Louis were Frederic House, 22, and his passenger, Gary Skiles, 19, both of Desoto, Mo., Sherman Twomey, 25, of Belleview, and his passenger, James Fitzgerald, 23, of Middlebrook.

A three-car crash near House Springs killed one person and serious injured two others. The patrol said Bernard Miller, of House Springs, died about 1 a. m. when he tried to pass a second car on M30 and collided with an oncoming car. Two women identified as Linda Sue Markwardt, 18, and her passenger, Peggy Mattman, 17, both from O'Fallon, were injured.

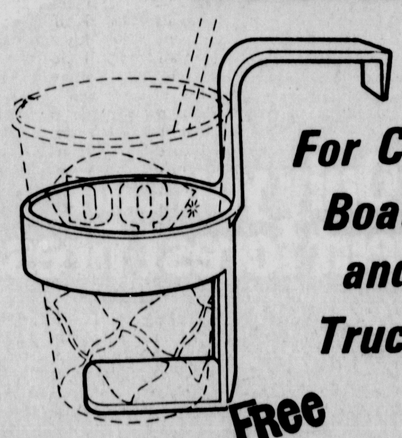

Killed in an early morning crash on U.S. 40 in downtown St. Louis today was Frank Day, 35, of East St. Louis. Police said his car skidded on Market Street, crashed into a curb and struck a hydrant.

A Garden City, Mo., man, Ralph Stutzman, was killed early today in a one-car accident on Route Z near Highway 7 in Cass County.

An unidentified man was killed about 3 a. m. when his car ran off Highway 13 three miles south of Lexington, and struck a parked truck. The victim was trapped in the car, which caught fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Hodges

Hodges-Haman

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Miss Marsha Kay Haman and Thomas Edward Hodges were married September 8 at 6 p.m. in Grace United Methodist Church. The Rev. Howard Hardeman performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris A. Haman, 214 barberry. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Hodges, 1209 Ruth, Sikeston.

Mrs. Norman Ueleke was the organist.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a white angelskin peau de soie and satin striped organza wedding gown. The princess silhouette was of peau de soie with a slightly raised bodice and sheer bishop sleeves of organza,with the sleeves ending with deep lace-trimmed cuffs. The front of the bodice was trimmed with Venise lace motifs and a tiny band of lace encircled the stand-up collar and traced the princess lines on the skirt. Soft gathering and deep box pleats formed fullness for the back skirt and the attached train that swept to a full chapel length.

Her headpiece was a forward profile of Venetian lace with peau de soie petals and bows. The petals were edged with tiny pearls; and the small florettes of Venise lace were sprinkled with crystals. The headpiece was held secure with a two-tiered veil of imported English illusion.

Mrs. James Lichtenegger of Cape Girardeau was the matron of honor. Mr. and Mrs. James Lichtenegger of Cape Girardeau were couple's attendants.

Ray Helferstay of Mulvane, Kan., the bride's uncle, was the usher.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Serving were Mary Jane Hazel, Mrs. Tom Shaw and Mrs. William Surman.

Both the bride and groom are 1971 graduates of Southeast Missouri State College. After a wedding trip, the newlyweds will live in Nashville.

Constitution Week To Be Observed

At the first meeting of the fall for King's Highway Chapter DAR, Mrs. Alex Waters, committee chairman, announced plans for Observance of Constitution Week, which began Friday.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has signed a proclamation for the observance of Constitution Week, urging all Missourians to participate.

Missourians are urged to fly American Flags during the week in honor of document adopted in September of 1787.

Of interest to all Missouri DAR Chapters, was the bulletin announcement that historic Arrow Rock Tavern, DAR maintained, has received a $3,000.00 matching grant from the National Park Service to aid in restoration and preservation of this site. These funds will be matched by state funds.

Mrs. Jackson Burke gave the National Defense report on a new job-training program for rehabilitating women prisoners at the Detention Center in the District of Columbia.

Mrs. Joseph L. Baker gave an illustrated program on the history of the American Flag. She displayed old silk flags, some with odd numbers of stars such as 38 on one, 39 on another.

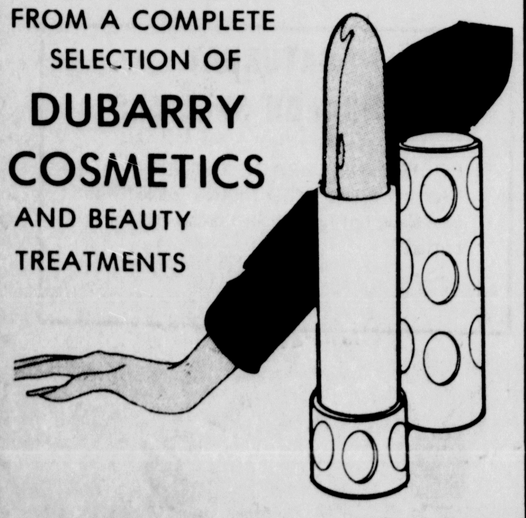

Mrs. Audley Brown announced the October meeting would be held in the home of Mrs. Roy Walden in East Prairie.

Miss Harryette Campbell of the Southeast Missouri Archelogical Society will speak at the October meeting.

Ann Landers

His Past, Not His Wife's Is Causing Him Trouble

Dear Ann Landers: I was born and reared in a conservative section of the country with strict moral standards. I have, therefore, maintained a very idealistic view of love and marriage. I have always believed that sex should be saved for after the marriage vows.

While in college I became lonely and depressed. I met a girl, fell in love and we were married. I knew she had had several men before me. She told me about her past and so did a few other people. But I was so much in love I was certain we could surmount all obstacles.

Now I find I was wrong. I cannot put her past out of my mind. Her premarital affairs have made her seem cheap. What's worse, I can't trust her. Every time she is a few minutes late I imagine she is back to her old tricks. She swears it is all in my mind, but I can't help it. I am in a constant state of anxiety.

Suspicion and jealousy are destroying me. I have begun to drink heavily. I quit a good job because I can't concentrate on my work. I have lost my ambition and drive. I spend a lot of time crying. Yes, grown men do cry when they have been hurt deeply enough. Please help me. Heart Sick in Harrisburg

Dear Harrisburg: You are mentally ill and your illness is not related to your wife's past--but to yours. You said you were lonely and depressed when you met her. This is the first clue. You've been up and down all your life and now you are blaming your present depression on your wife.

Get professional help. You need it badly.

Dear Ann Landers: Right now I'm too filled with grief to trust my own judgment. Help me, please.

My husband died a few weeks ago. Several relatives and friends have called on me. At least six people have asked me for a "remembrance." A niece said she would like to have Uncle Joe's gold cufflinks. A nephew said Uncle Joe had promised him his pocket watch. My brother-in-law wants Joe's silver-handled cane. A man he played cards with said he had always admired Joe's initialed belt buckle and Joe said he could have it.

I wouldn't dream of going into a house of mourning and asking for something. Am I wrong? I haven't given anything away yet. I said I would think about it. Please tell me what to do--- especially about the people who say they were promised things. Thank you.---Fresh Grave in Toledo.

Dear T.---If any of the aforementioned articles have any significance to you, keep them. Don't give them away simply because someone asks or even says they were promised.

A person who wants to leave a memento to a friend or a relative arranges ahead to see that it is done. The arrangement is called a will.

Dear Ann Landers: In most of our classes we are seated in alphabetical order. The girl who sits ahead of me several hours a day does not bathe often enough. I am trying to put this delicately but the simple fact is that she has a very offensive odor and it makes me sick.

If I wrote her an anonymous note she might guess I was the one and I wouldn't be able to look her in the face. Please advise.---Faceless Friend.

Dear Friend: Ask the Phys. Ed. instructor to talk to the girl. She can do it in a tactful way and you will not be involved.

Family Farm Profitable

WASHINGTON (AP) — The family farm, if its owners can afford the large capital outlay necessary for full mechanization, often is more efficient than its corporate competitors, says the Agriculture Department.

The department's Economic Research Service says a well organized, fully mechanized family scale farm can produce goods at a lower cost per unit than either the larger, corporate run farm or the smaller, nonmechnized farm.

Researchers found that the low-cost one-man hog farm included 400-plus acres and produced 150 litters of pigs a year. And it took a total capital of $200,000 to yield a net return of $23,000. They said this assumes more normal hog prices than have prevailed in the past year.

They reported the low-cost one-man dairy farm had 235 acres, 40 cows, and required $150,000 in capital. Net returns to operators would be $15,000 or more.

The one-man irrigated cotton farm included 440 acres, of which 140 were in cotton. Total capital was almost $300,000. This produced an operatormanagement income from the total operation of almost $20,000.

The low-cost one-man corn farm had 760 acres of cropland.

Cotton Market Threatened In 1972

MEMPHIS--Cotton stands to suffer further market losses if adequate incentives to grow more of it are not provided for 1972.

That was the warning sounded today by a National Cotton Council economist in the opening session of the annual fall meeting of the Council's Board of Directors.

"Shotting for a crop that is just enough to meet expected demand and no more will not do the job, " said Dabney S. Wellford, director of the Council's economic and market research service. He pointed out that demand cannot be accurately forecast, and unfavorable weather can drastically reduce the crop, as it has in five of the past six years.

"If we expect to hold our markets, we must aim higher and build up the carryover stock from the dangerously low level at which it now stands," Mr. Wellford continued.

The carryover from previous crops is expected to be about 4.1 million bales and "once there would not be enough in the carryover to cushion us if next year's crop falls short of demand. " The demand has exceeded the amount grown in each of the past five seasons, and as a result stocks have been reduced to the point that they hardly meet working stock requirements.

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin will announce the 1972 government cotton program in the early fall. Mr. Wellford pointed out that unless there are reassurances about next season's crop, the industry can expect pressures to continue for textile mills to shift out of cotton because of the uncertainty of the supply.

Wellford stated that the Secretary has the mandate for a program to relieve this pressure. His report pointed out that the Agricultural Act of 1970 states that the". . . national base acreage allotment. . . in the case of the 1972 and 1973 crops shall be in such amount as the Secretary determines necessary to maintain adequate supplies.

The carryover part of that adequate supply is defined specifically in the law as "not less than 50 per cent of the average offtake for three preceding marketing years." That figure is 5.5 million bales, not including extra long staple. An increase in the paying allotment to induce a crop that will build the carryover to that level would be one incentive in 1972, Mr. Wellford said.

A second alternative would be to eliminate the requirement for cotton set side acreage, thus freeing land normally held out of use in order to keep agricultural production in balance with demand. Then farmers could grow whatever crops they wanted, including cotton, on this land. Mr. Wellford pointed out, however, that feed grains or soybeans might go on some of this acreage, thus depressing prices for these crops.

Another alternative would be to retain the set-aside and allow only cotton to be grown on it.

Wellford added that if the 1972 program offers no reassurances about next season's supply, it is likely that the supply problem would be resolved anyway--through loss of both foreign and domestic markets. "The specter of drastic losses such as those which resulted from the 1967-68 price run-up will continue to hang over us until it is laid to rest by prospects of a larger 1972 crop," the economist said.

Nonfarm Employment Losses Cited

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Non-agricultural employment in the seven north central states declined by 38,400 in July to an estimated 5,310,600 wage and salary workers, the Bureau of Labor Statistics regional office announced Wednesday.

Seasonal influences in government were primary reasons for the decline, Elliott A. Browar, regional driector, explained.

State and local government employment dropped by 32,300 as public school systems closed, releasing nonfaculty employment for the summer months.

Construction continued a recent upturn, the bureau reported, with an increase of 6,400 workers. However, employment in the industry remained at 3.4 per cent below last year's figures.

Manufacturing was down by 500 workers after increases in each of the three prior months.

States covered in the report are Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, and North and South Dakota.

Lead In Air Reported To Be No Major Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The amount of lead in the air of most major cities apparently has not changed significantly in the past 15 years despite a rapid increase in use of leaded gasoline, says the National Research Council.

A summary of the report said there is 20 times as much lead in the air in metropolitan areas as in rural areas "due largely to the combustion and dispersal of lead additives in gasoline." But it said the average American, even in the cities, "consumes more lead in food and beverages than he inhales from the air."

"The high concentration of lead in the air of central cities constitutes a potential health hazard to young children and certain groups of workers," the summary said, "but poses no identifiable current threat to the general population."

The report was one of a series on atmospheric pollutants being prepared at the request of the Environmental Protection Agency.

The EPA has indicated it plans to ban or limit use of lead additives in gasoline and announced in January that it expects to make its proposals by the end of the year. The proposed regulations presumably would not take effect for several years.

Several gasoline manufacturers already have lead-free or low-lead gasolines on the market.

The summary said lead concentrations have been found in the blood of inner-city children "sufficient to cause biochemical changes, although insufficient to produce symptoms of lead poisoning."

But it said the higher-thannormal concentrations may have been a result of swallowing contaminated soil or street dust, from eating lead-based paint, or from breathing leadcontaminated air.

"Two to three times as much lead is added to the total environment in the form of paint pigments and metallic products as in the form of lead alkyls (from gasoline," the summary said. "Most of this lead, which enters the ecosystem through surface weathering, dumping, and burning appears to be returned to the soil without significant emissions into the air."

The panel said it found no information that current concentrations of lead in the environment have made humans more susceptible to disease.

Unacceptable Armed Forces Level Feared If Draft Fails

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said Tuesday readiness of the Armed Forces will "decline to levels totally unacceptable ... to the American people" if Congress fails to renew the draft.

Laird's comment, issued by a Pentagon spokesman, signaled the start of an intensified Defense Department campaign to push for the renewal of the Selective Service Act, tied up in Congress over various amendments.

Jerry W. Friedheim, a Defense Department spokesman, said the three civilian service secretaries and the heads of the military services were scheduled to meet later in the day at the Capitol with Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, the senior Republican member.

In a statement issued by Friedheim, Laird was quoted as being "deeply concerned about the dangerous national security situation which will arise by early next year" if Congress fails to act now.

Friedheim said that voluntary enlistments, now running above expectations, will decline as much as 40 to 60 per cent without the draft. He attributed the increase in enlistments during the summer months as being mostly draft-induced even though induction authority expired with the old draft law June 30.

The Senate took up the draft law again Monday but it continued to remain stalled amid threats from several antiwar senators to filibuster against deletion from the bill of an amendment calling for total withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam.

Friedheim hinted that the Pentagon's now lobbying blitz was prompted by indications that the draft bill was now in serious trouble.

"In the absence of induction authority, the readiness of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps—and importantly also the National Guard and the reserve forces—would in Mr. Laird's view decline to levels totally unacceptable to him as secretary of defense and, he feels, totally unacceptable to the American people," Friedheim said.

School Boards Must Give Foes Equal Time

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — If a school board distributes through the students promotional material that goes beyond a fair representation of an issue the board favors, such as a bond issue, the students must also be available as distributors of the other side's views, Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth held Tuesday.

He provided the legal opinion at the request of state Rep. Harold J. Esser, R-Kansas City.

"It is the opinion of this office," Danforth said, "that if a school board distributes information by way of written materials and discussions to students in school which go beyond a fair representation of merely relevant facts and in addition present advertising and promotional materials which frankly encourage affirmative votes, then the school board must allow equal opportunity to the opponents to also present information by way of written materials and discussions to students in school."

The opinion said, "we believe that any responsible school board would be scrupulously fair in this regard to have all sides and facts presented to the students, for it is a fundamental responsibility of schools to teach our young citizens that in a democracy all sides have an opportunity to be heard."

Crutcker In Charge Of Signup

JEFFERSON CITY - The Citizens Committee for Conservation today announced the appointment of Dub Crutcher of Essex as chairman of the CCC initiative petition campaign for Stoddard County.

The petition campaign, necessary for the people to be able to vote on a proposal which would accelerate Missouri's conservation program, is scheduled to kick off this month. A tax earmarked for conservation is proposed as the method of funding the program.

For Missouri voters to have the opportunity to vote on the conservation issue, a minimum of 90,000 signatures is required to get the constitutional amendment on the ballot. By law, an initiative requires the signatures of 8 percent of those who last voted for governor in each of two- thirds of the state's congressional districts.

The CCC has set a goal of 10 per cent or more of the voters in all counties for Stoddard county, 1,200 signatures are wanted by the CCC. The group is shooting for 150,000 statewide.

DEFENSE OFFENSE AND STRATEGY are three big parts of high school football. At left the Sikeston high Bulldog defense shows its technique with Paul Suver bringing down Perryville's Gene Unterreiner. Steve Ferrell (85) opens the door for Jessie Smith (22) on a first quarter touchdown drive. Coaches discuss and check the situation from the sidelines at right. SHS lost its northern division opener, 14-13.

Dogs Lose 6th Straight

While the Kennett Indians ended their three season losing streak at 27 football games Friday night at Poplar Bluff 9-0, the Sikeston high Bulldogs took over the distinction of holding the longest losing skid in Southeast Missouri. Sikeston dropped its second in a row this season and sixth straight loss over two seasons, bowing, 14-13, to Perryville at Public school stadium.

The Bulldogs beat Kennett for their only win last season and finished the season with the worst mark in SHS history.

Inexperience and costly mistakes were the Bulldogs big downfall last night. Although Perryville played well, the Dogs gave them scoring chances with a pair of fumbles and an off sides call returned the ball after a interception in the fast half that would have killed the Pirates touchdown drive.

As one fan point out as he left in the closing seconds of the contest "you just can't expect a group of boys to play well when you start them out in the sport in the ninth grade.

The fan apparently was reflecting on the no junior high athletic program observed in the Sikeston schools the past three seasons.

"The mistakes they made tonight and last week against Mayfield are the kind you work out and learn not to do in junior high," the fan pointed out.

The first series of downs by the Big Red brought back memories of the early 1960 teams as the fans roared with every yard gained. The SHS crew marched 65 yards to take the lead with 5:05 left in the period as Jesse Smith bolted over from three yards out and Larry Voliva booted the extra point for a 7-0 advantage.

Minutes later all memories was erased as the mistakes missed blocks and trouble that has plagued the SHS crew for two seasons returned.

Mark Gotto put the Pirates on the scoreboard with a two-yard plunge in the second period and Gene Unterreiner sent the host ahead, 8-7, when he carried the pigskin over on a conversion attempt.

Gotto, the PHS quarterback, padded the lead when he wrestled his way from four yards out to cross the goal line for a 14-7 lead. The extra point attempt failed on a pass.

All seemed lost until Bill Colwick connected to Henry Gross for a 21-yard score late in the fourth period after Gross' defender fell.

The score stood at 14-13 as the extra point kick was about to be attempted but a high toss from center forced Voliva to run and he was nailed before he could cross the goal line.

The score stood and the Pirates won their third straight over SHS. A late game interception with a little over two minutes left killed any hopes the Bulldogs had of winning the game. Perryville stayed on the ground and let the time run out.

Perryville cracked the SHS defense for 177 yards rushing with Unterreiner picking up 77 of those on 17 carries. Gotto was credited with 66 on 20 carries.

Smith led Sikeston's 98-yard ground game with 40 yards in 15 carries. Chester Yarber had 33 yards on 11 tries.

Better things will be offered on the road. The Bulldogs trek to Charleston next week for another north battle.

Charleston plays Kansas City Manual tonight after opening its season last week with a 45-0 victory over Hayti.

Kennett Ends Losing Streak

POPLAR BLUFF - A string of football losses extending back to 1967 ended at 27 last night for the jubilant Kennett Indians.

For the first time in three years Kennett tasted the sweet taste of victory as it downed a heavily favored Poplar Bluff Mule team, 9-0.

Quarterback David Tipton was the whole show. He completed a touchdown bomb to end Gary Shan with 26 seconds to go in the half.

When Poplar Bluff fumbled the kickoff it was recovered by a Kennett player. Tipton then kicked a 27-yard field goal with but two seconds left in the half.

The second half went scoreless as an aroused Kennett football team outplayed a much larger Mule team on the way to an upset.

A disappointed coach Dutch Wyatt declined to comment on the game; the second straight in which the Mules have failed to score.

Poplar Bluff, the team that was among the favorites for the conference crown in preseason ratings takes its 0-2 record to Perryville next week. It will play the undefeated Pirates, who share first place in the conference with Kennett, both with 1-0 records. Kennett plays Jackson next week.

Sports Briefs

WEST HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — The seating capacity at Island Garden, home court of the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association, has been increased to 6,500 by the tearing down of a wall.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Bullets announced Friday they had sold a club record 1,738 season tickets for the upcoming National Basketball Association campaign.

The total is 154 above last year's figure, and represents the fourth straight year that a record has been set.

Jerry Sachs, club vice president, said he expected the total to surpass 2,000 by the time the season opens on Oct. 16.

Tribe Upend Malden

JACKSON -- Coach Paul Webber's Indians whipped their second tough Southern Conference football team in a row. They beat Malden, 28-0, Friday night. The Green Wave was pre- season picks to win its division.

It was a tough defense and a grinding offense led by Bobby Sides that spelled defeat for the Green Wave.

Jackson got the scoring underway in the first period when Ted Leimer intercepted a Malden pass and galloped 15 yards for the score.

A stingy defense by both teams held the score at 6-0 the rest of the first half.

Bobby Sides ran over from 15 yards out in the third period. Sides scored again from the one-yard line after Tim Neal caught a 46-yard pass from Kim Wagner to the five-yard line.

Sides scored his 14th point with a two-yard run for the extra points.

Jackson had 196 yards rushing and 46 passing. Malden has 131 yards rushing and 40 yards passing. Jackson attempted seven and completed two and Malden completed five of 17.

"Malden had a good running attack", commented Coach Webber.

The red hot Indians travel to Kennett next Friday for their nothern coference opener.

EAST PRAIRIE - Coach Ed McWilliams won his first southern division conference football game and second game of the season Friday night as East Prairie beat Chaffee, 23-8.

The game was evenly played until the last quarter. The Eagles scored 16 of their points in the final period.

Annise Davis started the scoring for the Eagles. He burst through the middle for 51 yards and a touchdown on the Eagles first offensive play.

East Prairie took a slim 7-0 lead into the second half. Chaffee came roaring back in the third period to go ahead when Christy scored on a one-yard plunge and Richbourg ran over for two extra points for a total of eight.

The Eagles broke the game open in the last quarter. Melvin intercepted a pass and ran it back 64 yards for a touchdown. Annise Davis scored two extra points on a run.

With two minutes and 20 seconds left Larry Gross scored on a one-yard dive and Davis again added two extra points.

"Chaffee had a better team than their previous game indicated", said Coach McWilliams of the Eagles.

East Prairie had a total of 201 yards, 181 on the ground and 20 in the air. Chaffee had 41 rushing and 56 passing. The Eagles completed two of seven passes to Chaffee's 7 of 11.

East Prairie had a punting average of 31.1 yards and Chaffee had an impressive 46.4 yards per kick.

State Officials Fear Florida Not Ready For Disney World

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Ready or not, the Walt Disney World entertainment complex will be coming to central Florida Oct. 1. Many people feel central Florida isn't ready.

Disney people predict 10 million people will visit the $400million pleasure world the first year.

Taking that figure at face value, officials of neighboring counties express fears of choked highways, jammed restaurants, inadequate lodgings, stranded travelers, juvenile runaways.

Some officials are leary that even booming area construction won't be enough to accommodate rapid, staggering demand.

"There's only so much you can do," said Dr. Robert Poe, Orange County Commission chairman. "When Disney opens its gates the problems will be there, immediately. But there's a time lag of several years for money to return itself for improvements."

Tourists will be overnighting as far as 80 miles away, according to Tom Brownlee, executive director for the Orlando Chamber of Commerce and coordinator of a regional lodging group.

"There will be a shortage of 3,000-4,000 motel rooms a night in peak seasons the first two years," he said. Visitors, like it or not, may find themselves driving 60 miles north to Daytona Beach or an hour west to Tampa for a room.

The police see a different problem.

"Let's face it. With all these people coming here the traffic problems are going to be horrendous," said Orlando Chief Robert Chewning.

The Florida Highway Patrol, which recently canceled leaves for all troopers in central Florida in October, is asking for 162 new officers to police the area. "We plan to put any extra men authorized into central Florida counties because of Disney World," said Ralph Davis, public safety director.

Disney people say nonsense, the frets are unfounded and time will prove so.

Pennant Races Change

MICHAEL WAYNE LEE, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee of Sikeston, displays a stringer of fish he hooked while fishing with his father.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mike Lum made some loud noises with his bat in Los Angeles and the reverberations reached all the way to San Francisco.

Lum exploded two home runs out of spacious Dodger Stadium as Atlanta beat Los Angeles 3-2 in 11 innings Friday night and lifted San Francisco's pennant chances in the National League West.

The Los Angeles loss, coupled with San Francisco's 7-5 triumph over San Diego, boosted the Giants' lead to two games over the second-place Dodgers.

"This should pick us up," said San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox.

"I hope this can turn us around," said San Francisco catcher Dick Dietz.

Along with padding San Francisco's shaky lead, the night's events also must have given the Giants a psychological shot in the arm. They made five errors and still managed to win. The Dodgers, meanwhile, squandered several opportunities to nail Atlanta while Lum smashed his game-tying homer in the ninth and game-breaker in the 11th.

The New York Mets whipped the Eastern Division-leading Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0 and second-place St. Louis trimmed the front-runner's margin to 8½ games with a 7-2 triumph over Montreal in other top National League contests Friday night.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Cubs downed the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 and the Houston Astros trimmed the Cincinnati Reds 4-1.

The Dodgers had a 2-1 lead and were two outs away from winning when Lum connected off reliver Jim Brewer in the ninth. He then cracked his 13th homer of the season off Hoyt Wilhelm in the 11th to send the Dodgers down to their third straight defeat.

You couldn't say the Dodgers didn't have chances to win, though. They had men on first and second with none out in the ninth and couldn't score, had the bases loaded in the 10th and weren't able to cash in and couldn't move a runner around from first in the 11th.

"It doesn't matter who you play, it's how your own club is going that's important," said Manager Walt Alston of Los Angeles, obviously referring to the Dodgers' inept play in recent games.

After Manny Mota's two-run single in the fourth inning gave the Dodgers a 2-0 cushion, Hank Aaron walloped a homer in the eighth—his 45th this year and 637th of his fabulous career—off Los Angeles starter Claude Osteen. That blow brought on Brewer and began the Dodger backslide.

In San Francisco, the Giant victory was cause for celebration. After all, the Giants had lost 11 of 12 previous games and all but one game of a once commanding 8½-game lead.

"As loosely as we played, it makes you feel pretty good when you can win," said Fox, pointing to four San Francisco errors which helped San Diego to a 5-3 lead after three innings.

"They tried to give the game to us," said San Diego Manager Preston Gomez, whose Padres just came off a two-game sweep over the Dodgers. "They certainly didn't look like a club fighting for a pennant."

The Giants roared back ona four-run uprising in the sixth inning, highlighted by Dick Dietz' pinch-hit, three-run homer.

"We're not tight," said Dietz, referring to the Giants' September fold, "we're really very loose ... it's just that things haven't been going our way."

Gary Gentry tamed Pittsburgh on a three-hitter and Teddy Martinez, Ken Singleton and Ed Kranepool hit home runs in New York's triumph over the Pirates.

Cleo James drove in three runs with a homer and single and the Chicago Cubs withstood Deron Johnson's three-run homer in the ninth to whip Philadelphia.

Don Wilson fired a one-hitter and a second-inning triple play helped him notch his 16th victory as Houston trimmed Cincinnati.

Tigers Battle On

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Is there time for the Detroit Tigers? There really doesn't seem to be enough of that valuable commodity left for the Tigers, who played Friday night's doubleheader against Baltimore as if they still had a chance to catch the front-running Orioles in the American League East race.

The Tigers swept the doubleheader 9-4 and 5-3 and now trail the Birds by six games. What's more important is that time is on Baltimore's side. The Tigers have only 10 games remaining and Baltimore's magic number remains eight.

Elsewhere in the American League Friday night, New York swept a doubleheader from Cleveland 1-0 and 7-1, Boston bombed Washington 10-7, Chicago took California 9-4, Kansas City nipped Milwaukee 2-1 and Oakland defeated Milwukee 6-5 in 11 innings.

The Tigers reached into their bullpen to stymie the Orioles. Detroit used relief specialists Tom Timmerman and Frd Scherman as starters and the move paid off—thanks to the bats of Mickey Stanley and Dick McAuliffe.

Stanley drove in five runs— three of them with a homer—in the first game as Timmerman, making only his second major league start, bested Dave McNally, who was bidding for his 20th victory.

Ironically, Timmerman's only other major league start was two years ago, when he also beat Baltimore and McNally.

In the nightcap, Scherman, making his first start after 66 relief appearances, was tagged for homers by Frank Robinson and Dave Johnson. But McAuliffe cracked a tie-breaking homer in the seventh and the Tigers completed the sweep.

Oakland, which has wrapped up the West, used Tommy Davis' pinch single in the 11th inning to beat Milwaukee.

The A's had tied the game in the eighth on Mike Hegan's single after the Brewers had jumped to a 4-0 lead against Vida Blue.

Blue, 6-5 since the All Star break, failed for the fourth straignt time trying for his 24th victory.

Fritz Peterson threw a twohitter and Felipe Alou's single drove in the game's only run as the Yankees beat Cleveland's Sam McDowell in the first game of their doubleheader.

New York completed the sweep on Stan Bahnsen's fourhitter in the nightcap. Bahnsen had a two-run single in his victory and catcher Thurman Munson homered for the Yanks.

Kansas City's Mike Hedlund won his 15th game with a seven-hitter as Kansas City checked Minnesota. Paul Schall's two-out single in the sixth snapped a scoreless tie and then Fred Patek's RBI single in the seventh delivered the deciding run. Leo Cardenas homered for the Twins.

Rick Reichardt's homer paced a 14-hit Chicago attack and Bart Johnson struck out a career-high of 12 as the White Sox trimmed the California Angels. Every White Sox starter drove in one run.

Boston bunched home runs by Rico Petrocelli, Reggie Smith and Carlton Fisk in a five-run sixth inning that helped the Red Sox beat Washington. Smith also had two doubles and three RBI for the Sox.

Gibson Ends Skid

MONTREAL AP - Bob Gibson found his fast ball midway through the game Friday night after the St. Louis Cardinals exploded for four runs and held on for a 7-2 win over Montreal.

Joe Torre homered with two aboard in the four-run fourth inning, and Gibson gave up just one more run after that.

"I told him he had a good fastball, why didn't he throw the pitch," said St. Louis catcher Ted Simmons. "So he did and they couldn't touch it."

In the early going, Simmons said, Gibson "didn't think he had good stuff, so he kept throwing his sinker ball, trying to get them to hit it on the ground." Simmons said that after the fourth inning, Gibson threw about 70 to 80 per cent fastballs.

"I thought my fastball wasn't anything special," Gibson said, "but Simmons said it was working so I went back to it."

"It's not a feeling you have in your arm or in your body when you deliver the pitch," Gibson said. "It's entirely mental. In my head, I really thought my fastball wasn't as good as it could be. I didn't think I was throwing good."

The win-coupled with Pittsburgh's loss to New York - kept the Cardinals' faint pennant hopes alive. St. Louis is 8½ behind the Pirates, and any combination of three Pirate wins and Cardinal losses will end the race in the East Division.

Montreal hurler Carl Morton retired the first nine men he faced in the game and went into the fourth inning with a 1-0 lead.

Lou Brock put St. Louis on the scoreboard when he slid under catcher John Bateman's tag at homeplate on an infield grounder by Matty Alou. Torre blasted Morton's first pitch over the left-field fence for a 4-1 lead.

Montreal Manager Gene Mauch and Bateman argued with plate umpire Tom Gorman when Brock was called safe. Mauch continued to yell at Gorman from the dugout and was ejected in the fifth inning.

Cagle Leads Tiger Romp Over Rivals

CARUTHERSVILLE

Caruthersville's Tigers finally got their offense untracked and behind the three touchdown performance of Quarterback Joe Cagle, romped to a 27-15 football victory over arch-rival Hayti to even their season's record at 1-1.

Caruthersville's End Ricky Hopper was on the receiving end of all three of Cagle's touchdown passes, one of which covered 55 yards.

Ron Wene, coach at Caruthersville, commented that the score should have been larger, since his Tigers had a fourth and one foot and couldn't score in the fourth quarter.

Caruthersville's only other touchdown was scored by Halfback Chris Hoskins on a five-yard run. Coach Wene also commented that had it not been for the passing game, the final score would have been much closer.

Hayti saw its record fall to 0-2 despite an improved offensive effort. Total offense for Hayti was 225 yards, 155 on the ground.

Touchdowns for Hayti were scored by Quarterback Randy Gardner on a 16-yard run and End John Duckworth, who was on the receiving end of a 31-yard touchdown pass from Gardner in the final quarter. The extra point following the first score was kicked by Melvin Jones and Hayti's 15th point was rung up as Gardner threw a pass to Jerome Maxey for the two-point conversion.

The Tigers from Caruthersville will try to go above .500 next week when they see action against Dexter's struggling Bearcats at Dexter.

I-SC Takes Over Lead

GIDEON - Powerful Illmo-Scott City, defending Bootheel Division champs, whipped the Bulldogs Friday night 35-0, to take over the Bootheel football lead.

The Rams scored 21 points in the first half and 14 in the second.

Rand Amick scored two touchdowns and two extra points for a total of 14.

Mark Amick galloped 60 yards for another score and Glynn Ward kicked three extra points.

Mark Amick passed to Jim Noon for a touchdown and Teddy Carbaugh scored on a run.

Gideon plays at Gosnell, Ark., next Friday night in a non-conference game.

The Rams are 2-0 for the season.

Portageville Wins With Defense

PORTAGEVILLE — In one of the top defensive games of the area Coach Jim McKay's Bulldogs scored seven points in the first quarter and held on to defeat the Dexter Bearcats, 7-6, in a southern division football conference game Friday night.

Portageville got on the scoreboard first. Chris Foster hit Sammy Johnson for six points in the first quarter. Mike Pyle kicked the extra point.

David Mathis passed for the only touchdown that the Bearcats could manage against the defense of the Bulldogs.

The second half was played scoreless. Both team displayed a good defense and halted each others drives.

"Our defensive linemen played a very good game," commented the Bulldog coach.

Portageville takes on Chaffee at Chaffee next Friday night. Portageville is 1-0 in conference play and Dexter is 0-1.

YOU BE THE QUARTERBACK

By Paul (Bear) Bryant

Head Coach, University of Alabama

Compliments of

Wal—Mart Discount Center

You, the Penn State quarterback against Navy, have just completed a long pass to your split right end, who has beaten the Navy left cornerback for a 52-yard gain to the Midshipman 33-yard line.

You have previously thrown two incomplete passes to the split end. You have completed the only pass you've thrown to your flanker, split out to your left, for an 8-yard again. You have thrown twice to your tight end on the right, completing one for 12 yards.

With first down midway between the sidelines, what play will you call:

1. Sideline pass to flanker, who goes downfield 8 yards, breaks to sideline?
2. Pass to split end over goal line?
3. Short pass to split end?
4. Hook pass to tight end, who goes downfield 12 yards, turns back to take ball?

Answer

No. 3. Short pass to split end. After being stung on previous long pass play, cornerback's conscious of deep responsibility, making completion comparatively easy. Passes to flanker and tight end might go, but let's keep after the left cornerback. So we call this play even though split end has run hard on previous play.

Compliments of Wal-Mart Disocunt Center.

Instructors Fill Positions For High School Faculty

Twenty-one new faculty joined the teaching staff of Sikeston high school this fall. These teachers are filling vacancies and forming new classes for the ever-increasing number of students. These instructors came to Sikeston from various towns, states, and schools.

Barker staffers interviewed the various teachers and present a brief resume of each person's background for his position.

HARRY BATTS

Harry Batts is a new distributive education instructor in Sikeston high school. He graduated from Murray State University with a B.S. degree. He later received his master's degree from Eastern Illinois University.

Mr. Batts taught five years at Richland, four years in Illinois, and three years in Fulton County, Ky., before coming to Sikeston. He is originally from Crutchfield, Ky.

Mr. Batts and his wife Janie reside on Route 2 with their three children. When asked his philosophy of teaching, he plied, "If the students don't have a fair opportunity to learn, why should I be here?"

BRUCE BIRD

Bruce Bird is the instructor in the graphic arts department. Mr. Bird was a student teacher in the vocational department last spring. Mr. Bird originates from Kennett and attended Southeast Missouri State College where he majored in industrial arts.

Mr. Bird resides at 411 North Kingshighway with his wife Sherry, who is a teacher in Lee Hunter School. His hobbies include woodworking and printing, but since school has started he said his hobby is grading papers.

MRS. JIM BUCK

Mrs. Jim Buck is one of the new teachers in Sikeston high school. She teaches office training I and II, and recordkeeping.

Mrs. Buck is originally from Osceola, Ark., and is a 1967 graduate of Arkansas State University She lives in Sikeston with her husband, Jim, and her two children. This is Mrs. Buck's fourth year of teaching. She says that she enjoys it in Sikeston , but it is a much larger system than any other place she has taught.

DON FULTON

Don Fulton instructs functional math and algebra in Sikeston high school. He was vice-principal in the middle school two years before transferring to the high school.

Mr. Fulton also served as the principal of the Lincoln school when it was in operation for public school students.

Mr. Fulton is originally from Bonne Terre, and he received his B. S. degree in mathematics from Lincoln University. He earned his master's degree in administration from the University of Missouri in Columbia.

He resides at 1309 Osage Street in Sikeston. He is married, has four children, and his wife holds a master's degree in reading.

In addition to his teaching duties, he serves on the city council, is president of Recovery Incorporated, and is coordinator of Title I Activities.

JON WRIGHT

Jon Wright is a new teacher on the international scene here at Sikeston teaching Spanish. Mr. Wright did his undergraduate work at Cape State however he also studied at Maryland State and the Inter-American College in Mexico. He has previously taught at Parkway West and Parkway Central high schools in St. Louis.

Mr. Wright was reared not far from here in Illmo, but he spent his summers in lands afar, traveling in Mexico and much of Central and South America.

He served two years in the Peace Corps in Venezuela. Taking up archeology as a hobby he spent time in Yucatan excavating Mayan pyramids. His services do not stop there, as he worked as an interpretor for the U.N. and also aided in writing textbooks.

ALBERT HOLMES

Albert Holmes is a new Sikeston high school faculty member in the physical education department. Mr. Holmes instructs five P.E. classes during school hours and coaches football after school. He will also coach track in the spring.

Mr. Holmes is a native of St. Louis. He attended college at Southeast Missouri State where he received his B. S. in education.

Mr. Holmes was a member of both the football and track teams at SEMO and received All-Conference honors in both sports.

WILLIAM HOUSE

William House is a new math teacher in Sikeston high school this year.

He is originally from Paris, Texas, and graduated from high school there. For two years he worked and then attended college for a year and a half. Mr. House was appointed to the Naval Academy where he graduated with a B. S. degree in electrical engineering.

After becoming a commissioned ensign in the United States Navy, he went to duty on the U. S. S. South Hampton at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. In 1942, he went into flight training and has been a naval aviator since that time.

He had duty on many aircraft carriers either in embarked squadrons or on the ships themselves. At the United States Naval Academy he served as an instructor in the department of electrical engineering.

In 1971, Mr. House retired after 31 years commissioned service. This is his first year in Missouri. He recently married the former Mrs. Lynn Mouchette and they reside on East Gladys Street.

GERALD JACKSON

Gerald Jackson has assumed the position of director of vocational education in Sikeston high school. He fills the position occupied by Jim Cornett.

Mr. Jackson received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Murray State University. He has lived in Sikeston for six years, during which he was a Co-operative Occupational Education coordinator in Sikeston high school for two years.

Last year he worked at the Regional Diagnostic Clinic in Sikeston. Mr. Jackson resides at 316 Powers with his wife, Alice, and three children.

MRS. LARRY LANCASTER

One of the new language teachers joining the SHS faculty this year is Mrs. Larry Lancaster who is teaching English III and IV. After graduating from high school in Charleston, Mrs. Lancaster attended Southeast Missouri State College where she received her B.S. in secondary education.

Mrs. Lancaster resides with her husband at 207 Missouri, and she enjoys restoring antiques in her spare time.

Her husband, Larry, is a graduate of Sikeston high school, and he is also a graduate of SEMO State.

WAYNE LAND

Wayne Land is the new building trades instructor in the vocational department at Sikeston high school. Mr. Land is retiring from Swift and Company.

When asked why he chose to teach building trades, Mr. Land said that in college he took several industrial arts courses and that carpentry is his hobby.

Mr. Land received his B.S. in agriculture at Oklahoma State University.

Mr. Land is a native of Dexter where he resides with his wife.

WALTER MESSMER

A new addition to the history faculty of Sikeston high school is Walter Messmer.

He is an instructor of world history and contemporary history.

Mr. Messmer is a graduate of Southeast Missouri State College.

Before teaching in Sikeston, he was an instructor at Cape Central high school in Cape Girardeau.

Mr. Messmer lives at Ferrell's Trailer Courts at Benton with his wife, Carol, and their daughter, Sarah Beth. Mrs. Messmer teaches school at Bell City.

During his spare time he enjoys hunting and fishing.

ALLEN MILBURN

Allen Milburn, a former Sikeston high school graduate, is instructing five I classes this year.

He is a graduate of Southeast Missouri State College and did part of his college work at Memphis State.

Mr. Milburn did his student teaching in New Madrid last spring.

When asked his impression of teaching in Sikeston, his emphatic reply was, "I really love teaching here."

In answer to the question of his having any special interests or hobbies he replied with one work, "KARATE."

MRS. YVONNE MITKOS

Another new teacher in the English department is Mrs. Yvonne Mitkos. Since she is a graduate of Sikeston high school she is familiar with the school.

Mrs. Mitkos spent her first two years of college at St. Paul's Junior College in Concordia, Mo. She transferred to Southeast Missouri State College where she graduated in 1970. She majored in English and her minor is in physical education. Mrs. Mitkos has a B.S. in secondary education.

When asked how she likes teaching school all she said was, "I just love teaching."

Mrs. Mitkos lives with her husband, Les, and her baby boy here in Sikeston. Les returned from Vietnam last December, and now he is a student in Southeast Missouri State College.

BLAIR MORAN

One of the many new faculty members of Sikeston high school this year is Blair Moran. He teaches conservation, world history and geography.

Mr. Moran is a 1969 graduate of Southeast Missouri State College, where he earned a B.S. degree in secondary education with a major in social studies.

After graduating from college, he served in the army for two years, returning from Vietnam in November of 1970.

This is his first year of teaching. When asked how he liked it, he replied that he considered it a new experience and a challenge.

Mr. Moran is unmarried, and he lives in Charleston.

MRS. JOE MUNGER, JR.

Sikeston high school made several changes in the faculty this year. Mrs. Joe Munger, Jr., began her teaching in Sikeston last week as a home economics teacher.

She teaches three classes of advanced foods, one class of child development and one class of home economics I.

Mrs. Munger graduated from college at Murray State University and went on to teach in St. Louis and Indiana.

When asked how she liked the Sikeston school system, she replied that a cooperative and pleasant atmosphere was present.

Hobbies play an important part of Mrs. Munger's life. She enjoys all aspects of home economics, all sports and card games.

Mrs. Munger lives in Sikeston with her husband Joe Munger, Jr., who is an industrial arts teacher in senior high.

JOE MUNGER, JR.

Joe Munger, Jr., an industrial arts teacher, has joined the Sikeston high school faculty. Mr. Munger is a life time resident of Sikeston, excluding his college days at Murray State University where he received his B.S. degree. During the past summer, he worked on his master's degree.

When attending school in Sikeston, Mr. Munger was an active member of the track and basketball team. His main interests include hunting and photography.

Asked why he decided to teach in Sikeston, Mr. Munger commented, "At one time I taught in middle school and enjoyed it."

Mr. Munger and his wife, Brenda, reside at 216 Kinder. Mrs. Munger is also a new teacher in Sikeston high school and instructs home economics.

MRS. SAM POTASHNICK

Mrs. Sam Potashnick is a new home economics teacher this year. She instructs two classes of home economics I.

Mrs. Potashnick, former Janie Springs, is a Sikeston high school graduate. She graduated from college at Northeastern State College in Tahlequah, Oklahoma. This is her first teaching position.

Her hobbies include several card games and home economics.

She resides in Cape Girardeau with her husband, Sam Potashnick.

MRS. ROBERT REED

Mrs. Robert Reed is one of the new instructors in the Sikeston high vocational department. Mrs. Reed teaches two occupational math classes, two typing classes, and one basic business class.

Mrs. Reed in a 1965 graduate of Southeast Missouri State College. After graduation, Mrs. Reed taught two years in the Poplar Bluff school system followed by substitute teaching at several Missouri schools including Neosho, Columbia, and Sikeston.

Mrs. Reed is originally from Poplar Bluff. She lives in Sikeston on Arlington Drive with her husband Robert and their two children.

When asked of her hobbies Mrs. Reed said that she enjoyed playing bridge and fishing.

MRS. BERTHA SCHUERENBERG

Sikeston high welcomes Mrs. Bertha Schuerenberg as one of the many new faculty members on campus this fall. As a member of the English department, she finds herself busy teaching sophomore and junior English.

Mrs. Schuerenberg, a 1960 graduate of SHS, taught for five years in the New Madrid County school system before joining the faculty here at SHS.

She graduated from Southeast Missouri State College majoring in English. While there she was a member of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

In her spare time Mrs. Schuerenberg enjoys riding horses and sewing. She also enjoys the peace of living on a farm with her husband and eight-year- old boy.

"It took a long time to decide I wanted to be a teacher, but I really like it," was Mrs. Schuerenberg's reaction when asked what she thought about teaching.

MISS PAULA SHAW

Miss Paula Shaw joins the faculty of Sikeston High School this year as a French teacher. Her schedule includes teaching in SHS during her morning hours and at middle school during the afternoon.

Miss Shaw graduated from high school in Jefferson City in 1967.

She attended the University of Missouri in Columbia where she was elected to three honorary fraternities, Kappa Delta Pi, Pi Lambda Theta, and Phi Sigma Iota.

While in college she also participated in Student Government and French Club.

She enjoys hobbies such as horseback riding, archery, and games in which thinking is applied. Bridge playing is one of her main hobbies.

When asked what her first impression of high school was, she replied, "I can see from the first short week that nothing could be as rewarding as teaching."

ED WATSON

A very versatile teacher here for his first year in Sikeston high is Ed Watson, teaching English I and geography. Mr. Watson also doubles as a minister, preaching at the First Presbyterian Church in Fisk. For six years he served as the pastor of the Presbyterian church here in Sikeston.

Mr. Watson received his A. B. degree at Southern Illinois University and he also studied at Ashbury Seminary in Wilmore, Ky. He has been an active citizen serving as a colonel on the staff of Governors Dalton and Hearnes and as the chairman of library trustees for the Sikeston city council.

In his spare time he enjoys his two quarter horses and his pilot's license.

I will make assurance double sure.

The new Miss Sikeston will be the hostess for the crowning of the 1971 Miss Cotton Carnival next Saturday morning.

Sponsors of the annual Miss Sikeston contest are the members of the Sikeston American Legion No. 114.

'71 Staff Distributes Yearbooks

Growler staff distributed '71 yearbooks to a well-filled cafetorium of students in late August.

Yearbooks have white leather covers with '71 on a raised gold plate

Full color end sheets in both the front and back of the book depict the Sikeston high school marching band, the freshman band and the Red Peppers.

Adding to the color and variety are the duotone pages scattered throughout the book, and the use of green printing for various headlines and picture identifications.

The book contains 232 pages and is the largest published by a Sikeston journalism class.

Beware the fury of a patient man.

School Spirit Prevails In SHS Student Body

WHAT IS TRUE "BULLDOG SPIRIT"? Spirit of Red Peppers has prevailed over Sikeston high school with an air of victory for many years.

Each year, many greenies go through the strenuous and tiresome week of initiation to join Sikeston high's largest and best known pep organization. These girls must truly have "Bulldog spirit" or else they would give up long before they made the big step of becoming Red Peppers.

Just last year, the boys also became interested in forming a pep organization known as the Bleacher Bums. The enthusiasm and pep seem to have grown even stronger within the student body. Many students are involved in making the dignity and pride of Sikeston high school shine wherever they go.

These are very important factors in helping make a school victorious. Even though Bulldogs may not always win, the students feel victorious in a manner of speaking. This is because the bonds of union are so very strong that they cannot be severed by even the hardest blow or loss.

For a team to be successful, it must have support -- and this means SPIRIT. A fan who can be proud of a team that plays hard but loses is a genuine supporter and the kind of fan most needed by a hard-working team.

Bonfires, pep parades, singing of the school song, and the cheerleaders instill a spirit of enthusiasm in each student. For this reason, spirit is seldom lacking in Sikeston high school and the team is always looked up to as Number 1!

School Insurance Is Available To Students

Student insurance for the 1971-72 school year is available for all interested students.

The policy protects the student while traveling to, from, and while at school or any school-sponsored activity, and pays medical expenses up to $5,000 not covered by family insurance.

The insurance committee of the Scott County R-6 school district, composed of parents and teachers from the district, recommended that the Board of Education accept the insurance bid set forth by Doug Ruedlinger Inc.. recommendation to which the Board complied.

If a student sustains an injury, he should follow these simple steps--

1. Obtain a claim form from the school office

2. Treatment for injury must be processed through your family insurance.

3. Send balance of unpaid bills along with the completed claim form to Doug Ruedlinger, Inc., P. O. Box 1322, Columbia, Mo. 65201. This must be done within 90 days of date of injury.

Signs Are In Every Place At Every Time

HAS ANYONE REALLY listened to the words of the song entitled "Signs"? The young man in the song was refused a job because of his long hair. To the store owner, the hair was a sign of not being responsible. The youth of today are tired of being stereo-typed in this way.

Too many times young people are judged not by what they are or what they can do, but by how they look. Because of the actions of a few long-haired radicals, everyone having long hair is deemed a freak.

In the song the sign says to do this, don't do that. This has already been said many times in one's life. Although students are young adults, they are sometimes not recognized as such.

They must learn to take the responsibility for their mistakes, but also to take the credit for their accomplishments. The only way to learn by mistakes is to make them, and the only way to make this is to DO something. What thy youths wants to do is to show that they are responsible young people.

Staff Learns Basics Journalistic Work

SCHOOL HAS RESUMED for the 1971-72 school year and after the first few weeks, new students are becoming acquainted with Sikeston high school. Just as new students are becoming familiar with new surroundings, the Barker staff is beginning to learn some of the fundamentals of journalism.

Students have questioned why a "Barker" has not been published earlier in the school year. This fall, as every year, the staff is new and must start from scratch.

The staff is eager to serve the student body and report all activities of interest. Staff members cannot be everywhere at once. It is the students responsibility as well as that of the staff to report the news that occurs in school.

Sikeston students are privileged to have as many varied activities as are offered them. Help the staff report all news of interest. With help of the student body, this can be one of the greatest years ever!

President Nixon: Peace Is Built On Strength

DALLAS, Tex. (ANF)—President Richard Nixon made the following remarks at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Convention at Dallas, Tex:

"The strength that commands respect is the only foundation on which peace among nations can ever be built.

"The argument for weakness, weakness whether it's military or economic or in any other field, wears two masks.

"There are those who attack the necessity of strength with the claim that armaments cause conflict; the very fact that a nation is armed, that causes war. Well, the reverse is true. It is conflicts of vital interest which cause nations to build armaments.

"Nothing but patient, firm, hardheaded negotiations such as we're now conducting on several very important areas in the world can adjust those fundamental differences, and so pave the way for a safe reduction of armaments.

"To those who attack the morality of strength with claims that our defense establishment is 'militarist' and evil, we must reply, 'It is war that is evil, and the vigilance and the strength which prevents war is honorable and good.' Let's say that and let's stand for it."

FAR FROM the madding clamor typical of most western campuses, Ramkamhaeng University opened for its first semester in Bangkok and immediately became Thailand's largest with more than 40 thousand students. An "open" university, standards are less rigorous than in Thailand's traditional schools.

Excellent Novel Of a Family

THEIRS WAS THE KINGDOM. By R. F. Delderfield. Simon and Schuster. $8.95.

If you liked Henry Fielding, John Galsworthy and, more recently, John O'Hara's long novels and Irwin Shaw's saga, "Rich Man, Poor Man," then R.F. Delderfield is your man also.

Delderfield is an author who has set himself the task of writing in five volumes the "account of one commercial family between the Indian Mutiny, in 1857, and the Investiture of the Prince of Wales . . . in 1969."

The first volume was the 687-page "God Is An Englishman." The second is the 798-page "Theirs Was the Kingdom." The remaining three volumes presumably are in the works.

The family is that of Adam Swann, founder of a commercially successful carting firm and his wife, Henrietta. The first book in the series dealt with Adam and Henrietta. They still figure prominently in the second volume but much of the narrative is given over to their nine children and one adopted daughter.

By dealing the Swanns this many children, Delderfield, of course, made it easier for himself and vastly more interesting for the reader to illustrate the many aspects that made up the age in which his book is laid.

The author has written that, "The span of years, 1879-90, was a bonus. It was an age when the British Empire adapted to its almost accidental role of successor to Rome, when new inventions and new attitudes of mind were breaking through almost as dramatically as they have done in the post-Second World War period. This gave me plenty of elbow room, for Adam's children could go to work in a variety of theaters, most of which were not available to their father or their mother."

Alexander, the eldest son, is for example, a professional soldier. This choice of career gives Delderfield a chance to write tightly but descriptively of the now legendary battles at Isandlwana and Rorke's Drift. The reader can almost smell the gunpowder as he watches the slaughter of the English by the Zulus through Alexander's frightened eyes.

The commercial world of the time — and what a bustling place it must have been — largely is seen through Adam but another view of the same picture comes through the eyes of son George, who is slated to take over his father's vast enterprise and eventually does although not without some friction between the generations.

A look at the seamy side of London is given through the character of Deborah, the Swanns adopted daughter. And the picture the girl projects, through her work on a liberal newspaper, is not a pretty one.

The research Delderfield must have done to get the material with which to paint his vast canvas must have been staggering. But the careful use of all these details combined with excellent writing keeps the reader from ever feeling that he is being buried under a load of historical data.

Nixon Invites Program Plugs By Cabinet Wives

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is encouraging Cabinet wives to go on radio-television talk shows to talk up his programs. But it seems doubtful many will follow the lead of Martha Mitchell.

Nixon tossed out the idea Monday at a two-hour Cabinet meeting to which wives of members were invited. The session included a full-scale briefing and review of economic policies, including the wage-pricefreeze effort to curb inflation.

Carol Finch, wife of presidential counselor Robert H. Finch, said the President "asked us as wives to go on talk shows" and to help where possible in promoting administration policies.

The President indicated, accordingly to Lenore Romney, wife of the secretary of Housing and Urban Development, that women often communicate better than political officials.

Mrs. Mitchell, wife of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and already a veteran of the Merv Griffin and Laugh-In shows and scheduled to appear on the Dinah Shore Show today, was ready to continue her efforts.

Pointing out President Nixon says "prosperity is a job for everyone," Mrs. Mitchell sent word through her secretary that she is going to do her best to help.

"The best way to find out whether Mrs. Mitchell will go on any talk shows," her secretary suggested, "is to invite her."

Honolulu Tries Computerized Car Pools To Cut Pollution

HONOLULU (AP) — With 300,000 cars choking its highways and spewing pollutants into its air, Honolulu is trying computerized car pooling in hopes of reducing its rush -hour traffic by 50 per cent or more.

This has been tried on a smaller scale by businesses and individuals elsewhere. But Honolulu wants to have the nation's first citywide and city-run computerized car pooling system.

The plan was announced this week by Mayor Frank F. Fasi and it will begin by pooling 7,000 city employees. At the same time a campaign is planned to get all of Honolulu's work force involved.

A city spokesman said that pooling among city employees alone will take an estimated 1,000 cars from the streets during rush hours.

The procedure is simple! Residents fill out cards, saying where they live and when and where they work. This information will be fed into the city's computer system, which will match a resident with four others. They then would share the same car.

A key figure in the effort is Clay Loges, a marketing representative for International Business Machines here who also runs the computer activities of Life of the Land, an ecology group involved in the project.

"We're trying to take a 'total approach' something that's never been tried anywhere else," said Loges. We're getting ideas from all across the nation and putting it all together in one package here. We've got the business communities interested and now we're going after the average commuter."

To do this, Loges said, the effort will include incentives for those who join car pools. One could be special lanes for pooling cars to make the ride to work and back home speedier. Another possibility is to assign the prime parking spots at city agencies and at cooperating businesses to cars used for pooling.

Viet Cong Restate Tough Peace Plan

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam and the Viet Cong restated today their seven-point peace plan in the hardest possible terms, indirectly repudiating a report from Sen. George S. McGovern that the Communist peace terms have softened.

The South Dakota Democrat spent six hours last week with Hanoi's chief negotiator, Xuan Thuy, and acting Viet Cong delegate Dinh Ba Thi. Prior to his departure for Saigon on Sunday, McGovern told a news conference the Communist delegates indicated to him they were prepared to abandon several of the key conditions in the peace plan.

At today's 129th weekly session of the Paris peace talks, Thuy reiterated that a total American withdrawal and the establishment of a government of "national concord" excluding President Nguyen Van Thieu remained the basic demands in the seven points.

"Settlement of these two basic points will facilitate the settlement of the others," Thuy said.

McGovern, a candidate for his party's presidential nomination, said Thuy repeatedly assured him Hanoi would accept a total U.S. withdrawal without insisting on the overthrow of Thieu as a prior condition for any settlement.

Thuy said today, "All strata of the South Vietnamese people resolutely demand that the United States abandon the bellicose ruling group headed by Nguyen Van Thieu and totally withdraw from South Vietnam...

THE CASE OF THE WELL-HEELED PATIENT
By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

The McNamaras had a large family tree and, it seemed, they were still all living in the same house under the same roof. There were so many McNamaras around, in fact, that a distant relative was never more than two feet away.

Nevertheless, theonly real commotion caused in the house was caused when Dr. McNamara operated on his sister-in-law Mary and then handed her a bill for services rendered.

"You've got to be kidding," fumed the sister-in-law. "For all the years we've been living together in the same house, you've got some nerve trying to charge me. I never charged you for anything. And, over the years, I must have fried you a thousand eggs for breakfast." "It's not the same thing," retorted the doctor. "When a physician performs an operation, he's entitled to be paid. Particularly, when the patient has more money than he has. And, you're loaded and I need the money."

The family dispute ended up in court.

If you were the judge, would you make well-heeled Mary pay for her operation?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that, generally, where near relatives reside together as a family, services rendered by one member to another are presumed to be gratuitous. In this case, concluded the judge, there was no evidence to rebut that presumption. That with no prior agreement to the contrary, it was presumed that the operation would be performed free of charge. (Based upon a 1963 South Dakota Supreme Court Decision)

Missouri Research On Moon Samples

ROLLA - University of Missouri research on noble gases in earth and meteorite specimens has revealed much about the history of the solar system. Now UMR researchers in noble gases will look at moon samples from the recent Apollo mission for more clues about the universe.

Dr. O. K. Manuel, associate professor of chemistry at UMR, was notified early this summer by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration of his selection as a principal investigator for lunar sample analysis at UMR. Following his selection, NASA granted $17.000 to UMR for research on noble gases in the moon and will soon send moon rocks to the campus for the investigation.

According to Dr. Manuel, who has headed the UMR research team on noble gases for six years, a mass spectrometer will be used to analyze the atoms of noble gases in the lunar samples. The results will allow researchers to compare the history of the moon with the record of events previously found in meteorites and in the earth.

Noble gases, he says, are five extremely rare elements which exist as gases - Helium, Neon, Argon, Krypton and Xenon - which generally do not combine with other elements to form compounds. For this reason, they are called noble.

"Because they are so extremely rare," Dr. Manuel says, "they are good subjects for information which indicates what happened in the universe eons ago."

According to Manuel, UMR's research team on noble gases recently found evidence confirming that the earth is about 4.6 billion years old in the discovery of the decay product of Iodine - 129 in samples taken from a New Mexico gas well. Iodine-129 was present 4.6 billion years ago but decayed away in a very early period of the earth's existence. One prime objective of the work on lunar samples, Dr. Manuel says, will be a search for the decay product of Iodine-129 in the moon.

Students on the noble gas research team who will be involved in the moon sample work with Dr. Manuel include: Mrs. M. S. Boulos, 215 Nagogami Terrace, Richard Beaty, 1110 Bishop, and Vic Becker, 403 Walnut, all in Rolla; E. W. Hennecke, Gordonville, B. Srinivasan, Bombay, India and David Sinclair, Minneapolis, Minn. All are Ph.D. candidates. Mrs. Phyllis Johnson, 209 Hwy. 63 S. in Rolla, takes care of the typing and bookkeeping for the group.

Srinivasan plans to complete degree requirements this fall and has accepted a position in the physics department of the University of California at Berkeley. There he will work with a former member of UMR's research team, Dr. E. C. Alexander Jr., who graduated from UMR in January 1970, and has since been actively involved in studies on lunar samples returned by previous Apollo Missions.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Sept. 18, the 261st day of 1971. There are 104 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history!

On this date in 1959, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev addressed the U. N. General Assembly and called for the disarmament of all nations within the next four years.

On this date in 1759, Quebec was formally surrendered by the French to the British.

In 1793, President George Washington laid the cornerstone of the Capitol Building in Washington.

In 1810, Chile declared itself independent of Spain.

In 1850, Congress passed the Fugitive Slave Act, permitting a slave-owner possessing a certificate of ownership to reclaim any slave who escaped into another state.

In 1851, the first issue of the New York Times was published.

In 1931, Japan began the military occupation of Manchuria.

Ten years ago! Dag Hammerskjold, U. N. Secretary-General, was killed in a plane crash in northern Rhodesia.

Five years ago! The 21-year old daughter of now Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois was killed in a savage bedroom knife attack.

One year ago! A Greek court panel refused to indict millionaire Stavros Niarchos in the death of his wife.

"We hope the community will go all out in supporting the Community Fund drive this year and meet the quota to maintain these agencies," Phillips said.

The greater protion of donations. he said, remain in the community for benefit of youth, services to area servicemen and emergency assistance to community indigents.

Construction of a new highway bridge was halted recently to avoid disturbing about 65,000 ducks and geese. The World Almanac says. When migrant birds settled near the bridge site. wildlife officials ordered further work to be stopped. fearing that construction noises might have scared the birds away. Highway planners and builders are today striving to preserve and protect America's ecology.

The piranha is a deadly fish native to South American rivers. The piranha has powerful jaws and razor-sharp, triangular teeth that are capable of killing men and cattle, The World Almanac notes. A school of piranha can reduce an animal to a skeleton in a few minutes.

New Autos Thursday

SIKESTON MOTOR CO. SIKESTON, Mo. will have the full line of Ford Division's 1972 automobiles on sale during its new car introduction on September 24.

Highlighting new car offerings are the completely redesigned Toriono and Thurnderbirds featuring jamor under - the - skin changes and increased interior room.

Clint Elledge, said that the 1972 models could be the most successful in Ford Division's history. "President Nixon's bold new economic plan will strengthen Pinto and Maverick's position in the small car maket, and provide an excellent climate for the indroduction of our all -new Thunderbird and Torino," he declared.

The most changed offering in 1972 is the Torino. The popluar intermediate features new dimensions, sheet metal and chassis in its greatest change since it was introduced as the 1962 Fairlane.

Torino features body - on -frame construction, new front and rear suspensions and separate wheelbases for two -and four -door models. The interior features a new instrument panel and standard high -back front bench seats. For added safety, front disc brakes and side impact protection are standard.

Included among 1972 Tornio models are three two-door hardtops, three station wagons, two four-door pillared hardtops and a Sports Roof.

The 1972 Thunderbird features new exterior styling and significantly increased interior room. The Thunderbird, offered in a single two-door hardtop model, has a new front and a totally redesigned rear suspension system called "Posi-Ride." More interior space is permitted by the 3.5 inch increase in overall length.

Engineering refinements abound in the 1972 Maverick, Pinto and Mustang, while the Ford has new front and rear styles.

Wheat Being Seeded On Farms in Area

By Thomas A. Brown, Jr.

Wheat has already been seeded in some cases, and land is being prepared for seeding a large acreage of wheat as corn and other crops are being harvested.

While visiting with Milton Garner, a well known farmer in the Dexter area, I noticed that wheat was already coming up in one field on his farm. In checking with Mr. Garner, I learned that this wheat was of the Arthur variety which, according to him, has performed very well on his farm. Arthur seems to be the most popular wheat variety among Stoddard County farmers. It is a high yielding variety which is comparable to Monon in maturity and winter hardiness. It is shorter and stiffer strawed than Monon. Arthur has pretty good Hessian fly resistance and is moerdately resistant to leaf rust, stem rust, powdery mildew, loose smut and soil borne mosaic.

Wheat varieties recommended for use in this area other than Arthur include Benhur, Knox 62, Monon, Sadler.

Blueboy has been a popular variety in this area, and although its yields have been impressive, they have been offset to some extent by the low test weight. Test weights of as low as 46 were reported in this variety during the past two years, and many farmers were penalized at the market for these low test weights. This variety is four to five days later than Arthurand Monon and is susceptible to leaf rust, powdery mildew and Hessian fly. Some reports from North Carolina where this variety was developed inidcate that spectacular yields of this variety can be produced by the use of unusually high rates of nitrogen. Results of experimental tests at Portageville do not indicate this to be the case in this area.

Speaking of Arthur, a new variety known as Arthur 71 is being released by the University of Missouri Foundation Seed Stock Division. This variety is a backcross derivative of Arthur to add Hessian fly resistance of the "Riberio" type and the "transfer" type of resistance to leaf rust. It is a little taller, a few days later and a little lighter green in color than Arthur, but other characteristics are very simular to Arthur.

Malden Man's Horses Win at Fair

Community Development Talk Heard

HOWARDVILLE - New Madrid county Operation Shirtsleeves met at Howardville school Monday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. The speaker was Lou G. Gray, from community development extension of the University of Missouri Delta Center at Portageville.

This meeting brought together representatives of state and local agencies and citizens from nine neighboring communities.

The next meeting will be Oct. 11 at the Howardville school.

p-12 1-3-24 water for

Probably nothing is used more often in the home than water. By planning, water can make life more pleasant and convenient.

According to Richard Lacy, superintendent of water and sewage of the board of municipal utilities, a great amount of time and money can be saved if, when planning a new home, both future water needs and ease of maintenance are considered.

If the building budget does not permit immediate installation of some of the plumbing conveniences a family ultimately will want, it's a good idea to have the pipe for these conveniences stubbed-in at apoint of future use.

Provisions can be made in this way for the later addition of such things as a shower in the basement, an entertainment sink in the family room, a powder room or mud room.

The stubbed-in pipe can be capped and concealed by the walls and you can be given a plan of its location.

As needs grow, these home features can be installed with minimum wall breakage and at a substantial savings.

"Maintenance convenience is provided by shutoff valves installed at all main fixtures," officials of the board of municipal utilities said. "These valves enable the homeowner to shut off the water at one fixture in an emergency without shutting off the water in the home."

Egypt-Israel

Missile Fire Exchanged

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel and Egypt exchanged missile fire along the Suez Canal today in the most serious outbreak of Middle East fighting since a U.S.-sponsored ceasefire went into effect 13 months ago.

The Israeli military command claimed Egyptians opened fire with Soviet-supplied ground-to-air missiles against Israeli warplanes flying over the occupied Sinai Desert. The Israelis said their jets returned the Egyptian fire but made no mention of crossing the canal into Egyptian airspace.

A military spokesman in Cairo, however, said the firing began when a formation of Israeli Phantom jets blasted Egyptian positions with a number of Shrike rockets. Egypt said the Israeli attack took place about six miles inside the Isreali-held Sinai Desert.

The Cairo spokesman said the Israeli rockets caused no casualties or damage. The Israeli command did not say whether any of its planes were hit by the Egyptian antiaircraft missiles.

The hostilities along the Suez, which has been free of major fighting since the cease-fire began on Aug. 7, 1970, coincided with a burst of fighting reported by Lebanon near its border with Israel.

The Lebanese military command said Israeli soldiers opened fire on the village of Rmaich, about 2½ miles from the border. A spokesman said the firing followed gunfire on the Israeli side of the border, presumably between Palestinian guerrillas and the Israelis.

The missile exchange further charged the 103-mile-long Suez Canal with tension. Israeli and Egyptian troops already were on the alert because of the downing of an Israeli transport plane by Egyptian air defenses.

The Israeli state radio, quoting official military sources, said Egyptian troops "went on a full scale alert with soldiers donning helmets." It added that "Israeli troops also were at appropriate readiness."

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said the attack on the plane Friday was an act of provocation, but that the question of retaliation required some thought.

A Soviet-made antiaircraft missile hit the U.S. - built Stratocruiser over the Sinai desert, and it crashed in flames 15 miles east of the Suez Canal, the Isreali military command reported.

It said seven of the eight members of the four-engien transport's crew were missing and one parachuted to safety.

The Isrealis said the plane was carrying "cargo" and was making a routine trip parallel to the waterway but not near it. The Suez marks the cease-fire line between Egypt and Isreal.

Egypt at first claimed the craft was a Phantom fighter-bomber on a reconnaisance mission over Egyptian territory, but later acknowledged it was a transport.

The loss brought to 17 the number of aircraft the Isrealis say the Egyptians have shot down along the canal since the 1967 Middle Eastwar. But it was the first reported loss since the cease-fire went into effect in August 1970.

Dayan, said in a nationwide television broadcast that the incident was "blatantly belligerent and provocative." He said it was "planned and initiated by the Egyptians," who know that Israeli transports fly in the area from time to time.

Electrical Charge Fatal For Rickie Holyfield

Rickie Holyfield, 21, was killed Friday afternoon in his father's airplane hanger, apparent victim of electrocution.

A preliminary autopsy conducted by Dr. Robert Ahlvin, staff pathologist at the Missouri Delta Community hospital this morning, indicated Holyfield died from the shock on a 440-volt hoist on which he was working. His death came while working at the hanger, four miles north of Sikeston off Interstate 55.

Coroner Gene Nunnelee said at least three theories of the death have been "ruled out" and doctors at the emergency room of the hospital Friday indicated the boy may have died from a vascular disorder, possibly a cerebral hemorrhage.

Holyfield was installing chrome electroplating equipment early Friday afternoon when a fellow worker, Sonny Heacox, noticed him lying on the floor. Nunnelee's preliminary investigation discounted the possibility of death by electrocution.

Rickie Holyfield

Nunnelee said a more complete examination this morning disclosed two small areas on Holyfield's palms, which indicated an electrical shock had entered his body.

Nunnelee said a further investigation is being conducted, but added that it is believed the findings will verify this morning's autopsy announcement.

A full report on the autopsy's findings will be presented next week.

Jim Statler, supervisor of the installation, administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, but Nunnelee said the boy apparently was dead at the time.

The initial theory of the death indicated Holyfield might have come in contact with a highly poisonous chemical stored in the electroplating equipment. An investigation by workers, Nunnelee and depty Sheriff Gerald Inman disclosed the chemicals were in another section of the hanger and in their original shipping cartons.

The young man died at 1:15 p.m. following his return to work from his lunch break. Food poisoning

Hearing Date to Be Set in Suit

BLOOMFIELD - Stoddard County Circuit Judge William H. Billings Monday is expected to set a date for a hearing on a writ for habeas corpus in which Michael T. Geoghegan, 22, of St. Louis, claims he should be freed from confinement in the Stoddard county jail at Bloomfield because of unsuitable jail conditions.

Georghegan, who is serving a one-year sentence for possession of marijuana and LSD, charged in the suit filed Tuesday that the jail is "filthy and crowded" and that he fears bodily harm because of acts of sodomy there.

One of his complaints was about the jail's diet. Georghegan said he has been served a boloney sandwich for dinner every night since he was failed in August of 1970. He was a student at Southeast Missouri College at Cape Girardeau where he was arrested on the drug charge.

The young prisoner also has filed a $30,000 damage suit against Sheriff Edsel Edwards and the Stoddard County Court.

Prosecuting Attorney Paul McGhee said the accused have 30 days to file a reply to the suit.

Hearnes Political Plans to Be Told

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said Friday he will disclose his future political plans here next week but refused to discuss the resignation of all members of the State Board of Training Schools.

Hearnes stopped off in St. Louis on his way back to the capitol Friday after attending the National Governor's Conference in Puerto Rico and meeting with President Nixon in Washington.

Hearnes told newsmen at the airport in St. Louis that he will announce his political plans at a Truman Day Democratic meeting in St. Louis Sept. 24-25.

Hearnes, who leaves office in January 1973, has been mentioned as a possible congressional candidate in southeastern Missouri.

Asked about the resignations of the state board members, Hearnes said only "no comment" or "I have nothing to say."

All six members of the training school board sent their resignations to Hearnes the day before he left for the governor's conference.

A Monarchy Celebrates Its 2,500th Birthday

PERSEPOLIS, Iran (AP) — Iran, pausing this October to honor the founding of its 2,500-year-old monarchy, is fast gliding into the modern world on a swelling tide of oil.

Kings, queens, presidents and other world figures will come in October to celebrate the anniversary as guests of the Shah of Iran, Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, and Empress Farah.

They will stay in a sumptuous tent city equipped with marble baths, Persian rugs and a $275 million communications system.

The thousand and one nights legacy, however, is only half of Iran.

The other half is encountered traveling through its oasis towns, the oil fields, the lush farmlands of the Caspian Sea coast, the populous cities and a silvery steel mill.

Cyrus the Great was firmly in control when he founded the ancient Persian empire, which stretched from the Mediterranean to India, from Egypt to the Black Sea. But what Cyrus won with the sword, he ruled with what may be the first declaration of human rights. It decreed religious tolerance, freedom from slarvery and the right to different local customs.

The Old Testament praises Cyrus for releasing 40,000 Jews from Babylonian captivity so that they could rebuild the Temple of Solomon at Jerusalem.

He also promoted trade, built an empire-wide road network, introduced a monetary system and adroitly ran a decentralized administration and tax collection system.

Today's shah is also the undisputed boss. The shah does not reign; he rules.

He does it with 10-year old "White (for bloodless) Revolution," which is intended to extract Iran from the feudalism, internal disputes, corruption, foreign influence and poverty of her more recent, and less glorious, past.

The most important item in the "White Revolution" is land reform. Land has been distributed to one-time tenant farmers and some 9,000 cooperatives formed.

Now, with U.S. methods and Isreali, advisors, the emphasis is on setting up modern agro-business companies and mechanizing the farms.

Other points in the shah's program are health care, a literacy campaign, emancipation of women, rural education, profit sharing, better communications and industrialization.

The money to pay for it flows from the oil fields at the Persian Gulf. One billion dollars, half of the national budget, will be Iran's share of this year's profits.

Iran is the biggest oil producer in the Middle East and fourth in world production, trailing the United States, the Soviet Union and Venezuela.

The economic principle of the shah's revolution is NOT to distribute the oil profits among the people directly (current per capita annual income is $330), but to use them to modernize agricultural production and industrialize.

His theory is that this will help Iran stand on her own feet should the oil income slacken or even cease.

Iran remains a fascinating mixture of old and new.

Camel and donkey herds trudge past flames leaping from pipes near an oil well; supermarkets and high rises compete with old bazaars and lofty minarets;a girl in a bikini swims with her mother, who wears a black head-to-toe veil; tribesmen choose between horses and Japanese motorbikes.

Islam is the state religion - imposed by an Arab invasion centuries ago. But Persia mellowed the faith, and most Iranians today adhere to a tolerant brand of Islam.

Some 40,000 Jews in Iran still adhere to their own faith, and Iran has stayed outside the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Not all Iranians, are happy with the scheme of things.

Some fear the outcome of such rapid progress and point to the West's problems. Caviar production, for example, is endangered by increasing pollution of the Caspian Sea.

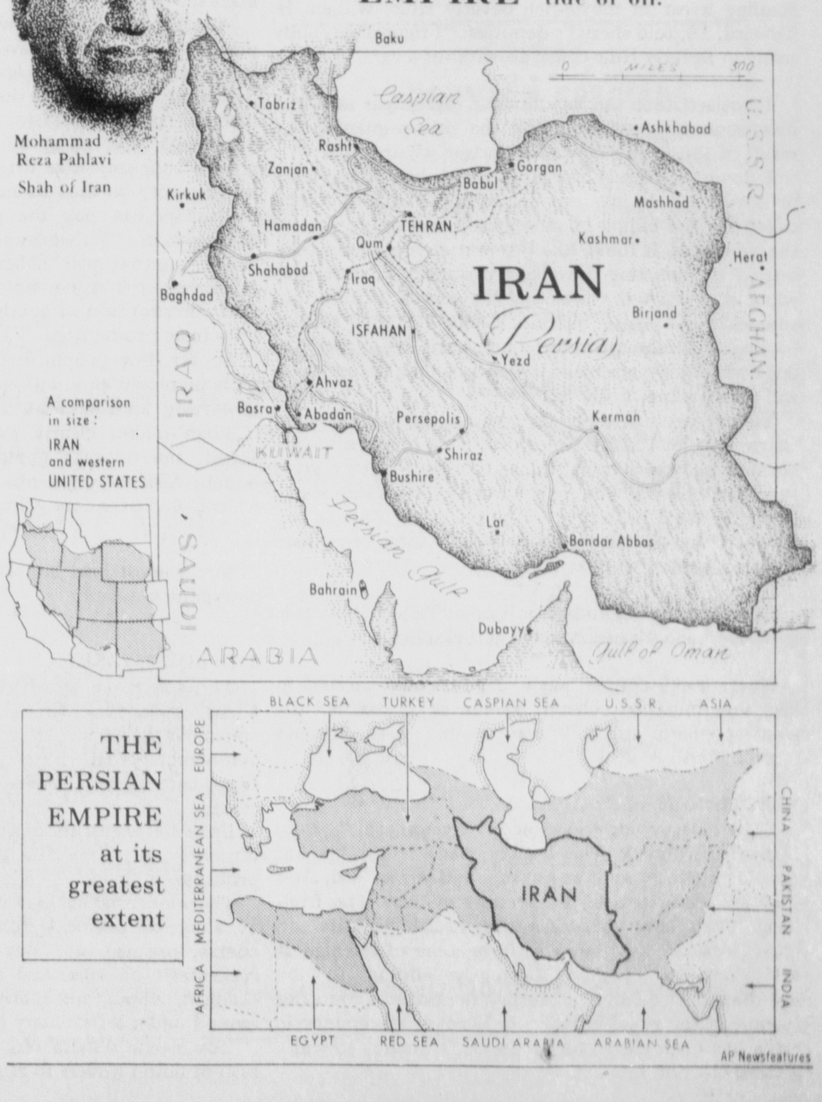

Others would rather cash in on the oil today than build for the future

KEEP PANAMA CANAL ZONE UNDER U.S.

The United States is negotiating with Panama a treaty that would yield to that country the sovereign rights, power and authority of the United States over the Canal Zone. This sovereignty is now held in perpetuity by the United States under a treaty signed in 1903.

The ostensible aim of the new treaty is to give to the United States the right to build a sea-level canal through Panamanian territory at a cost of $2,880,000,000 (estimated in 1970) in addition to right of way and indemnity charges. Thus the United States would be deprived of its rights in a vital connecting link between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, in return for the dubious privilege of constructing at another enormous outlay of money another canal that is opposed by eminent scientists because of dangers to marine life.

The total net investment of the United States in the Panama Canal, including defense, is more than $5 billion. At a time when the country is tightening its belt in order to overcome imbalances in its domestic budget and its international commerce, the construction of a duplicate canal would be folly. Even worse would be the cession of territory that has been eyed by the dupes of Communist powers for years. The surrender of that critically important piece of land could be as dangerous to Panama as it would be to the United States. Let the Congress reject it.

In answer to the growing group of critics who have been assaulting the reputation of America, the National Association of Manufacturers quotes Mr. James M. Roche, chairman of General Motors Corporation: "The current disparagement of America holds many ironies. One is that the country is criticized for a relatively narrow area of shortcomings without credit for its broad range of achievements. For example, the nation is credited less with a superior system of public higher education than it is criticized for not making it freely available to all -- even the unqualified. The nation is credited less with an incomparable transportation system than it is faulted for its traffic jams. The nation is credited less with having two thirds of its families own their own homes than it is condemned for its slums. Many of today's problems are an outgrowth of yesterday's progress ... Some who criticize our system would substitute other systems which have fallen far short of ours. In most other countries the quality of our daily life is still no more than a hopeful vision. In those places, such criticims as we hear would be mere frivolities, idle pastimes of the academic. Where there are no roofs, there are no leaks."

I noticed that the headlines in the paper said that dissension is growing among the prison guards, as a result of the Attica, New York prison affair.

I down know whether Rockefeller had views, ideas or any orders to give on this, but I'm sorry that they called for the killing of nine guards and only thirty of the prisoners. It looks like this matter could have been settled by shooting down the prisoners to start with when they started contacting the guards. I think that whenever the prison officials decide it's time to quit fooling with the prisoners and shoot them just like dogs when they are mad, it won't be long before there will be anymore prison riots.

That's just the way I feel about this Judge in St. Louis who let Charlie Kohn out of his prison sentence because he was starving himself to death. It's a good thing that I wasn't the judge, because I'd let him starve to death. We'd been might happy for the State to pay for his burial and that would also stop these boys from going on hunger strikes.

ELECTION IN DENMARK

"The truest thing to say about Scandinavia," wrote Donald S. Connery (The Scandinavians, 1966), "is that people work for what they have, and work hard. And they are the first to say that what they have is far from ideal. They have social security, health benefits and good pensions, but they also have some of the highest taxes in the world." Currently adding to the less-than-ideal quality of life in the northern countries is some of the worst inflation in Europe. The economic crisis has compelled one of them, Denmark, to call a general election this fall.

The Danish election on Tuesday, Sept. 21, is "extraordinary," because a regularly scheduled election is not due until January. The practice of calling an election somewhat early is not unusual, however. All of the 179 seats in the Folketing, or parliament, are vulnerable. Inflation, an unfavorable balance of payments and strict controls on prices and profits will probably erode the support of the non-Socialist coalition now in power.

The Social Democratic party had held power in Denmark for over 14 years when the administration was forced to resign in December 1967, after devaluing the krone. It retained the largest number of seats after the 1968 election, but lost control of the government. Hilmar Baunsgaard, a Radical Liberal, became Prime Minister. Although Baunsgaard has held his coalition together well, public opinion polls indicate the election will be close. "I think we'll be back," he told The New York Times (May 23, 1971), "but the margin could be smaller."

The defeat of the Social Democrats did not mean the defeat of basic Social Democratic principles, such as a guaranteed minimum economic level for all. But economic troubles have forced some cutbacks in welfare spending. Old-age pensions, for example, will rise this year by only 3.5 per cent, instead of the planned 12 per cent. While some politicians rethink the welfare program, the newly-formed Christian People's Party is campaigning for the reform of the 1969 laws liberalizing abortion and ending all restrictions on pornography. The party aims to "renew our people, spiritually and morally," but the polls suggest it will attract only between 2 and 5 per cent of the vote.

CARVING PIE THAT HAS YET TO BE BAKED

"Reordering of national priorities" is being used repeatedly to create visions of a nation going about the business of choosing programs and projects that it wishes to undertake much as a householder goes about buying furniture, automobiles and other conveniences and necessities. The trouble is nations, particularly democratic nations, in periods of inflation and high government deficits do not behave in an orderly fashion let alone exercise prudence in public undertakings.

In a discussion of "New Priorities: What to Give Up?," George Melloan of The Wall Street Journal editorial-page staff deflates the idea that the U.S. is a vast reservoir of wealth and can buy its way into Utopia with a system of "priority." He stresses that a reordering of priorities will involve giving up one thing to achieve something else, rather than choosing between a number of desirable objectives.

Mr. Melloan draws on a just concluded study of the nation's federal budget projects for the next five years by the brookings Institution. The study reveals that between now and 1976, "... already programmed growth in existing federal programs will use up nearly all of the extra federal revenue generated by growth of the national economy ..." This includes the imaginary financial windfall resulting from the termination of the war in Vietnam. The study shows, for example, that cutbacks in defense cannot go much further. It forsees a gradual rise in defense spending in terms of constant dollars through 1976.

Writes Mr. Melloan, "For some time, the Brookings' study shows, the most rapid growth in federal spending has not been in defense, space travel and international affairs but in what Brookings calls "income maintenance' programs, in which, in effect, the government distributes money to its citizens. Under this heading would come Social Security, public assistance programs (including the very fast growing Aid to Families with Dependent Children), veterans' benefits, farm subsidies, Medicare, Medicaid and the like. In 1960, such programs accounted for $25 billion of the budget. They will account for $85 billion in the fiscal 1972 budget. That will almost equal the combined outlay for defense, space and international affairs..."

Another direction in which reordering of national priorities seems to have turned is environmental improvement through laws that shift the cost of pollution control to the shoulders of consumers through price increases. One leading businessman comments that many of the new demands on the private economy take little account of whether it has the capacity to mee them -- in other words, whether consumers can pay the price. In the words of this businessman, "We've learned to write erudite books about international balance of payments and full employment budgets, but too few people understand that consumption of goods or services can be fulfilled only from production..."

So far, few people seem inclined to be concerned with increased production. They are more interested in carving up a pie that has yet to be baked. What Mr. Melloan makes clearly evident is that in the years ahead, the nation's demands and wants cannot be bought with mere greenbacks. They must be met with what U.S. citizens are willing and able to produce.

THE EQUALIZER?

The author of a letter to the Wall Street Journal has a suggestion for AFL-CIO President George Meany, consumer advocate Ralph Nader and others who are complaining that the wage-price freeze is unfair to labor and favors business because there is no lid on profits.

Let's tie wages to profits, says William R. Bates of Elmhurst, Ill. If profits go up, wages go up. And if profits go down ...

The embarrassing fact is that wages have increased by some 35 per cent from 1965 to 1970. Prices, of course, are also up. But corporation profits, as a percentage of sales and after-tax income, are little changed overall, and many large employers are losing ground under inflationary conditions.

You needn't stand out of the way. There'll be no rush of union leaders to rally around the proposal.

A WISE INVESTMENT

A common fallacy concerning the space program is that landing men on the moon was a costly stunt wholly unrelated to earthly well - being. But, as Mr. Robert Anderson, exexutive vice president of the North American Rockwell Corporation, declared vehemently in an Address: "...space activities are not competing with programs of ecological improvement or social betterment. They are actually complementing them ....

"The sweeping scope of space technology will be felt more and more in the vast programs being planned to change the course of rivers and the flow of electricity over thousands of miles. It will reach into the purification of our waters and the desalting of the sea. It will have a bearing on the revitalization of our earth transportation system, and it will have a great influence in the field of medicine." Other direct beneficiaries of continuing advances in space will be urban arfairs, education, law enforcement and city planning.

Again in the words of Mr. Anderson: "We are in considerable trouble today. That trouble could be compounded as our technological society advances toward the year 2000 if we do not make use of the extraordinary new tools that are now within our grasp." These new tools are largely a by - product of the space program. They are the keys to the apparently insoluble riddle of an over - populated earth. The billions of dollars that have been spent on research and development of space technology could one day be recorded as the wisest public investment this nation has ever made.

PUBLICATION OF VIETNAM PAPERS

The Appeal editor has mixed emotions regarding the publication by the New York times and other newspapers of the Vietnam documents, which were supposed to be secret.

We believe it would be a dangerous precedent if our courts prohibit publication. These papers may contain some sections that would be dangerous to our national security, but those could be kept secret and the remainder of the documents published. We think this because the American people have the right to the full truth on what created the situation in which we find ourselves in Vietnam. Neither under the Johnson administration, nor under the present administration have we been given the whole truth. If we are to pay for the Vietnam war, and send our sons to fight and die in it, we have a right to know everything there is to know about it.

We also believe it is unfortunate that any American newspaper or other news media should feel it necessary to secure such documents in what may have been an illegal manner, and that the person who turned them over to the Times should be punished for taking them from government files without permission.

And while the fact we should know all the facts doesn't justify the actions of whoever pilfered the papers from government files and made them public, we also know that too often, documents are tabbed secret or highly confidential by officials who merely wish to cover up their own blunders, and not because of their desire to protect the national security.

Sometime, somewhere, a plan will be evolved under which nothing can be placed in the top- secret files without the consent of a reviewing board of men and women who have no interest other than the protection of our nation and not the protection of the reputation of individual officials. If such a system had been in effect when the Vietnam war started, the present rhubarb over the Vietnam papers would never have occurred, and the people who pay with both money and blood would have known all along the facts of the situation.

INDUSTRY ENDORSES ADMINISTRATION'S MONETARY POLICIES

The Administration's middel -of -the -road fiscal and monetary policies have been endorsed by the National Association of Manufacturers as the best antidote to inflation.

In a statement filed with the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, the NAM said that the "moderate posture" recommended by the President's Council of Economic Advisers would provide a good guide to desirable national fiscal and monetary policies for many years into the future.

"The qualities called for at this juncture are modesty, patience and a recognition of the limitations both of our economic wisdom and of the nation's econmic resources. Our present troubles are the result of behaving, in the 1960's, as though both wisdom and resources were limitless. We have suffered from the illusions that we possessed the skill to turn the economy quickly and painlessly, whenever desired, and the productive capacity to provide for whatever new government programs sounded good."

In endorsing the present Administration's policies, the NAM identified them as a moderate posture in the fiscal area — that is, a modest surplus in the unified budget in fiscal 1971. In the monetary area, it is taken to mean a rate of monetary expansion somewhere between the highly expansionary rate of 1967-68 and the highly restrictive rate of the last half of 1969.

THE THANKLESS POST

The New York Times editorializes that the Nixon administration is ultimately more to blame for the strike against General Motors than either the company or the workers because it has failed to curb the wage - price spiral.

The President is faulted for playing "economic ostrich" by not even trying to "jawbone" workers out of seeking inflationary wage hikes.

Thus to catch up with inflation the autoworkers have called a strike which, if prolonged, warns the Times, could reverse the moderate upturn in the economy and further depress employment, as well as wreck GM's hopes for its new small car.

It is not clear who is to blame for the fact that the upturn in the economy, now in danger of being reversed, was only "moderate."

Similarly, a syndicated columnist has put his finger on the real cause of the trouble in the Mideast. It is, he says, the "ineptly conceived" Nixon administration peace plan.

The Palestinian guerrillas, alarmed at the prospect of a peace which made no provision for the obliteration of Israel, had no choice but to start hijacking airliners and to bring Jordan to civil war.

Presumably, too, had the President not pressed for a cease - fire between Israel and Egypt, the latter would not have been placed in the position of violating it by moving up new antiaircraft rockets.

Does anybody still want his kid to grow up to be President?

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON–We have been able to verify that Aristotle Onassis, king of the jet set, contributed to President Nixon's 1968 campaign.

The golden Greek made the contribution about the time he was marrying Jacqueline Kennedy, the widow of Nixon's 1960 presidential rival.

A trustworthy source, with access to the list of secret contributors to the Nixon campaign, told us a $100,000 donation had been made in the joint name of "Mr. and Mrs. Aristotle Onassis."

We could get no official verification of this from the top Republican fund raisers. We searched the public contributor lists in vain for Onassis's name. We also placed transatlantic calls to Onassis's headquarters in Monte Carlo.

Finally, a totally reliable source close to Onassis acknowledged that the shipping tycoon, indeed, had contributed to the Nixon campaign. The source would not divulge the amount of the contribution but said he doubted that Jacqueline had any knowledge of it.

Footnote: Aristotle and Jacqueline Onassis were married on October 20, 1968.

DZU WHITEWASH

Last week, we identified Lt. Gen. Ngo Dzu, military commander of South Vietnam's central highlands, as "one of the chief heroin traffickers in Southeast Asia.'. He was responsible, we said, for heroin addiction of American GIs.

We cited classified intelligence reports, giving dates and details, to back up the charges.

Dzu was first linked to the heroin trade by Rep.Robert Steele, R-Conn., in congressional testimony last July. President Thieu immediately ordered an investigation. But we reported last week that it was doubtful Dzu would ever be brought to trial.

While our story was still being set in type, President Theiu promoted Dzu to a three-star general. And two days after the story appeared, Thieu's special investigating team whitewashed Dzu of the drug-running charges.

Nevertheless, here is more sordid evidence of the heroin problems Dzu has created for the U.S.:

Dzu took command of the central highlands a year ago, with war lord powers. His predecessor had kept a tight rein on the heroin peddlers. During the previous 12 months, for example, only two American addicts were admitted to the Army's 67th Evacuation Hospital at Qui Nhon, the provincial capital.

But the heroin started to flow after Dzu took over, and four GIs were admitted in October for heroin addiction. In November, there were 14.

The number of drug admissions in December hit 53, of which 38 were treated for addiction. In january, the hospital handled 51 drug cases, 30 of them heroin related. By the time, the 67th Evacuation Hospital was turning into a drug sanitarium. So an additional 340 drug victims were treated as outpatients by the hospital and its four outlying clinics.

CORRUPT PROVOST MARSHALL

The classified reports, which we quoted last week, charged that Dzu had enlisted the South Vietnamese Provost Marshal in Qui Hohn as an accomplice in the dope racket.

One woman was arrested with 76 vials of almost pure heroin outside the American PX. She was hauled off to a South Vietnamese jail. But within two weeks, she was back in front of the PX with her addictive wares.

As the dope traffic increased, the Army's Criminal Investigation Division sent an agent to brief the hospital officers about the heroin problem.

"Heroin can be bought over every compound fence in Qui Nhon," the CID man told the hospital staff. The agent said the CID was getting absolutely no cooperation from Dzu.

Yet Dzu's senior American advisor, John Paul Vann, has now blandly assured the press: "There's no information available to me that in any shape, manner or fashion would substantiate the charges (against Dzu)."

Footnote: The rise in heroin addiction in the central highlands, of course, is only part of the problem Dzu had caused. The classified reports charge he has also been smuggling heroin out of the highlands to GIs elsewhere in Vietnam. He is also responsible, at least indirectly, for some heroin shipments that reach the U.S.

HAVEN FOR WAVERLY

News of the death of Russia's ex-Premier Nikita Khrushchev reminded Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., of their marathon, eight-hour discussion back in 1958.

After talking about weightier matters, Khrushchev pulled down a roll-up map of the U.S. and asked Humphrey to point out where he lived. Humphrey located Waverly, Minnesota, on the map for the Soviet leader, who promptly announced:

"We will not bomb Waverly."

Inside Labor

Party Line--Revolt!--Revolutionary 'Inmate Councils' Stir Prison System Riots Across Nation

NEW YORK– In the beginning there must be tear-seared sympathy for the victims of the Attica rebels -- and for the moment the dead guards are not the issue. The victims are the elderly women who have been raped, robbed and stomped, sometimes to death; or the children who have been sexually molested and mauled; or the men and women killed by those prisoners in for manslaughter; or for those who barely escaped mutilation when bombs burst in such skyscrapers as RCA, General Motors, Chase Manhattan, Marine Midland and other buildings.

In the beginning it must be understood, as did the guards' union during each of its negotiations, that Attica is a very tough prison for the toughest, most sadistic prisoners in this state.

They are there to do time. They are not in for political indoctrination in Black Panther "revolutionary scientific socialism."

Nor are they in for seminars with political cadre leaders who promised to get them to Cuba as did those who killed a Qeubec government official and kidnapped a British diplomat late last year.

There are intelligence reports, propaganda analyses, and Justice Department interpretations of Black Panther Party decisions to use the national prison system as the frontier for national revolution. Certainly, such uprisings will be crushed. But just as certainly the rebellions will be launched, not by the heavy majority of prisoners, but by the tiny military cadres which Black Panther Supreme Commander and Minister of Defense Huey Newton talks and writes of. The Marin County Court House slaughter, the early and later uprisings in San Quentin, and in the Auburn, N.Y., prison, in the Manhattan Tombs and the Long Island City prison revolt which I observed and studied are past but bloody prelude.

In each of these prisons, and in correctional facilities ranging from California and Louisiana to the District of Columbia and upper New York, there are "Inmate Councils." And they await the moment. I have no doubt the "fraction" leaders of military cells inside the cadres are under orders to kill their guards whenever possible.

There is red rhetoric in the Black Panther literature--such as Huey Newton's "high tide of revolution" about to sweep American shores and to aid the "revolutionary lesson" taught by the San Quentin convicts.

One need only read the Panther Party's platform. It's all there, on prisons and release by fire. And from the Panther martyr George Jackson came these words: "I'll reiterate that I feel that the building of revolutionary consciousness of the prisoner class is paramount in the overall development of a hard-core left revolutionary cadre. And I repeat 'cadre'."

Later he said, "I've gained a clearer understanding of the tie-in between political andmilitary activity. I still see my function (in prison) as military." This assignment, he disclosed, was handed him by none other than Huey Newton.

Let no one believe, however, that this infantile leftism, or revolutionary puerility, bloddy as it is, stands limited to any race or creed. There is the white anarchist-imaged 6-foot, 35-year-old engineering technician, Samuel J. Melville, It was he who helped develop the cadres at Attica. It was he who, believing himself a Spartacus, developed the inner defense against the latter-day Roman legions. It was he who, according to reports, was set to burn everything and everybody in one last oil-soaked explosion.

Some of us have followed "comrade" Melville for a long time-- from the "East Village" here; from his days this paper had the blueprint for violence in Chicago, maps and police details and all, during the 1968 convention. Melville admitted blowing up parts of skyscrapers, piers, and Federal installations. He was caught in the act of placing bombs in a military truck here.

Melville and the "RAT" and Jane Albert and the Trotskyite SDS Weathermen (women) complexes are all intertwined.

It is a weird journey-to-the-middle-of-the-night phantasmagorical melange of neo-radicals such as "Chicago 7" counsel Bill Kunstler who siad the other day he would have liked to kill Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. Somewhere in hiding is the fugitive Weatherman leader Bernardine Dohrn, the advocate of direct violence against the establishment. Those with light knowledge of revolution underestimate her because she.s female. Don't.History is filled with such nihilists.

Not too long ago she sent a long message to her scattered troops.

"People become revolutionaries in the schools, in the army, in prisons, in communes, and on the streets. . . The attacks on the Marin County Court House and the Long Island City Jail were because we believe that the resistance and political leadership that is growing within the prisons demand immediate and mass support from young people . . . For all the George Jacksons. . . and potential revolutionaries in these jails. . . the movement is the lifeline.

"They rebelled expecting massive support from outside. Demonstrations in support of prison revolts are a major responsibility of the movement, but someone must call for them, put out leaflets, convince people it is a priority."

It's a tactic in an old strategy, an ex-revolutionist told me the other day. Watch it, brother, said he. It will have a spineless society gasping and apologetic. Everybody will forget the "rebels" and brutal criminals.

Hearings On Wage-Price Control Extension To Begin Sept. 27

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking Committee, says his panel will begin hearings Sept. 27 on extending the wage-price control act, the authority by which President Nixon ordered the 90-day wageprice freeze.

Speaking to newsmen after 23 leaders of the House and Senate met with Nixon for two hours Friday on the administration's new economic plan, Patman said some members of Congress have mentioned the possibility of extending the act from April 30, 1972, to Jan. 1, 1973.

No mention was made of specific proposals discussed at the meeting, but Patman said he hoped the administration would come up early with any legislative proposals it has in mind.

"We intend to call before the committee the various administration officials who have been charged with the responsibility of administering this program over the past month," Patman said. He added that private witnesses from "all areas of the economy" also will be called.

Patman reiterated the view of many who oppose the Nixon plan that controls on interest rates are needed.

"I don't believe you can enforce an overall wage-price control act unless you restrict interest rates," the Texas Democrat said. "We are paying $150 billion a year interest on the public and private debt. You can't defend a law that has exceptions."

The meeting with Nixon was the last in a series Nixon has had to collect views on what is needed after the present freeze ends Nov. 13. Previous sessions have been with labor, business and farm leaders.

Meanwhile, Cost of Living Council director Arnold R. Weber said up to 25 cases of alleged violations of the freeze may be sent to the Justice Department for legal action.

Weber said in an interview none of the cases involve large U.S. corporations.

In other developments:

—The council said medical fees for individual services, including those under Medicare, are frozen under the current guidelines. The council said Medicare payments also cannot increase when based on payment schedules because schedules are considered to be prices. It also ruled wages paid to workers transferred to a new location may be paid up to the ceiling that applies to the new job.

—Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson met in Detroit with United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock to discuss the administration plan.

Anti-Busing Congressmen Unite For Amendment Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Antibusing congressmen are joining forces behind a proposed constitutional amendment that would prohibit the requiring of busing to desegregate public schools.

About 60 House members from both parties and all sections of the country who are sponsoring separate amendments have agreed to unite on one and start a drive for its adoption.

At a meeting Thursday they tentatively decided to use an amendment proposed by Rep. Norman F. Lent, a freshman Republican from the Long Island suburbs of New York City, as the spearhead of the campaign against Supreme Court busing decisions.

Lent's amendment, according to a participant in the campaign, was chosen because he is not a southerner and because he has already led a successful anti-busing fight in the New York state legislature.

As a state senator, Lent cosponsored an antibusing law enacted in New York in 1969. It was held unconstitutional 18 months later by a federal district court and the Supreme Court affirmed the ruling last spring.

Lent's amendment, similar to the law he steered through the New York legislature, states simply that "no public school student shall, because of his race, creed or color, be assigned to or required to attend a particular school."

A committee composed of Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., Thomas N. Downing, D-Va., and Earl B. Ruth, R-N.C., will get legal advice on whether the amendment will accomplish what its sponsors intend, then report to the group at a meeting next week.

Also still to be finally determined is the strategy to be followed to get the amendment to a vote in the House. The normal legislative route—through te Judiciary Committee—will not be tried because of the known opposition of chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and the many possibilities for delay.

The alternatives are to bypass the Judiciary Committee, either by a special resolution from the Rules Committee or a discharge petition signed by 218 House members—a majority.

Another Southerner Likely Choice To Succeed Black

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Alabaman Hugo Black stepping down from the Supreme Court, another Southerner probably will be President Nixon's choice as a successor. But Nixon wants a less liberal Southerner than Black to bolster the court's conservative majority of one.

Rebuffed in two attempts to have a Southern conservative appointed to the nation's highest tribunal, Nixon has promised the next appointee will be one.

Before Black announced his retirement Friday, the court lineup was five predominantly conservative members to four liberals. The former group included Nixon's first two appointments, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Harry Blackmun, both strongmen of the faction that interpreted the Constitution conservatively. The others included Potter Stewart, Byron R. White and John M. Harlan.

Black, perhaps known best for his populist interpretation of the Constitution, generally sided with William O. Douglas, William J.Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall.

They, along with Abe Fortas and former Chief Justice Earl Warren, produced a distinctly liberal bent from the court until Fortas' resignation and the retirement of Warren in 1969.

Nixon appointed Burger as Chief Justice, then sought another conservative to give the court a majority.

But his nominations of Clement F. Haynsworth of South Carolina and G. Harrold Carswell of Florida to succeed Fortas were rejected by the Senate. Many senators said Haynsworth was insensitive to conflicts of interests; a number of senators said Carswell was mediocre; and both were cited on racial positions.

He succeeded in having Minnesotan Blackmun fill the seat, but Nixon publicly interpreted the earlier rejections as meaning "no Southern federal appelate judge who believes in a strict interpretation of the Constitution can be elevated to the Supreme Court."

Nixon then announced he would have a Southern conservative appointed. With Black's retirement, no Southerner sits on the court.

Speculation on Black's successor is centered on Rep. Richard H. Poff, 47, a Virginia Republican and member of the House Judiciary Committee. Poff also has been vice chairman of a special commission that proposed complete overhaul of the criminal code.

Nixon, however, also has told woman members of Congress he has not ruled out finding a competent woman or the bench.

Four Killed In Potosi Auto Crash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri's traffic death toll for the weekend stood at eight today with four killed in one accident near Washington State Park at Potosi.

The Highway Patrol reported those killed in a two-car crash Friday night on M21 near Washington State Park about 55 miles south of St. Louis were Frederic House, 22, and his passenger, Gary Skiles, 19, both of Desoto, Mo., Sherman Twomey, 25, of Belleview, and his passenger, James Fitzgerald, 23, of Middlebrook.

A three-car crash near House Springs killed one person and serious injured two others. The patrol said Bernard Miller, of House Springs, died about 1 a. m. when he tried to pass a second car on M30 and collided with an oncoming car. Two women identified as Linda Sue Markwardt, 18, and her passenger, Peggy Mattman, 17, both from O'Fallon, were injured.

Killed in an early morning crash on U.S. 40 in downtown St. Louis today was Frank Day, 35, of East St. Louis. Police said his car skidded on Market Street, crashed into a curb and struck a hydrant.

A Garden City, Mo., man, Ralph Stutzman, was killed early today in a one-car accident on Route Z near Highway 7 in Cass County.

An unidentified man was killed about 3 a. m. when his car ran off Highway 13 three miles south of Lexington, and struck a parked truck. The victim was trapped in the car, which caught fire.

Filibuster Threat Hangs Over Draft Extension Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate supporters of a bitterly contested draft extension bill now have the upper hand but still will have to overcome a filibuster to bring the measure to final vote.

A petition to invoke the Senate's debate-limiting cloture rule was filed by 22 senators Friday shortly after a motion to table the bill was defeated 47 to 36.

To put cloture into effect and break the filibuster will take a two-thirds majority of senators voting. The Senate is to vote on the petition Tuesday.

If the initial attempt to cut off debate fails, a second cloture petition is expected to be filed immediately and a vote on it would come Thursday.

Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said that as many cloture petitions as necessary will be filed in an effort to end the long battle over the bill, already approved by the House.

The bill, a compromise of differing measures originally passed; by the Senate and House, would extend the draft law for two years and give the military forces a $2.4 billion pay raise.

The tabling motion, made by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, was defeated by a bigger margin than expected, marking a solid victory for President Nixon and his lieutenants who battled down to the wire to save the bill.

Judge's Ruling Leaves Medina Facing Only One Murder Charge

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — A judge's ruling has left Capt. Ernest L. Medina facing only one charge of premeditated murder—that of shooting a woman in a rice paddy at My Lai.

The judge, Col. Kenneth Howard, on Friday reduced the premeditated murder charge against Medina in the deaths of 100 Vietnamese civilians to involuntary manslaughter.

He also granted a defense motion for a directed acquittal of murder in the death of a young boy. The Army had alleged that Medina ordered the boy shot during an infantry assault on My Lai in 1968. A witness testified he shot the boy and Medina gave no such order.

Howard let stand the charge of assault against Medina, which accuses him of firing two shots over the head of a Viet Cong suspect during an interrogation.

The judge's action left for the jury to begin deliberating, probably by the middle of next week, the one charge of premeditated murder, involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of the 100 villagers and the assault.

Medina would face life imprisonment if convicted of murder. Medina testified he shot the woman because he saw her move and thought she had a weapon.

Involuntary manslaughter carries a maximum penalty of three years. The judge said that charge makes it possible for the jury to find Medina guilty of even a lesser charge, negligent homicide, which carries a one-year sentence.

Medina, 35, commander of Charlie Company when it swept through My Lai in March 1968, had been charged with premeditated murder of "not less than 100" on the theory that he failed to intervene when his troops were shooting.

Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey had ased for dismissal of all charges against Medina.

He argued that the government had failed to prove that the captain had knowledge that his men were killing My Lai civilians or that he encouraged them to do so by shooting the woman and ordering the child shot.

Howard said later he reduced the charge of responsibility for 100 deaths because the government had failed to prove "that Capt. Medina intended for these people to be killed."

Medina showed no sign of emotion at the judge's ruling. He and his wife Barbara declined comment, but both were smiling as they stood outside the courtroom in a heavy rain.

The court was recessed until at least Tuesday when the judge plans to discuss his charge to the jury with defense and government lawyers.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Hodges

Hodges-Haman

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Miss Marsha Kay Haman and Thomas Edward Hodges were married September 8 at 6 p.m. in Grace United Methodist Church. The Rev. Howard Hardeman performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris A. Haman, 214 barberry. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Hodges, 1209 Ruth, Sikeston.

Mrs. Norman Ueleke was the organist.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a white angelskin peau de soie and satin striped organza wedding gown. The princess silhouette was of peau de soie with a slightly raised bodice and sheer bishop sleeves of organza,with the sleeves ending with deep lace-trimmed cuffs. The front of the bodice was trimmed with Venise lace motifs and a tiny band of lace encircled the stand-up collar and traced the princess lines on the skirt. Soft gathering and deep box pleats formed fullness for the back skirt and the attached train that swept to a full chapel length.

Her headpiece was a forward profile of Venetian lace with peau de soie petals and bows. The petals were edged with tiny pearls; and the small florettes of Venise lace were sprinkled with crystals. The headpiece was held secure with a two-tiered veil of imported English illusion.

Mrs. James Lichtenegger of Cape Girardeau was the matron of honor. Mr. and Mrs. James Lichtenegger of Cape Girardeau were couple's attendants.

Ray Helferstay of Mulvane, Kan., the bride's uncle, was the usher.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Serving were Mary Jane Hazel, Mrs. Tom Shaw and Mrs. William Surman.

Both the bride and groom are 1971 graduates of Southeast Missouri State College. After a wedding trip, the newlyweds will live in Nashville.

Constitution Week To Be Observed

At the first meeting of the fall for King's Highway Chapter DAR, Mrs. Alex Waters, committee chairman, announced plans for Observance of Constitution Week, which began Friday.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has signed a proclamation for the observance of Constitution Week, urging all Missourians to participate.

Missourians are urged to fly American Flags during the week in honor of document adopted in September of 1787.

Of interest to all Missouri DAR Chapters, was the bulletin announcement that historic Arrow Rock Tavern, DAR maintained, has received a $3,000.00 matching grant from the National Park Service to aid in restoration and preservation of this site. These funds will be matched by state funds.

Mrs. Jackson Burke gave the National Defense report on a new job-training program for rehabilitating women prisoners at the Detention Center in the District of Columbia.

Mrs. Joseph L. Baker gave an illustrated program on the history of the American Flag. She displayed old silk flags, some with odd numbers of stars such as 38 on one, 39 on another.

Mrs. Audley Brown announced the October meeting would be held in the home of Mrs. Roy Walden in East Prairie.

Miss Harryette Campbell of the Southeast Missouri Archelogical Society will speak at the October meeting.

Ann Landers

His Past, Not His Wife's Is Causing Him Trouble

Dear Ann Landers: I was born and reared in a conservative section of the country with strict moral standards. I have, therefore, maintained a very idealistic view of love and marriage. I have always believed that sex should be saved for after the marriage vows.

While in college I became lonely and depressed. I met a girl, fell in love and we were married. I knew she had had several men before me. She told me about her past and so did a few other people. But I was so much in love I was certain we could surmount all obstacles.

Now I find I was wrong. I cannot put her past out of my mind. Her premarital affairs have made her seem cheap. What's worse, I can't trust her. Every time she is a few minutes late I imagine she is back to her old tricks. She swears it is all in my mind, but I can't help it. I am in a constant state of anxiety.

Suspicion and jealousy are destroying me. I have begun to drink heavily. I quit a good job because I can't concentrate on my work. I have lost my ambition and drive. I spend a lot of time crying. Yes, grown men do cry when they have been hurt deeply enough. Please help me. Heart Sick in Harrisburg

Dear Harrisburg: You are mentally ill and your illiness is not related to your wife's past--but to yours. You said you were lonely and depressed when you met her. This is the first clue. You've been up and down all your life and now you are blaming your present depression on your wife.

Get professional help. You need it badly.

Dear Ann Landers: Right now I'm too filled with grief to trust my own judgment. Help me, please.

My husband died a few weeks ago. Several relatives and friends have called on me. At least six people have asked me for a "remembrance." A niece said she would like to have Uncle Joe's gold cufflinks. A nephew said Uncle Joe had promised him his pocket watch. My brother-in-law wants Joe's silver-handled cane. A man he played cards with said he had always admired Joe's initialed belt buckle and Joe said he could have it.

I wouldn't dream of going into a house of mourning and asking for something. Am I wrong? I haven't given anything away yet. I said I would think about it. Please tell me what to do--- especially about the people who say they were promised things. Thank you.---Fresh Grave in Toledo.

Dear T.---If any of the aforementioned articles have any significance to you, keep them. Don't give them away simply because someone asks or even says they were promised.

A person who wants to leave a memento to a friend or a relative arranges ahead to see that it is done. The arrangement is called a will.

Dear Ann Landers: In most of our classes we are seated in alphabetical order. The girl who sits ahead of me several hours a day does not bathe often enough. I am trying to put this delicately but the simple fact is that she has a very offensive odor and it makes me sick.

If I wrote her an anonymous note she might guess I was the one and I wouldn't be able to look her in the face. Please advise.---Faceless Friend.

Dear Friend: Ask the Phys. Ed. instructor to talk to the girl. She can do it in a tactful way and you will not be involved.

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become too hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting--What Are The Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Not Worth His Salt

Part of the pay of a Roman legionnaire consisted of lumps of salt. This practice led to the expression, "not worth his salt," to describe a person who does not earn his wages.

Family Farm Profitable

WASHINGTON (AP) — The family farm, if its owners can afford the large capital outlay necessary for full mechanization, often is more efficient than its corporate competitors, says the Agriculture Department.

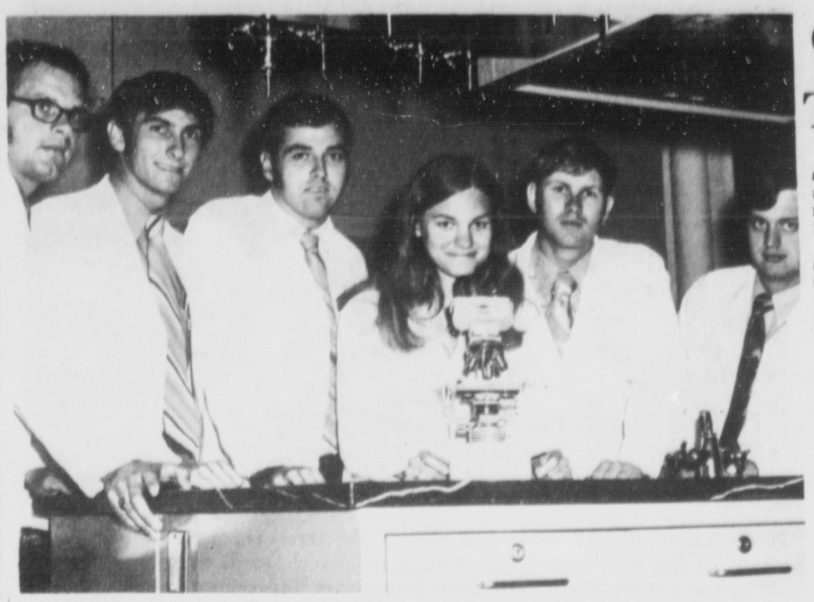

The department's Economic Research Service says a well organized, fully mechanized family scale farm can produce goods at a lower cost per unit than either the larger, corporate run farm or the smaller, nonmechnized farm.

Researchers found that the low-cost one-man hog farm included 400-plus acres and produced 150 litters of pigs a year. And it took a total capital of $200,000 to yield a net return of $23,000. They said this assumes more normal hog prices than have prevailed in the past year.

They reported the low-cost one-man dairy farm had 235 acres, 40 cows, and required $150,000 in capital. Net returns to operators would be $15,000 or more.

The one-man irrigated cotton farm included 440 acres, of which 140 were in cotton. Total capital was almost $300,000. This produced an operatormanagement income from the total operation of almost $20,000.

The low-cost one-man corn farm had 760 acres of cropland.

Lead In Air Reported To Be No Major Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The amount of lead in the air of most major cities apparently has not changed significantly in the past 15 years despite a rapid increase in use of leaded gasoline, says the National Research Council.

A summary of the report said there is 20 times as much lead in the air in metropolitan areas as in rural areas "due largely to the combustion and dispersal of lead additives in gasoline." But it said the average American, even in the cities, "consumes more lead in food and beverages than he inhales from the air."

"The high concentration of lead in the air of central cities constitutes a potential health hazard to young children and certain groups of workers," the summary said, "but poses no identifiable current threat to the general population."

The report was one of a series on atmospheric pollutants being prepared at the request of the Environmental Protection Agency.

The EPA has indicated it plans to ban or limit use of lead additives in gasoline and announced in January that it expects to make its proposals by the end of the year. The proposed regulations presumably would not take effect for several years.

Several gasoline manufacturers already have lead-free or low-lead gasolines on the market.

The summary said lead concentrations have been found in the blood of inner-city children "sufficient to cause biochemical changes, although insufficient to produce symptoms of lead poisoning."

But it said the higher-than-normal concentrations may have been a result of swallowing contaminated soil or street dust, from eating lead-based paint, or from breathing leadcontaminated air.

"Two to three times as much lead is added to the total environment in the form of paint pigments and metallic products as in the form of lead alkyls (from gasoline," the summary said. "Most of this lead, which enters the ecosystem through surface weathering, dumping, and burning appears to be returned to the soil without significant emissions into the air."

The panel said it found no information that current concentrations of lead in the environment have made humans more susceptible to disease.

Unacceptable Armed Forces Level Feared If Draft Fails

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said Tuesday readiness of the Armed Forces will "decline to levels totally unacceptable ... to the American people" if Congress fails to renew the draft.

Laird's comment, issued by a Pentagon spokesman, signaled the start of an intensified Defense Department campaign to push for the renewal of the Selective Service Act, tied up in Congress over various amendments.

Jerry W. Friedheim, a Defense Department spokesman, said the three civilian service secretaries and the heads of the military services were scheduled to meet later in the day at the Capitol with Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, the senior Republican member.

In a statement issued by Friedheim, Laird was quoted as being "deeply concerned about the dangerous national security situation which will arise by early next year" if Congress fails to act now.

Friedheim said that voluntary enlistments, now running above expectations, will decline as much as 40 to 60 per cent without the draft. He attributed the increase in enlistments during the summer months as being mostly draft-induced even though induction authority expired with the old draft law June 30.

The Senate took up the draft law again Monday but it continued to remain stalled amid threats from several antiwar senators to filibuster against deletion from the bill of an amendment calling for total withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam.

Friedheim hinted that the Pentagon's now lobbying blitz was prompted by indications that the draft bill was now in serious trouble.

"In the absence of induction authority, the readiness of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps—and importantly also the National Guard and the reserve forces—would in Mr. Laird's view decline to levels totally unacceptable to him as secretary of defense and, he feels, totally unacceptable to the American people," Friedheim said.

Cotton Market Threatened In 1972

MEMPHIS–Cotton stands to suffer further market losses if adequate incentives to grow more of it are not provided for 1972.

That was the warning sounded today by a National Cotton Council economist in the opening session of the annual fall meeting of the Council's Board of Directors.

"Shotting for a crop that is just enough to meet expected demand and no more will not do the job, " said Dabney S. Wellford, director of the Council's economic and market research service. He pointed out that demand cannot be accurately forecast, and unfavorable weather can drastically reduce the crop, as it has in five of the past six years.

"If we expect to hold our markets, we must aim higher and build up the carryover stock from the dangerously low level at which it now stands," Mr. Wellford continued.

The carryover from previous crops is expected to be about 4.1 million bales and "once there would not be enough in the carryover to cushion us if next year's crop falls short of demand. " The demand has exceeded the amount grown in each of the past five seasons, and as a result stocks have been reduced to the point that they hardly meet working stock requirements.

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin will announce the 1972 government cotton program in the early fall. Mr. Wellford pointed out that unless there are reassurances about next season's crop, the industry can expect pressures to continue for textile mills to shift out of cotton because of the uncertainty of the supply.

Wellford stated that the Secretary has the mandate for a program to relieve this pressure. His report pointed out that the Agricultural Act of 1970 states that the". . . national base acreage allotment. . . in the case of the 1972 and 1973 crops shall be in such amount as the Secretary determines necessary to maintain adequate supplies.

The carryover part of that adequate supply is defined specifically in the law as "not less than 50 per cent of the average offtake for three preceding marketing years." That figure is 5.5 million bales, not including extra long staple. An increase in the paying allotment to induce a crop that will build the carryover to that level would be one incentive in 1972, Mr. Wellford said.

A second alternative would be to eliminate the requirement for cotton set side acreage, thus freeing land normally held out of use in order to keep agricultural production in balance with demand. Then farmers could grow whatever crops they wanted, including cotton, on this land. Mr. Wellford pointed out, however, that feed grains or soybeans might go on some of this acreage, thus depressing prices for these crops.

Another alternative would be to retain the set-aside and allow only cotton to be grown on it.

Wellford added that if the 1972 program offers no reassurances about next season's supply, it is likely that the supply problem would be resolved anyway–through loss of both foreign and domestic markets. "The specter of drastic losses such as those which resulted from the 1967-68 price run-up will continue to hang over us until it is laid to rest by prospects of a larger 1972 crop," the economist said.

School Boards Must Give Foes Equal Time

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — If a school board distributes through the students promotional material that goes beyond a fair representation of an issue the board favors, such as a bond issue, the students must also be available as distributors of the other side's views, Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth held Tuesday.

He provided the legal opinion at the request of state Rep. Harold J. Esser, R-Kansas City.

"It is the opinion of this office," Danforth said, "that if a school board distributes information by way of written materials and discussions to students in school which go beyond a fair representation of merely relevant facts and in addition present advertising and promotional materials which frankly encourage affirmative votes, then the school board must allow equal opportunity to the opponents to also present information by way of written materials and discussions to students in school."

The opinion said, "we believe that any responsible school board would be scrupulously fair in this regard to have all sides and facts presented to the students, for it is a fundamental responsibility of schools to teach our young citizens that in a democracy all sides have an opportunity to be heard."

Nonfarm Employment Losses Cited

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Non-agricultural employment in the seven north central states declined by 38,400 in July to an estimated 5,310,600 wage and salary workers, the Bureau of Labor Statistics regional office announced Wednesday.

Seasonal influences in government were primary reasons for the decline, Elliott A. Browar, regional driector, explained.

State and local government employment dropped by 32,300 as public school systems closed, releasing nonfaculty employment for the summer months.

Construction continued a recent upturn, the bureau reported, with an increase of 6,400 workers. However, employment in the industry remained at 3.4 per cent below last year's figures.

Manufacturing was down by 500 workers after increases in each of the three prior months.

States covered in the report are Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, and North and South Dakota.

Crutcker In Charge Of Signup

JEFFERSON CITY - The Citizens Committee for Conservation today announced the appointment of Dub Crutcher of Essex as chairman of the CCC initiative petition campaign for Stoddard County.

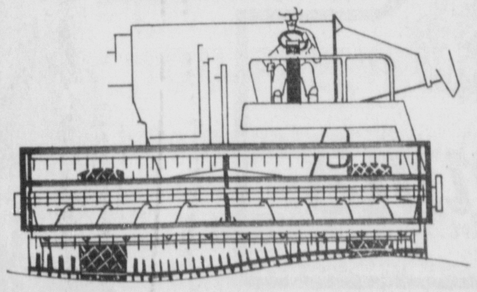

The petition campaign, necessary for the people to be able to vote on a proposal which would accelerate Missouri's conservation program, is scheduled to kick off this month. A tax earmarked for conservation is proposed as the method of funding the program.

For Missouri voters to have the opportunity to vote on the conservation issue, a minimum of 90,000 signatures is required to get the constitutional amendment on the ballot. By law, an initiative requires the signatures of 8 percent of those who last voted for governor in each of two- thirds of the state's congressional districts.

The CCC has set a goal of 10 per cent or more of the voters in all counties for Stoddard county, 1,200 signatures are wanted by the CCC. The group is shooting for 150,000 statewide.

DEFENSE OFFENSE AND STRATEGY are three big parts of high school football. At left the Sikeston high Bulldog defense shows its technique with Paul Suver bringing down Perryville's Gene Unterreiner. Steve Ferrell (85) opens the door for Jessie Smith (22) on a first quarter touchdown drive. Coaches discuss and check the situation from the sidelines at right. SHS lost its northern division opener, 14-13.

Dogs Lose 6th Straight

While the Kennett Indians ended their three season losing streak at 27 football games Friday night at Poplar Bluff 9-0, the Sikeston high Bulldogs took over the distinction of holding the longest losing skid in Southeast Missouri. Sikeston dropped its second in a row this season and sixth straight loss over two seasons, bowing, 14-13, to Perryville at Public school stadium.

The Bulldogs beat Kennett for their only win last season and finished the season with the worst mark in SHS history.

Inexperience and costly mistakes were the Bulldogs big downfall last night. Although Perryville played well, the Dogs gave them scoring chances with a pair of fumbles and an off sides call returned the ball after a interception in the fast half that would have killed the Pirates touchdown drive.

As one fan point out as he left in the closing seconds of the contest "you just can't expect a group of boys to play well when you start them out in the sport in the ninth grade.

The fan apparently was reflecting on the no junior high athletic program observed in the Sikeston schools the past three seasons.

"The mistakes they made tonight and last week against Mayfield are the kind you work out and learn not to do in junior high," the fan pointed out.

The first series of downs by the Big Red brought back memories of the early 1960 teams as the fans roared with every yard gained. The SHS crew marched 65 yards to take the lead with 5:05 left in the period as Jesse Smith bolted over from three yards out and Larry Voliva booted the extra point for a 7-0 advantage.

Minutes later all memories was erased as the mistakes missed blocks and trouble that has plagued the SHS crew for two seasons returned.

Mark Gotto put the Pirates on the scoreboard with a two-yard plunge in the second period and Gene Unterreiner sent the host ahead, 8-7, when he carried the pigskin over on a conversion attempt.

Gotto, the PHS quarterback, padded the lead when he wrestled his way from four yards out to cross the goal line for a 14-7 lead. The extra point attempt failed on a pass.

All seemed lost until Bill Colwick connected to Henry Gross for a 21-yard score late in the fourth period after Gross' defender fell.

The score stood at 14-13 as the extra point kick was about to be attempted but a high toss from center forced Voliva to run and he was nailed before he could cross the goal line.

The score stood and the Pirates won their third straight over SHS. A late game interception with a little over two minutes left killed any hopes the Bulldogs had of winning the game. Perryville stayed on the ground and let the time run out.

Perryville cracked the SHS defense for 177 yards rushing with Unterreiner picking up 77 of those on 17 carries. Gotto was credited with 66 on 20 carries.

Smith led Sikeston's 98-yard ground game with 40 yards in 15 carries. Chester Yarber had 33 yards on 11 tries.

Better things will be offered on the road. The Bulldogs trek to Charleston next week for another north battle.

Kennett Ends Losing Streak

POPLAR BLUFF - A string of football losses extending back to 1967 ended at 27 last night for the jubilant Kennett Indians.

For the first time in three years Kennett tasted the sweet taste of victory as it downed a heavily favored Poplar Bluff Mule team, 9-0.

Quarterback David Tipton was the whole show. He completed a touchdown bomb to end Gary Shan with 26 seconds to go in the half.

When Poplar Bluff fumbled the kickoff it was recovered by a Kennett player. Tipton then kicked a 27-yard field goal with but two seconds left in the half.

The second half went scoreless as an aroused Kennett football team outplayed a much larger Mule team on the way to an upset.

A disappointed coach Dutch Wyatt declined to comment on the game; the second straight in which the Mules have failed to score.

Poplar Bluff, the team that was among the favorites for the conference crown in preseason ratings takes its 0-2 record to Perryville next week. It will play the undefeated Pirates, who share first place in the conference with Kennett, both with 1-0 records. Kennett plays Jackson next week.

Sports Briefs

WEST HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — The seating capacity at Island Garden, home court of the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association, has been increased to 6,500 by the tearing down of a wall.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Bullets announced Friday they had sold a club record 1,738 season tickets for the upcoming National Basketball Association campaign.

The total is 154 above last year's figure, and represents the fourth straight year that a record has been set.

Jerry Sachs, club vice president, said he expected the total to surpass 2,000 by the time the season opens on Oct. 16.

Tribe Upend Malden

JACKSON -- Coach Paul Webber's Indians whipped their second tough Southern Conference football team in a row. They beat Malden, 28-0, Friday night. The Green Wave was pre- season picks to win its division.

It was a tough defense and a grinding offense led by Bobby Sides that spelled defeat for the Green Wave.

Jackson got the scoring underway in the first period when Ted Leimer intercepted a Malden pass and galloped 15 yards for the score.

A stingy defense by both teams held the score at 6-0 the rest of the first half.

Bobby Sides ran over from 15 yards out in the third period. Sides scored again from the one-yard line after Tim Neal caught a 46-yard pass from Kim Wagner to the five-yard line.

Sides scored his 14th point with a two-yard run for the extra points.

Jackson had 196 yards rushing and 46 passing. Malden has 131 yards rushing and 40 yards passing. Jackson attempted seven and completed two and Malden completed five of 17.

"Malden had a good running attack", commented Coach Webber.

The red hot Indians travel to Kennett next Friday for their nothern coference opener.

EAST PRAIRIE - Coach Ed McWilliams won his first southern division conference football game and second game of the season Friday night as East Prairie beat Chaffee, 23-8.

The game was evenly played until the last quarter. The Eagles scored 16 of their points in the final period.

Annise Davis started the scoring for the Eagles. He burst through the middle for 51 yards and a touchdown on the Eagles first offensive play.

East Prairie took a slim 7-0 lead into the second half. Chaffee came roaring back in the third period to go ahead when Christy scored on a one-yard plunge and Richbourg ran over for two extra points for a total of eight.

The Eagles broke the game open in the last quarter. Melvin intercepted a pass and ran it back 64 yards for a touchdown. Annise Davis scored two extra points on a run.

With two minutes and 20 seconds left Larry Gross scored on a one-yard dive and Davis again added two extra points.

"Chaffee had a better team than their previous game indicated", said Coach McWilliams of the Eagles.

East Prairie had a total of 201 yards, 181 on the ground and 20 in the air. Chaffee had 41 rushing and 56 passing. The Eagles completed two of seven passes to Chaffee's 7 of 11.

East Prairie had a punting average of 31.1 yards and Chaffee had an impressive 46.4 yards per kick.

State Officials Fear Florida Not Ready For Disney World

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Ready or not, the Walt Disney World entertainment complex will be coming to central Florida Oct. 1. Many people feel central Florida isn't ready.

Disney people predict 10 million people will visit the $400million pleasure world the first year.

Taking that figure at face value, officials of neighboring counties express fears of choked highways, jammed restaurants, inadequate lodgings, stranded travelers, juvenile runaways.

Some officials are leary that even booming area construction won't be enough to accommodate rapid, staggering demand.

"There's only so much you can do," said Dr. Robert Poe, Orange County Commission chairman. "When Disney opens its gates the problems will be there, immediately. But there's a time lag of several years for money to return itself for improvements."

Tourists will be overnighting as far as 80 miles away, according to Tom Brownlee, executive director for the Orlando Chamber of Commerce and coordinator of a regional lodging group.

"There will be a shortage of 3,000-4,000 motel rooms a night in peak seasons the first two years," he said. Visitors, like it or not, may find themselves driving 60 miles north to Daytona Beach or an hour west to Tampa for a room.

The police see a different problem.

"Let's face it. With all these people coming here the traffic problems are going to be horrendous," said Orlando Chief Robert Chewning.

The Florida Highway Patrol, which recently canceled leaves for all troopers in central Florida in October, is asking for 162 new officers to police the area. "We plan to put any extra men authorized into central Florida counties because of Disney World," said Ralph Davis, public safety director.

Disney people say nonsense, the frets are unfounded and time will prove so.

Compliments of
Wal—Mart Discount Center

You, the Penn State quarterback against Navy, have just completed a long pass to your split right end, who has beaten the Navy left cornerback for a 52-yard gain to the Midshipman 33-yard line.

You have previously thrown two incomplete passes to the split end. You have completed the only pass you've thrown to your flanker, split out to your left, for an 8-yard again. You have thrown twice to your tight end on the right, completing one for 12 yards.

With first down midway between the sidelines, what play will you call:

1. Sideline pass to flanker, who goes downfield 8 yards, breaks to sideline?
2. Pass to split end over goal line?
3. Short pass to split end?
4. Hook pass to tight end, who goes downfield 12 yards, turns back to take ball?

Answer

No. 3. Short pass to split end. After being stung on previous long pass play, cornerback's conscious of deep responsibility, making completion comparatively easy. Passes to flanker and tight end might go, but let's keep after the left cornerback. So we call this play even though split end has run hard on previous play.

Compliments of Wal-Mart Disocunt Center.

Mike Lum made some loud noises with his bat in Los Angeles and the reverberations reached all the way to San Francisco.

Lum exploded two home runs out of spacious Dodger Stadium as Atlanta beat Los Angeles 3-2 in 11 innings Friday night and lifted San Francisco's pennant chances in the National League West.

The Los Angeles loss, coupled with San Francisco's 7-5 triumph over San Diego, boosted the Giants' lead to two games over the second-place Dodgers.

"This should pick us up," said San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox.

"I hope this can turn us around," said San Francisco catcher Dick Dietz.

Along with padding San Francisco's shaky lead, the night's events also must have given the Giants a psychological shot in the arm. They made five errors and still managed to win. The Dodgers, meanwhile, squandered several opportunities to nail Atlanta while Lum smashed his game-tying homer in the ninth and game-breaker in the 11th.

The New York Mets whipped the Eastern Division-leading Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0 and second-place St. Louis trimmed the front-runner's margin to 8½ games with a 7-2 triumph over Montreal in other top National League contests Friday night.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Cubs downed the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 and the Houston Astros trimmed the Cincinnati Reds 4-1.

The Dodgers had a 2-1 lead and were two outs away from winning when Lum connected off reliver Jim Brewer in the ninth. He then cracked his 13th homer of the season off Hoyt Wilhelm in the 11th to send the Dodgers down to their third straight defeat.

You couldn't say the Dodgers didn't have chances to win, though. They had men on first and second with none out in the ninth and couldn't score, had the bases loaded in the 10th and weren't able to cash in and couldn't move a runner around from first in the 11th.

"It doesn't matter who you play, it's how your own club is going that's important," said Manager Walt Alston of Los Angeles, obviously referring to the Dodgers' inept play in recent games.

After Manny Mota's two-run single in the fourth inning gave the Dodgers a 2-0 cushion, Hank Aaron walloped a homer in the eighth—his 45th this year and 637th of his fabulous career—off Los Angeles starter Claude Osteen. That blow brought on Brewer and began the Dodger backslide.

In San Francisco, the Giant victory was cause for celebration. After all, the Giants had lost 11 of 12 previous games and all but one game of a once commanding 8½-game lead.

"As loosely as we played, it makes you feel pretty good when you can win," said Fox, pointing to four San Francisco errors which helped San Diego to a 5-3 lead after three innings.

"They tried to give the game to us," said San Diego Manager Preston Gomez, whose Padres just came off a two-game sweep over the Dodgers. "They certainly didn't look like a club fighting for a pennant."

The Giants roared back ona four-run uprising in the sixth inning, highlighted by Dick Dietz' pinch-hit, three-run homer.

"We're not tight," said Dietz, referring to the Giants' September fold, "we're really very loose ... it's just that things haven't been going our way."

Gary Gentry tamed Pittsburgh on a three-hitter and Teddy Martinez, Ken Singleton and Ed Kranepool hit home runs in New York's triumph over the Pirates.

Cleo James drove in three runs with a homer and single and the Chicago Cubs withstood Deron Johnson's three-run homer in the ninth to whip Philadelphia.

Don Wilson fired a one-hitter and a second-inning triple play helped him notch his 16th victory as Houston trimmed Cincinnati.

Tigers Battle On

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Is there time for the Detroit Tigers? There really doesn't seem to be enough of that valuable commodity left for the Tigers, who played Friday night's doubleheader against Baltimore as if they still had a chance to catch the front-running Orioles in the American League East race.

The Tigers swept the doubleheader 9-4 and 5-3 and now trail the Birds by six games. What's more important is that time is on Baltimore's side. The Tigers have only 10 games remaining and Baltimore's magic number remains eight.

Elsewhere in the American League Friday night, New York swept a doubleheader from Cleveland 1-0 and 7-1, Boston bombed Washington 10-7, Chicago took California 9-4, Kansas City nipped Milwaukee 2-1 and Oakland defeated Milwukee 6-5 in 11 innings.

The Tigers reached into their bullpen to stymie the Orioles. Detroit used relief specialists Tom Timmerman and Frd Scherman as starters and the move paid off—thanks to the bats of Mickey Stanley and Dick McAuliffe.

Stanley drove in five runs— three of them with a homer—in the first game as Timmerman, making only his second major league start, bested Dave McNally, who was bidding for his 20th victory.

Ironically, Timmerman's only other major league start was two years ago, when he also beat Baltimore and McNally.

In the nightcap, Scherman, making his first start after 66 relief appearances, was tagged for homers by Frank Robinson and Dave Johnson. But McAuliffe cracked a tie-breaking homer in the seventh and the Tigers completed the sweep.

Oakland, which has wrapped up the West, used Tommy Davis' pinch single in the 11th inning to beat Milwaukee.

The A's had tied the game in the eighth on Mike Hegan's single after the Brewers had jumped to a 4-0 lead against Vida Blue.

Blue, 6-5 since the All Star break, failed for the fourth straignt time trying for his 24th victory.

Fritz Peterson threw a twohitter and Felipe Alou's single drove in the game's only run as the Yankees beat Cleveland's Sam McDowell in the firstl game of their doubleheader.

New York completed the sweep on Stan Bahnsen's fourhitter in the nightcap. Bahnsen had a two-run single in his victory and catcher Thurman Munson homered for the Yanks.

Kansas City's Mike Hedlund won his 15th game with a seven-hitter as Kansas City checked Minnesota. Paul Schall's two-out single in the sixth snapped a scoreless tie and then Fred Patek's RBI single in the seventh delivered the deciding run. Leo Cardenas homered for the Twins.

Rick Reichardt's homer paced a 14-hit Chicago attack and Bart Johnson struck out a career-high of 12 as the White Sox trimmed the California Angels. Every White Sox starter drove in one run.

Boston bunched home runs by Rico Petrocelli, Reggie Smith and Carlton Fisk in a five-run sixth inning that helped the Red Sox beat Washington. Smith also had two doubles and three RBI for the Sox.

Cagle Leads Tiger Romp Over Rivals

CARUTHERSVILLE

Caruthersville's Tigers finally got their offense untracked and behind the three touchdown performance of Quarterback Joe Cagle, romped to a 27-15 football victory over arch-rival Hayti to even their season's record at 1-1.

Caruthersville's End Ricky Hopper was on the receiving end of all three of Cagle's touchdown passes, one of which covered 55 yards.

Ron Wene, coach at Caruthersville, commented that the score should have been larger, since his Tigers had a fourth and one foot and couldn't score in the fourth quarter.

Caruthersville's only other touchdown was scored by Halfback Chris Hoskins on a five-yard run. Coach Wene also commented that had it not been for the passing game, the final score would have been much closer.

Hayti saw its record fall to 0-2 despite an improved offensive effort. Total offense for Hayti was 225 yards, 155 on the ground.

Touchdowns for Hayti were scored by Quarterback Randy Gardner on a 16-yard run and End John Duckworth, who was on the receiving end of a 31-yard touchdown pass from Gardner in the final quarter. The extra point following the first score was kicked by Melvin Jones and Hayti's 15th point was rung up as Gardner threw a pass to Jerome Maxey for the two-point conversion.

The Tigers from Caruthersville will try to go above .500 next week when they see action against Dexter's struggling Bearcats at Dexter.

Portageville Wins With Defense

PORTAGEVILLE — In one of the top defensive games of the area Coach Jim McKay's Bulldogs scored seven points in the first quarter and held on to defeat the Dexter Bearcats, 7-6, in a southern division football conference game Friday night.

Portageville got on the scoreboard first. Chris Foster hit Sammy Johnson for six points in the first quarter. Mike Pyle kicked the extra point.

David Mathis passed for the only touchdown that the Bearcats could manage against the defense of the Bulldogs.

The second half was played scoreless. Both team displayed a good defense and halted each others drives.

"Our defensive linemen played a very good game," commented the Bulldog coach.

Portageville takes on Chaffee at Chaffee next Friday night. Portageville is 1-0 in conference play and Dexter is 0-1.

I-SC Takes Over Lead

GIDEON - Powerful Illmo-Scott City, defending Bootheel Division champs, whipped the Bulldogs Friday night 35-0, to take over the Bootheel football lead.

The Rams scored 21 points in the first half and 14 in the second.

Rand Amick scored two touchdowns and two extra points for a total of 14.

Mark Amick galloped 60 yards for another score and Glynn Ward kicked three extra points.

Mark Amick passed to Jim Noon for a touchdown and Teddy Carbaugh scored on a run.

Gideon plays at Gosnell, Ark., next Friday night in a non-conference game.

The Rams are 2-0 for the season.

Instructors Fill Positions For High School Faculty

Twenty-one new faculty joined the teaching staff of Sikeston high school this fall. These teachers are filling vacancies and forming new classes for the ever-increasing number of students. These instructors came to Sikeston from various towns, states, and schools.

Barker staffers interviewed the various teachers and present a brief resume of each person's background for his position.

HARRY BATTS

Harry Batts is a new distributive education instructor in Sikeston high school. He graduated from Murray State University with a B.S. degree. He later received his master's degree from Eastern Illinois University.

Mr. Batts taught five years at Richland, four years in Illinois, and three years in Fulton County, Ky., before coming to Sikeston. He is originally from Crutchfield, Ky.

Mr. Batts and his wife Janie reside on Route 2 with their three children. When asked his philosophy of teaching, he plied, "If the students don't have a fair opportunity to learn, why should I be here?"

BRUCE BIRD

Bruce Bird is the instructor in the graphic arts department. Mr. Bird was a student teacher in the vocational department last spring. Mr. Bird originates from Kennett and attended Southeast Missouri State College where he majored in industrial arts.

Mr. Bird resides at 411 North Kingshighway with his wife Sherry, who is a teacher in Lee Hunter School. His hobbies include woodworking and printing, but since school has started he said his hobby is grading papers.

MRS. JIM BUCK

Mrs. Jim Buck is one of the new teachers in Sikeston high school. She teaches office training I and II, and recordkeeping.

Mrs. Buck is originally from Osceola, Ark., and is a 1967 graduate of Arkansas State University She lives in Sikeston with her husband, Jim, and her two children. This is Mrs. Buck's fourth year of teaching. She says that she enjoys it in Sikeston , but it is a much larger system than any other place she has taught.

DON FULTON

Don Fulton instructs functional math and algebra in Sikeston high school. He was vice-principal in the middle school two years before transferring to the high school.

Mr. Fulton also served as the principal of the Lincoln school when it was in operation for public school students.

Mr. Fulton is originally from Bonne Terre, and he received his B. S. degree in mathematics from Lincoln University. He earned his master's degree in administration from the University of Missouri in Columbia.

He resides at 1309 Osage Street in Sikeston. He is married, has four children, and his wife holds a master's degree in reading.

In addition to his teaching duties, he serves on the city council, is president of Recovery Incorporated, and is coordinator of Title I Activities.

ALBERT HOLMES

Albert Holmes is a new Sikeston high school faculty member in the physical education department. Mr. Holmes instructs five P.E. classes during school hours and coaches football after school. He will also coach track in the spring.

Mr. Holmes is a native of St. Louis. He attended college at Southeast Missouri State where he received his B. S. in education.

Mr. Holmes was a member of both the football and track teams at SEMO and received All-Conference honors in both sports.

WILLIAM HOUSE

William House is a new math teacher in Sikeston high school this year.

He is originally from Paris, Texas, and graduated from high school there. For two years he worked and then attended college for a year and a half. Mr. House was appointed to the Naval Academy where he graduated with a B. S. degree in electrical engineering.

After becoming a commissioned ensign in the United States Navy, he went to duty on the U. S. S. South Hampton at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. In 1942, he went into flight training and has been a naval aviator since that time.

He had duty on many aircraft carriers either in embarked squadrons or on the ships themselves. At the United States Naval Academy he served as an instructor in the department of electrical engineering.

In 1971, Mr. House retired after 31 years commissioned service. This is his first year in Missouri. He recently married the former Mrs. Lynn Mouchette and they reside on East Gladys Street.

GERALD JACKSON

Gerald Jackson has assumed the position of director of vocational education in Sikeston high school. He fills the position occupied by Jim Cornett.

Mr. Jackson received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Murray State University. He has lived in Sikeston for six years, during which he was a Co-operative Occupational Education coordinator in Sikeston high school for two years.

Last year he worked at the Regional Diagnostic Clinic in Sikeston. Mr. Jackson resides at 316 Powers with his wife, Alice, and three children.

MRS. LARRY LANCASTER

One of the new language teachers joining the SHS faculty this year is Mrs. Larry Lancaster who is teaching English III and IV. After graduating from high school in Charleston, Mrs. Lancaster attended Southeast Missouri State College where she received her B.S. in secondary education.

Mrs. Lancaster resides with her husband at 207 Missouri, and she enjoys restoring antiques in her spare time.

Her husband, Larry, is a graduate of Sikeston high school, and he is also a graduate of SEMO State.

WAYNE LAND

Wayne Land is the new building trades instructor in the vocational department at Sikeston high school. Mr. Land is retiring from Swift and Company.

When asked why he chose to teach building trades, Mr. Land said that in college he took several industrial arts courses and that carpentry is his hobby.

Mr. Land received his B.S. in agriculture at Oklahoma State University.

Mr. Land is a native of Dexter where he resides with his wife.

WALTER MESSMER

A new addition to the history faculty of Sikeston high school is Walter Messmer.

He is an instructor of world history and contemporary history.

Mr. Messmer is a graduate of Southeast Missouri State College.

Before teaching in Sikeston, he was an instructior at Cape Central high school in Cape Girardeau.

Mr. Messmer lives at Ferrell's Trailer Courts at Benton with his wife, Carol, and their daughter, Sarah Beth. Mrs. Messmer teaches school at Bell City.

During his spare time he enjoys hunting and fishing.

ALLEN MILBURN

Allen Milburn, a former Sikeston high school graduate, is instructing five I classes this year.

He is a graduate of Southeast Missouri State College and did part of his college work at Memphis State.

Mr. Milburn did his student teaching in New Madrid last spring.

When asked his impression of teaching in Sikeston, his emphatic reply was, "I really love teaching here."

In answer to the question of his having any special interests or hobbies he replied with one work, "KARATE."

MRS. YVONNE MITKOS

Another new teacher in the English department is Mrs. Yvonne Mitkos. Since she is a graduate of Sikeston high school she is familiar with the school.

Mrs. Mitkos spent her first two years of college at St. Paul's Junior College in Concordia, Mo. She transferred to Southeast Missouri State College where she graduated in 1970. She majored in English and her minor is in physical education. Mrs. Mitkos has a B.S. in secondary education.

When asked how she likes teaching school all she said was, "I just love teaching."

Mrs. Mitkos lives with her husband, Les, and her baby boy here in Sikeston. Les returned from Vietnam last December, and now he is a student in Southeast Missouri State College.

BLAIR MORAN

One of the many new faculty members of Sikeston high school this year is Blair Moran. He teaches conservation, world history and geography.

Mr. Moran is a 1969 graduate of Southeast Missouri State College, where he earned a B.S. degree in secondary education with a major in social studies.

After graduating from college, he served in the army for two years, returning from Vietnam in November of 1970.

This is his first year of teaching. When asked how he liked it, he replied that he considered it a new experience and a challenge.

Mr. Moran is unmarried, and he lives in Charleston.

MRS. JOE MUNGER, JR.

Sikeston high school made several changes in the faculty this year. Mrs. Joe Munger, Jr., began her teaching in Sikeston last week as a home economics teacher.

She teaches three classes of advanced foods, one class of child development and one class of home economics I.

Mrs. Munger graduated from college at Murray State University and went on to teach in St. Louis and Indiana.

When asked how she liked the Sikeston school system, she replied that a cooperative and pleasant atmosphere was present.

Hobbies play an important part of Mrs. Munger's life. She enjoys all aspects of home economics, all sports and card games.

Mrs. Munger lives in Sikeston with her husband Joe Munger, Jr., who is an industrial arts teacher in senior high.

JOE MUNGER, JR.

Joe Munger, Jr., an industrial arts teacher, has joined the Sikeston high school faculty. Mr. Munger is a life time resident of Sikeston, excluding his college days at Murray State University where he received his B.S. degree. During the past summer, he worked on his master's degree.

When attending school in Sikeston, Mr. Munger was an active member of the track and basketball team. His main interests include hunting and photography.

Asked why he decided to teach in Sikeston, Mr. Munger commented, "At one time I taught in middle school and enjoyed it."

Mr. Munger and his wife, Brenda, reside at 216 Kinder. Mrs. Munger is also a new teacher in Sikeston high school and instructs home economics.

MRS. SAM POTASHNICK

Mrs. Sam Potashnick is a new home economics teacher this year. She instructs two classes of home economics I.

Mrs. Potashnick, former Janie Springs, is a Sikeston high school graduate. She graduated from college at Northeastern State College in Tahlequah, Oklahoma. This is her first teaching position.

Her hobbies include several card games and home economics.

She resides in Cape Girardeau with her husband, Sam Potashnick.

MRS. ROBERT REED

Mrs. Robert Reed is one of the new instructors in the Sikeston high vocational department. Mrs. Reed teaches two occupational math classes, two typing classes, and one basic business class.

Mrs. Reed in a 1965 graduate of Southeast Missouri State College. After graduation, Mrs. Reed taught two years in the Poplar Bluff school system followed by substitute teaching at several Missouri schools including Neosho, Columbia, and Sikeston.

Mrs. Reed is originally from Poplar Bluff. She lives in Sikeston on Arlington Drive with her husband Robert and their two children.

When asked of her hobbies Mrs. Reed said that she enjoyed playing bridge and fishing.

MRS. BERTHA SCHUERENBERG

Sikeston high welcomes Mrs. Bertha Schuerenberg as one of the many new faculty members on campus this fall. As a member of the English department, she finds herself busy teaching sophomore and junior English.

Mrs. Schuerenberg, a 1960 graduate of SHS, taught for five years in the New Madrid County school system before joining the faculty here at SHS.

She graduated from Southeast Missouri State College majoring in English. While there she was a member of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

In her spare time Mrs. Schuerenberg enjoys riding horses and sewing. She also enjoys the peace of living on a farm with her husband and eight-year- old boy.

"It took a long time to decide I wanted to be a teacher, but I really like it," was Mrs. Schuerenberg's reaction when asked what she thought about teaching.

MISS PAULA SHAW

Miss Paula Shaw joins the faculty of Sikeston High School this year as a French teacher. Her schedule includes teaching in SHS during her morning hours and at middle school during the afternoon.

Miss Shaw graduated from high school in Jefferson City in 1967.

She attended the University of Missouri in Columbia where she was elected to three honorary fraternities, Kappa Delta Pi, Pi Lambda Theta, and Phi Sigma Iota.

While in college she also participated in Student Government and French Club.

She enjoys hobbies such as horseback riding, archery, and games in which thinking is applied. Bridge playing is one of her main hobbies.

When asked what her first impression of high school was, she replied, "I can see from the first short week that nothing could be as rewarding as teaching."

ED WATSON

A very versatile teacher here for his first year in Sikeston high is Ed Watson, teaching English I and geography. Mr. Watson also doubles as a minister, preaching at the First Presbyterian Church in Fisk. For six years he served as the pastor of the Presbyterian church here in Sikeston.

Mr. Watson received his A. B. degree at Southern Illinois University and he also studied at Ashbury Seminary in Wilmore, Ky. He has been an active citizen serving as a colonel on the staff of Governors Dalton and Hearnes and as the chairman of library trustees for the Sikeston city council.

In his spare time he enjoys his two quarter horses and his pilot's license.

I will make assurance double sure.

JON WRIGHT

Jon Wright is a new teacher on the international scene here at Sikeston teaching Spanish. Mr. Wright did his undergraduate work at Cape State however he also studied at Maryland State and the Inter-American College in Mexico. He has previously taught at Parkway West and Parkway Central high schools in St. Louis.

Mr. Wright was reared not far from here in Illmo, but he spent his summers in lands afar, traveling in Mexico and much of Central and South America.

He served two years in the Peace Corps in Venezuela. Taking up archeology as a hobby he spent time in Yucatan excavating Mayan pyramids. His services do not stop there, as he worked as an interpretor for the U.N. and also aided in writing textbooks.

The superior man is firm in the right way and not merely firm.

School Spirit Prevails In SHS Student Body

WHAT IS TRUE "BULLDOG SPIRIT"? Spirit of Red Peppers has prevailed over Sikeston high school with an air of victory for many years.

Each year, many greenies go through the strenuous and tiresome week of initiation to join Sikeston high's largest and best known pep organization. These girls must truly have "Bulldog spirit" or else they would give up long before they made the big step of becoming Red Peppers.

Just last year, the boys also became interested in forming a pep organization known as the Bleacher Bums. The enthusiasm and pep seem to have grown even stronger within the student body. Many students are involved in making the dignity and pride of Sikeston high school shine wherever they go.

These are very important factors in helping make a school victorious. Even though Bulldogs may not always win, the students feel victorious in a manner of speaking. This is because the bonds of union are so very strong that they cannot be severed by even the hardest blow or loss.

For a team to be successful, it must have support -- and this means SPIRIT. A fan who can be proud of a team that plays hard but loses is a genuine supporter and the kind of fan most needed by a hard-working team.

Bonfires, pep parades, singing of the school song, and the cheerleaders instill a spirit of enthusiasm in each student. For this reason, spirit is seldom lacking in Sikeston high school and the team is always looked up to as Number 1!

School Insurance Is Available To Students

Student insurance for the 1971-72 school year is available for all interested students.

The policy protects the student while traveling to, from, and while at school or any school-sponsored activity, and pays medical expenses up to $5,000 not covered by family insurance.

The insurance committee of the Scott County R-6 school district, composed of parents and teachers from the district, recommended that the Board of Education accept the insurance bid set forth by Doug Ruedlinger Inc., a recommendation to which the Board complied.

If a student sustains an injury, he should follow these simple steps--

1. Obtain a claim form from the school office

2. Treatment for injury must be processed through your family insurance.

3. Send balance of unpaid bills along with the completed claim form to Doug Ruedlinger, Inc., P. O. Box 1322, Columbia, Mo. 65201. This must be done within 90 days of date of injury.

Signs Are In Every Place At Every Time

HAS ANYONE REALLY listened to the words of the song entitled "Signs"? The young man in the song was refused a job because of his long hair. To the store owner, the hair was a sign of not being responsible. The youth of today are tired of being stereo-typed in this way.

Too many times young people are judged not by what they are or what they can do, but by how they look. Because of the actions of a few long-haired radicals, everyone having long hair is deemed a freak.

In the song the sign says to do this, don't do that. This has already been said many times in one's life. Although students are young adults, they are sometimes not recognized as such.

They must learn to take the responsibility for their mistakes, but also to take the credit for their accomplishments. The only way to learn by mistakes is to make them, and the only way to make this is to DO something. What thy youths wants to do is to show that they are responsible young people.

The new Miss Sikeston will be the hostess for the crowning of the 1971 Miss Cotton Carnival next Saturday morning.

Sponsors of the annual Miss Sikeston contest are the members of the Sikeston American Legion No. 114.

'71 Staff Distributes Yearbooks

Growler staff distributed '71 yearbooks to a well-filled cafetorium of students in late August.

Yearbooks have white leather covers with '71 on a raised gold plate

Full color end sheets in both the front and back of the book depict the Sikeston high school marching band, the freshman band and the Red Peppers.

Adding to the color and variety are the duotone pages scattered throughout the book, and the use of green printing for various headlines and picture identifications.

The book contains 232 pages and is the largest published by a Sikeston journalism class.

Journalism class of '71, directed by Mrs. Tony Statler, published the yearbook.

Beware the fury of a patient man.

President Nixon: Peace Is Built On Strength

DALLAS, Tex. (ANF)—President Richard Nixon made the following remarks at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Convention at Dallas, Tex:

"The strength that commands respect is the only foundation on which peace among nations can ever be built.

"The argument for weakness, weakness whether it's military or economic or in any other field, wears two masks.

"There are those who attack the necessity of strength with the claim that armaments cause conflict; the very fact that a nation is armed, that causes war. Well, the reverse is true. It is conflicts of vital interest which cause nations to build armaments.

"Nothing but patient, firm, hardheaded negotiations such as we're now conducting on several very important areas in the world can adjust those fundamental differences, and so pave the way for a safe reduction of armaments.

"To those who attack the morality of strength with claims that our defense establishment is 'militarist' and evil, we must reply, 'It is war that is evil, and the vigilance and the strength which prevents war is honorable and good.' Let's say that and let's stand for it."

Excellent Novel Of a Family

THEIRS WAS THE KINGDOM. By R. F. Delderfield. Simon and Schuster. $8.95.

If you liked Henry Fielding, John Galsworthy and, more recently, John O'Hara's long novels and Irwin Shaw's saga, "Rich Man, Poor Man," then R.F. Delderfield is your man also.

Delderfield is an author who has set himself the task of writing in five volumes the "account of one commercial family between the Indian Mutiny, in 1857, and the Investiture of the Prince of Wales ... in 1969."

The first volume was the 687-page "God Is An Englishman." The second is the 798-page "Theirs Was the Kingdom." The remaining three volumes presumably are in the works.

The family is that of Adam Swann, founder of a commercially successful carting firm and his wife, Henrietta. The first book in the series dealt with Adam and Henrietta. They still figure prominently in the second volume but much of the narrative is given over to their nine children and one adopted daughter.

By dealing the Swanns this many children, Delderfield, of course, made it easier for himself and vastly more interesting for the reader to illustrate the many aspects that made up the age in which his book is laid.

The author has written that, "The span of years, 1879-90, was a bonus. It was an age when the British Empire adapted to its almost accidental role of successor to Rome, when new inventions and new attitudes of mind were breaking through almost as dramatically as they have done in the post-Second World War period. This gave me plenty of elbow room, for Adam's children could go to work in a variety of theaters, most of which were not available to their father or their mother."

Alexander, the eldest son, is for example, a professional soldier. This choice of career gives Delderfield a chance to write tightly but descriptively of the now legendary battles at Isandlwana and Rorke's Drift. The reader can almost smell the gunpowder as he watches the slaughter of the English by the Zulus through Alexander's frightened eyes.

The commercial world of the time — and what a bustling place it must have been — largely is seen through Adam but another view of the same picture comes through the eyes of son George, who is slated to take over his father's vast enterprise and eventually does although not without some friction between the generations.

A look at the seamy side of London is given through the character of Deborah, the Swanns adopted daughter. And the picture the girl projects, through her work on a liberal newspaper, is not a pretty one.

The research Delderfield must have done to get the material with which to paint his vast canvas must have been staggering. But the careful use of all these details combined with excellent writing keeps the reader from ever feeling that he is being buried under a load of historical data.

Mrs. Symington Recuperating From Surgery

WASHINGTON (AP) - Mrs. Stuart Symington, wife of Missouri's Democratic senator, is recuperating in Georgetown University Hospital after undergoing "minor corrective surgery" Monday, the senator's office announced.

Nixon Invites Program Plugs By Cabinet Wives

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is encouraging Cabinet wives to go on radio-television talk shows to talk up his programs. But it seems doubtful many will follow the lead of Martha Mitchell.

Nixon tossed out the idea Monday at a two-hour Cabinet meeting to which wives of members were invited. The session included a full-scale briefing and review of economic policies, including the wage-pricefreeze effort to curb inflation.

Carol Finch, wife of presidential counselor Robert H. Finch, said the President "asked us as wives to go on talk shows" and to help where possible in promoting administration policies.

The President indicated, accordingly to Lenore Romney, wife of the secretary of Housing and Urban Development, that women often communicate better than political officials.

Mrs. Mitchell, wife of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and already a veteran of the Merv Griffin and Laugh-In shows and scheduled to appear on the Dinah Shore Show today, was ready to continue her efforts.

Pointing out President Nixon says "prosperity is a job for everyone," Mrs. Mitchell sent word through her secretary that she is going to do her best to help.

"The best way to find out whether Mrs. Mitchell will go on any talk shows," her secretary suggested, "is to invite her."

Honolulu Tries Computerized Car Pools To Cut Pollution

HONOLULU (AP) — With 300,000 cars choking its highways and spewing pollutants into its air, Honolulu is trying computerized car pooling in hopes of reducing its rush -hour traffic by 50 per cent or more.

This has been tried on a smaller scale by businesses and individuals elsewhere. But Honolulu wants to have the nation's first citywide and city-run computerized car pooling system.

The plan was announced this week by Mayor Frank F. Fasi and it will begin by pooling 7,000 city employees. At the same time a campaign is planned to get all of Honolulu's work force involved.

A city spokesman said that pooling among city employees alone will take an estimated 1,000 cars from the streets during rush hours.

The procedure is simple! Residents fill out cards, saying where they live and when and where they work. This information will be fed into the city's computer system, which will match a resident with four others. They then would share the same car.

A key figure in the effort is Clay Loges, a marketing representative for International Business Machines here who also runs the computer activities of Life of the Land, an ecology group involved in the project.

"We're trying to take a 'total approach' something that's never been tried anywhere else," said Loges. We're getting ideas from all across the nation and putting it all together in one package here. We've got the business communities interested and now we're going after the average commuter."

To do this, Loges said, the effort will include incentives for those who join car pools. One could be special lanes for pooling cars to make the ride to work and back home speedier. Another possibility is to assign the prime parking spots at city agencies and at cooperating businesses to cars used for pooling.

Viet Cong Restate Tough Peace Plan

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam and the Viet Cong restated today their seven-point peace plan in the hardest possible terms, indirectly repudiating a report from Sen. George S. McGovern that the Communist peace terms have softened.

The South Dakota Democrat spent six hours last week with Hanoi's chief negotiator, Xuan Thuy, and acting Viet Cong delegate Dinh Ba Thi. Prior to his departure for Saigon on Sunday, McGovern told a news conference the Communist delegates indicated to him they were prepared to abandon several of the key conditions in the peace plan.

At today's 129th weekly session of the Paris peace talks, Thuy reiterated that a total American withdrawal and the establishment of a government of "national concord" excluding President Nguyen Van Thieu remained the basic demands in the seven points.

"Settlement of these two basic points will facilitate the settlement of the others," Thuy said.

McGovern, a candidate for his party's presidential nomination, said Thuy repeatedly assured him Hanoi would accept a total U.S. withdrawal without insisting on the overthrow of Thieu as a prior condition for any settlement.

Thuy said today, "All strata of the South Vietnamese people resolutely demand that the United States abandon the bellicose ruling group headed by Nguyen Van Thieu and totally withdraw from South Vietnam...

Relatively Inexpensive Care

THE CASE OF THE WELL-HEELED PATIENT
By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

The McNamaras had a large family tree and, it seemed, they were still all living in the same house under the same roof. There were so many McNamaras around, in fact, that a distant relative was never more than two feet away.

Nevertheless, theonly real commotion caused in the house was caused when Dr. McNamara operated on his sister-in-law Mary and then handed her a bill for services rendered.

"You've got to be kidding," fumed the sister-in-law. "For all the years we've been living together in the same house, you've got some nerve trying to charge me. I never charged you for anything. And, over the years, I must have fried you a thousand eggs for breakfast." "It's not the same thing," retorted the doctor. "When a physician performs an operation, he's entitled to be paid. Particularly, when the patient has more money than he has. And, you're loaded and I need the money."

The family dispute ended up in court.

If you were the judge, would you make well-heeled Mary pay for her operation?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that, generally, where near relatives reside together as a family, services rendered by one member to another are presumed to be gratuitous. In this case, concluded the judge, there was no evidence to rebut that presumption. That with no prior agreement to the contrary, it was presumed that the operation would be performed free of charge. (Based upon a 1963 South Dakota Supreme Court Decision)

FUNNY BUSINESS — By Roger Bollen

Missouri Research On Moon Samples

ROLLA - University of Missouri research on noble gases in earth and meteorite specimens has revealed much about the history of the solar system. Now UMR researchers in noble gases will look at moon samples from the recent Apollo mission for more clues about the universe.

Dr. O. K. Manuel, associate professor of chemistry at UMR, was notified early this summer by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration of his selection as a principal investigator for lunar sample analysis at UMR. Following his selection, NASA granted $17.000 to UMR for research on noble gases in the moon and will soon send moon rocks to the campus for the investigation.

According to Dr. Manuel, who has headed the UMR research team on noble gases for six years, a mass spectrometer will be used to analyze the atoms of noble gases in the lunar samples. The results will allow researchers to compare the history of the moon with the record of events previously found in meteorites and in the earth.

Noble gases, he says, are five extremely rare elements which exist as gases - Helium, Neon, Argon, Krypton and Xenon - which generally do not combine with other elements to form compounds. For this reason, they are called noble.

"Because they are so extremely rare," Dr. Manuel says, "they are good subjects for information which indicates what happened in the universe eons ago."

According to Manuel, UMR's research team on noble gases recently found evidence confirming that the earth is about 4.6 billion years old in the discovery of the decay product of Iodine - 129 in samples taken from a New Mexico gas well. Iodine-129 was present 4.6 billion years ago but decayed away in a very early period of the earth's existence. One prime objective of the work on lunar samples, Dr. Manuel says, will be a search for the decay product of Iodine-129 in the moon.

Students on the noble gas research team who will be involved in the moon sample work with Dr. Manuel include: Mrs. M. S. Boulos, 215 Nagogami Terrace, Richard Beaty, 1110 Bishop, and Vic Becker, 403 Walnut, all in Rolla; E. W. Hennecke, Gordonville, B. Srinivasan, Bombay, India and David Sinclair, Minneapolis, Minn. All are Ph.D. candidates. Mrs. Phyllis Johnson, 209 Hwy. 63 S. in Rolla, takes care of the typing and bookkeeping for the group.

Srinivasan plans to complete degree requirements this fall and has accepted a position in the physics department of the University of California at Berkeley. There he will work with a former member of UMR's research team, Dr. E. C. Alexander Jr., who graduated from UMR in January 1970, and has since been actively involved in studies on lunar samples returned by previous Apollo Missions.

MARRIAGE ON THE ROCKS

A marriage-go-round of trouble spins out-of-control when naive housewife Lori Vancleve starts spending more time at the boutique of her swinging and single boss Hank Pendleton than at home with her loving but square husband Elton Vancleve.

Will Lori learn that her housework is more important than her job . . . or will her search for a little excitement destroy her marriage?

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Sept. 18, the 261st day of 1971. There are 104 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history!

On this date in 1959, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev addressed the U. N. General Assembly and called for the disarmament of all nations within the next four years.

On this date in 1759, Quebec was formally surrendered by the French to the British.

In 1793, President George Washington laid the cornerstone of the Capitol Building in Washington.

In 1810, Chile declared itself independent of Spain.

In 1850, Congress passed the Fugitive Slave Act, permitting a slave-owner possessing a certificate of ownership to reclaim any slave who escaped into another state.

In 1851, the first issue of the New York Times was published.

In 1931, Japan began the military occupation of Manchuria.

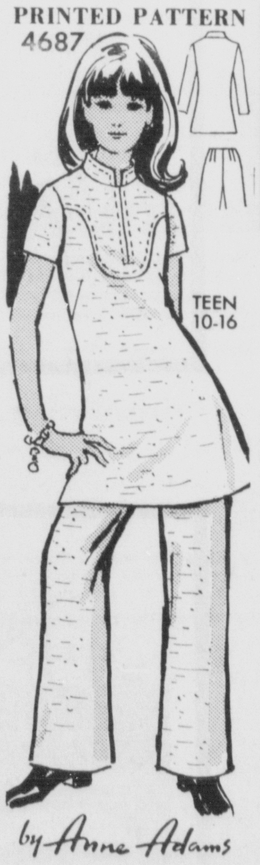

Ten years ago! Dag Hammerskjold, U. N. Secretary-General, was killed in a plane crash in northern Rhodesia.

Five years ago! The 21-year old daughter of now Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois was killed in a savage bedroom knife attack.

One year ago! A Greek court panel refused to indict millionaire Stavros Niarchos in the death of his wife.

submit budgets. The drive will be conducted for a 30-day period, Phillips announced.

Agencies receiving funds last year include Salvation Army, Christian Braille Foundation, New Madrid County Red Cross, New Madrid Youth Fund, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

"We hope the community will go all out in supporting the Community Fund drive this year and meet the quota to maintain these agencies," Phillips said.

The greater protion of donations, he said, remain in the community for benefit of youth, services to area servicemen and emergency assistance to community indigents.

Construction of a new highway bridge was halted recently to avoid disturbing about 65,000 ducks and geese. The World Almanac says. When migrant birds settled near the bridge site, wildlife officials ordered further work to be stopped, fearing that construction noises might have scared the birds away. Highway planners and builders are today striving to preserve and protect America's ecology.

The piranha is a deadly fish native to South American rivers. The piranha has powerful jaws and razor-sharp, triangular teeth that are capable of killing men and cattle, The World Almanac notes. A school of piranha can reduce an animal to a skeleton in a few minutes.

New Autos Thursday

SIKESTON MOTOR CO. SIKESTON, Mo. will have the full line of Ford Division's 1972 automobiles on sale during its new car introduction on September 24.

Highlighting new car offerings are the completely redesigned Toriono and Thurnderbirds featuring jamor under - the - skin changes and increased interior room.

Clint Elledge, said that the 1972 models could be the most successful in Ford Division's history. "President Nixon's bold new economic plan will strengthen Pinto and Maverick's position in the small car maket, and provide an excellent climate for the indroduction of our all -new Thunderbird and Torino," he declared.

The most changed offering in 1972 is the Torino. The popluar intermediate features new dimensions, sheet metal and chassis in its greatest change since it was introduced as the 1962 Fairlane.

Torino features body - on -frame construction, new front and rear suspensions and separate wheelbases for two -and four -door models. The interior features a new instrument panel and standard high -back front bench seats. For added safety, front disc brakes and side impact protection are standard.

Included among 1972 Tornio models are three two-door hardtops, three station wagons, two four-door pillared hardtops and a Sports Roof.

The 1972 Thunderbird features new exterior styling and significantly increased interior room. The Thunderbird, offered in a single two-door hardtop model, has a new front and a totally redesigned rear suspension system called "Posi-Ride." More interior space is permitted by the 3.5 inch increase in overall length.

Engineering refinements abound in the 1972 Maverick, Pinto and Mustang, while the Ford has new front and rear styles.

Wheat Being Seeded On Farms in Area

By Thomas A. Brown, Jr.

Wheat has already been seeded in some cases, and land is being prepared for seeding a large acreage of wheat as corn and other crops are being harvested.

While visiting with Milton Garner, a well known farmer in the Dexter area, I noticed that wheat was already coming up in one field on his farm. In checking with Mr. Garner, I learned that this wheat was of the Arthur variety which, according to him, has performed very well on his farm. Arthur seems to be the most popular wheat variety among Stoddard County farmers. It is a high yielding variety which is comparable to Monon in maturity and winter hardiness. It is shorter and stiffer strawed than Monon. Arthur has pretty good Hessian fly resistance and is moerdately resistant to leaf rust, stem rust, powdery mildew, loose smut and soil borne mosaic.

Wheat varieties recommended for use in this area other than Arthur include Benhur, Knox 62, Monon, Sadler.

Blueboy has been a popular variety in this area, and although its yields have been impressive, they have been offset to some extent by the low test weight. Test weights of as low as 46 were reported in this variety during the past two years, and many farmers were penalized at the market for these low test weights. This variety is four to five days later than Arthurand Monon and is susceptible to leaf rust, powdery mildew and Hessian fly. Some reports from North Carolina where this variety was developed inidcate that spectacular yields of this variety can be produced by the use of unusually high rates of nitrogen. Results of experimental tests at Portageville do not indicate this to be the case in this area.

Speaking of Arthur, a new variety known as Arthur 71 is being released by the University of Missouri Foundation Seed Stock Division. This variety is a backcross derivative of Arthur to add Hessian fly resistance of the "Riberio" type and the "transfer" type of resistance to leaf rust. It is a little taller, a few days later and a little lighter green in color than Arthur, but other characteristics are very simular to Arthur.

Malden Man's Horses Win at Fair

Community Development Talk Heard

HOWARDVILLE - New Madrid county Operation Shirtsleeves met at Howardville school Monday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. The speaker was Lou G. Gray, from community development extension of the University of Missouri Delta Center at Portageville.

This meeting brought together representatives of state and local agencies and citizens from nine neighboring communities.

The next meeting will be Oct. 11 at the Howardville school.

p-12 1-3-24 water for

Probably nothing is used more often in the home than water. By planning, water can make life more pleasant and convenient.

According to Richard Lacy, superintendent of water and sewage of the board of municipal utilities, a great amount of time and money can be saved if, when planning a new home, both future water needs and ease of maintenance are considered.

If the building budget does not permit immediate installation of some of the plumbing conveniences a family ultimately will want, it's a good idea to have the pipe for these conveniences stubbed-in at apoint of future use.

Provisions can be made in this way for the later addition of such things as a shower in the basement, an entertainment sink in the family room, a powder room or mud room.

The stubbed-in pipe can be capped and concealed by the walls and you can be given a plan of its location.

As needs grow, these home features can be installed with minimum wall breakage and at a substantial savings.

''Maintenance convenience is provided by shutoff valves installed at all main fixtures," officials of the board of municipal utilities said. "These valves enable the homeowner to shut off the water at one fixture in an emergency without shutting off the water in the home."

Man Arrested For Forgery

Sylvester Murphy of 215 Dixie was arrested by police on a felony charge of forgery and resisting arrest and Elvis Lee Kaiser of 205 East Murray Lane was cited for peace disturbance and public intoxication.

Other arrests include Glen D. Ferren, 106 East Front, public intoxication; James Marson Seay, 609 Dempster, peace disturbance; Robert Wallace, 134 Fourth St., careless driving and peace disturbance; Dora Yarber, 333 Dixie, disorderly conduct.

John Brannock, 306 Kramer, careless driving; Karen Dockins, 417 Missouri, careless driving; Glen Richardson, Matthews, petit larceny and carrying a concealed weapon; and Joe Marod James Jr., route three.

Charles E. Stallings, 121 Sixth St., assault and battery; Alfred Lawrence, College City, Ark., peace disturbance; and Curtis Dacus, 706 Montgomery, careless driving.

Mardi Gras, the French name for Shrove Tuesday, is the last day before the fasting season of Lent. The World Almanac says that in various countries the day is celebrated by spectacular parades, street dancing and masked balls. The most colorful carnivals are held in New Orleans, Rio de Janeiro, Cologne and Nice.
